D. C. Halves School Milk Program for Rest of Term

Cent-Plus Increase In Cost, Greater Demand by Pupils Blamed for Move

By Elsie Carper
Post Reporter

The penny milk program for school children has been cut in half as of last Monday.

Superintendent of Schools Hobart M. Corning told the Board of Education yesterday the program was cut because of increases in the cost of milk and in the number of children participating.

He told board members that unless Congress makes additional money available, the 50 per cent cut will continue the remainder of the school year.

The board voted to ask the Commissioners to seek needed funds from Congress.

Principals Distribute Milk

Schools are now receiving one half of their order and each principal must determine the best method of distributing milk in the school, Corning said.

Most principals are meeting the problem by giving the milk this week to half the grades and next week to the other grades.

Corning said that the program since October 1 has cost $40,894.17, as compared with $27,383.70 spent a year ago.

Seventy-three schools participated in the program last year. Currently 92 schools are receiving the half-pint bottles each day and seven additional schools have applied for the program, Corning said.

Miss Bertha Taylor, head of the penny-milk program in the white schools, said that the cost of the half-pint bottles went up the first of the year from approximately 3.9 cents to more than 5.

Under the penny-milk program 1 cent of the cost is paid by the pupil, 2 cents by the Federal Government and the remainder by the District government.

In other actions yesterday the board:

1. Referred to its committee on personnel and legislation a resolution calling for Board-of-Education control of medical services in the schools and an increase in the number of health inspectors and first-aid assistants assigned to the schools.

The resolution introduced by Dr. James Gannon, physician member of the board, said that the present service under the Health Department has been "unsatisfactory for a long time."

Storm Blocks Aid to 780 on Sinking Ship

Tokyo (Thursday), Jan. 8 (AP).—The Russian ship Dvina with one lifeboat for 780 passengers was sinking in a storm off the coast of Japan tonight and a nearby rescue vessel messaged doubt that those aboard can be taken off.

A B-29 plane flying over the stricken vessel reported the ship might go under by dawn. The Dvina was shipping water fast and had a list of at least 40 degrees.

The rescue ship reported rough seas and high winds interferred with removal of the passengers.

Seven American rescue planes and six American-directed surface vessels, the latter manned by Japanese, were mobilized for assistance. Other B-29 and several B-17 planes were circling the storm scene, United States Far East Air Force officers said.

The 1773-ton Dvina herself mystified American officers here. None knew she was in the area, what passengers she carried or her destination. Occupation authorities said she could not be repatriating Japanese from the Kuriles, since Russia has suspended that operation until spring, and since no Soviet vessels have ever been used.

A Soviet Embassy official here said he knew nothing about the ship.

Georgia Plane Crash Kills 17 En Route to Puerto Rico

Sevannah, Ga., Jan. 7 (AP).—A chartered plane with both engines rasping and loaded with homeward-bound Puerto Ricans drove headlong into a desolate Savannah River marsh today and exploded, killing 17 of the 26 persons aboard and injuring nine.

The dead included Alvino Antonioli, the pilot.

[Antonioli's mother, Mrs. Mary Rossi Antonioli, lives at 600 N. Columbus st., Alexandria. Antonioli was born in Sicily and came to the United States with his parents when an infant.—Editor's note.]

Raymond Eick of Trenton, N. J., copilot and only other crew member aboard the DC-3, was among the survivors.

The passengers, with the exception of a young soldier and a travel agent, were Puerto Ricans en route to their homeland from New York.

One of the survivors, Octavio Pinol of San Juan, told newsmen that "the motors didn't sound so good when we took off from Philadelphia and from Raleigh."

Eick said the plane, a converted Army C-47, operated by Coastal Airlines, a charter service, had trouble in the fuel feeding system while flying at about 3000 feet. Before he could alert all the passengers, the plane began to lose altitude. Eick said he headed back for the control compartment, but before he could reach the controls, one wing struck the marshland.

The copilot was blown clear of the wreckage by the explosion that followed. Rescuers found him clothed only in a necktie and shoes. Eick said all the survivors were blown clear of the ship

Morgenthau 'Short' Trader In Corn, Listing Indicates

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

Last June 30, just as the price of corn began its sensational summer upward swing, Henry Morgenthau, jr., former Secretary of the Treasury, was on the "wrong side of the market," it was revealed yesterday.

On June 30, when July corn closed at $2.04¼, Morgenthau was "short" 195,000 bushels, the Commodity Exchange Authority's newest release of traders' names reported.

One week later, on July 7, the same future closed at $2.16⅝. The other futures contracts showed similar gains in the same period. September corn went from $1.82⅛ to $1.92⅝; December and May corn both shot up.

In admitting that his venture in corn has cost him money, Morgenthau told the Associated Press last night:

"It is obvious I had no inside information."

Morgenthau's account was listed as "speculative." Speculators on the "short" side can profit only if the market goes down—when it goes up they lose.

The New Deal fiscal expert was only one of 4350 traders who were in the Chicago corn market June 30, Agriculture Secretary Anderson reported. Although all reports from the Midwest Corn Belt had been bullish—with rains flooding hundreds of thousands of the Nation's best corn-producing acres, a vast majority of the traders were betting that the market would go down. Instead, it kept rising until it set new all-time highs on all exchanges.

Among those on the right side of the market—and in a big way—was Edwin W. Pauley and members of his family. Pauley was appointed special assistant to Secretary of the Army Kenneth Royall about two months later—on September 3.

Pauley had 350,000 bushels on the "long" side at that time. Elbert L. Pauley, his father, was "long" 50,000 bushels; his brother, Harold R. Pauley, was "long" 100,000 bushels, and Harold's wife, Aileen T. Pauley, was "long" 100,000—a

8 Held in Raid On $500,000 Numbers Ring

Organization's No. 2 Man Seized in Hide-out, Vice Squad Chief Says

Police yesterday raided "the headquarters of a $500,000-a-year numbers ring," and arrested eight alleged members, one of them a woman.

Members of Lieut. Roy Blick's vice squad, led by Detective Sergt. Howard Ogle and Detective William McEwen, arrested two alleged pickup men on the streets before raiding the ring's rooms at 309 I st. nw.

At the headquarters, the haul included Lyman D. Strong, 49, of 2015 15th st. nw. Blick described him as No. 2 man in the organization, second in command only to the "backer," who was not apprehended.

Others arrested were:

Curtis Walls, 21, of 408 New York ave. nw.

Edward G. Jackson, 48, of 212 L st. sw.

Willie H. Daley, 21, of 316 16th st. se.

Bertha A. Helim, 18, of 916 1st st. nw.

Ralph L. Young, 30, of 901 4th st. nw.

Joe Freeman, 33, of 403 K st. nw.

Charles H. Jones, 31, of 309 I st. nw.

One Man Arrested Twice In Day

One of the eight, Walls, had the distinction of being twice arrested by the vice squad men during the day.

Walls was arrested at 12:30 p.m. in his car at New York and New Jersey aves. nw. Police had followed him, watched him make several stops and then forced his car to the curb.

Walls was taken to headquarters and charged with possession of lottery slips. He also was booked for two traffic violations, using improper tags and failing to give a hand signal. Strong came to head-

To Block Strikebreakers

Mass Picketing Today Planned By Leaders of GSI Walkout

By Frank Wilder
Post Reporter

Union leaders of the strike against 42 Government Services cafeterias announced plans last night for mass picketing to keep "strikebreakers" from going to work this morning.

The sudden switch in strategy came as the 40 operating GSI cafeterias offered near-normal service to more than half of their 80,000 regular customers on the strike's third day.

More than 1000 pickets, members of Local 471, United Cafeteria and Restaurant Workers (UPW-CIO) are expected to concentrate at 3 or 4 locations beginning at 5 a. m.

Lawrence Kammett, public relations director for the local's parent union, United Public Workers (CIO), named the Interior Department cafeteria as one of the chosen locations.

"The pickets will try to reason with the strikebreakers," Kammett said. "There will be sufficient pickets at each spot to make it difficult to gain access to the building."

Lieut. Harry C. Blackman, head of the official investigations squad, said last night District police will not interfere with pickets as long as they keep moving. Attempts to

Allies Urge 'Ersatz' Reich Government

U. S. and Britain Offer Five-Point Plan to Leaders of Western Germany

By Edwin Hartrich

Frankfurt, Jan. 7 (NYHT).—Formation of an "ersatz" government of western Germany was proposed here today by the heads of the American and British military government to German political leaders of these two zones.

Emphasizing that this is a "proposal—not a dictate," Gen. Lucius D. Clay and Sir Brian Robertson, the American and British military governors, outlined to the German politicians the Allied plan to organize "Bizonia" into a quasi-government just short of giving it political sovereignty.

The American and British five-point proposal called for:

1. Doubling the size of the economic council, a quasi-parliament to 104 members to make it more representative.

"Economic Senate" Urged

2. Creation of a second house or "economic senate" directly representative of the eight land governments of the two zones.

3. Establishment of a "cabinet," whose chairman would be the chief of Bizonia and who would be selected by the enlarged economic council. Members of the cabinet would be the heads of the five Bizonal agencies.

4. Providing Bizonia with its own judiciary system, with power to override and penalize the various state governments.

5. Establishment of a central, state-owned "land bank" empowered to issue currency and control credit and credit instruments.

Germans Answer Today

At the same time it was planned that American-British supervisory bureau would be streamlined into what observers escribe as "an economic SHAEF." Control of this organization will be jointly shared by its present American and British co-chairmen, Clarence L. Adcock and Lieut. Gen. Sir Gordon Macready. The Americans will control directly, with British deputies, the Bizonal agencies of economies, food and agriculture, and civil service, the British, with American deputies, will supervise finance, communications and the transport agencies.

Today's history-making conference will be continued tomorrow when the German political leaders will answer the American and British proposals or make their own suggestions.

May Take Effect April 1

Members of General Clay's staff indicated that if there is a general agreement, April 1 will be target date for the establishment of this "ersatz" government that is not officially labeled a government.

General Robertson said "we are completely attached to the objective—a united Germany governed by a German government capable of governing properly."

"We are not recognizing a division of Germany . . . nor are we writing off a part of Germany (the Soviet zone) which cannot now be included in these proposals."

General Clay warned that "once more" he would ask the Russians and the French in the Allied Control Council to underwrite a common currency reform for all of Germany. His inference was unmistakable: If the Soviets failed to agree to such reform, then Bizonia would issue its own currency and thus erect an almost insurmountable economic barrier down the center of occupied Germany.

Senate Unit Offers 5 Entries For 'Miss Government Girl'

The Senate Postoffice and Civil Service Committee put in a five-way claim for the "Miss Government Girl" title yesterday.

The Senate committee supplied this number of entries in the contest sponsored by The Washington Post, the purpose of which is to select a girl working for the Federal Government in Washington to serve as a model in a coming sequence in the Mary Worth comic strip.

The entrants are Mary Irwin, 40, of 209 Prince st., Alexandria; Anna May Baca, 22, of 2145 California st. nw.; Mrs. Colette Homan of 1815 P st. se., Lee Betsch, 23, of 1620 Fuller st. nw., and Dorothy Lynott, 33, of 2480 16th st. nw.

Miss Irwin, whose home is Short Hills, N. J., has been with the committee since last spring and is assistant chief clerk. During the war she worked for two years with the Office of Scientific Research and Development. She left Government service for a brief spell after the war to work with the Bell Laboratories in New York City.

Miss Baca has been with the committee for nearly a year, as a clerk. Her home is in Albuquerque, N. Mex., and she attended the University of New Mexico before coming to Washington to become a Government girl. She is still thrilled with Washington.

"Now I know how the laws are made," she said with a laugh.

Like many other Government girls she shares an apartment. Her roommates are two sisters, young misses from Puerto Rico. One is a United Nations organization employe, the other a student at Roosevelt High School.

Mrs. Homan's home is Bismarck, N. Dak., and before joining the committee last January she served for six years as a secretary to Senator William Langer (R., N. Dak.).

She has a son, Ben. F. Homan, who lives in Evanston, Ill.

Miss Betsch is another North Dakota girl, hailing from Streeter, N. Dak. She graduated from Dakota Business College at Fargo, N. Dak., before becoming a G-Girl.

For about five years she was secretary to the chief of the division of foreign service personnel at the State Department. Last December 15 she moved her talents to the Senate committee.

Miss Lynott, a native of Duluth, Minn., is not exactly a new hand as a Government Girl. She has been with the Senate committee only about a year, but prior

Truman Asks $40 Tax Slash, Urges New Deal Social Aims; Congress Cold to Message

UMT Change Would Spare Two Million

Officials Drafting Bill to Set Up Program Gradually Over 4-Year Period

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Nearly two million youths now in their teens—slated for call under the pending Universal Military Training bill—would escape induction under a revision of UMT plans proposed by defense chiefs.

Ranking officials of the Army, Navy and Air Force now are working on extensive changes in the program which they hope to have ready for Congress late this month. Two major alterations, already agreed to in principle and certain of final recommendation by the defense departments, are:

1. A GRADUAL institution of the training program, under which no one would be called the first year, only about one-third of the million youths reaching the age of 18 annually would be inducted the second year, two-thirds the following year and the complete "18-year-old class" the fourth year.

2. DECISION by the Navy to carry on all of its training ashore. About half of the originally estimated annual cost of the Navy UMT program—759 millions—would be saved by this change.

Designed to Save Money

The gradual introduction of UMT favored by defense officials is designed to save money during the next three years and also to assure that the program would be working smoothly before the young men are put into uniform.

But the big fact for the teenagers who may be involved is that those not called when they are 18 would not be inducted the next year.

Impractical "Backlog" Seen

Rear Admiral Thomas Sprague, chief of naval personnel, who has been meeting with Army and Air Force representatives on the problem this week, told The Washington Post they had agreed that any attempt to consider youths a second time during the first years of the program would build up an impractical "backlog."

Therefore, he said, they have concluded that 18-year-olds not called the first year probably will be considered to have discharged their liability for a year's training.

Under the same policy, present 18- and 19-year-olds who were not called under the old Selective System would not be required to undergo universal military training. They will be 19 or older by the time the first youths would be called if the program is approved by Congress this year.

State of the Union

Five Goals for the Future Proposed by Truman

Five goals for the future were defined by President Truman yesterday in his State of the Union Message to Congress. The goals and the steps he recommended to reach them are:

First Goal

"To secure fully the essential human rights of our citizens."

To be reached by following the recommendations of the Civil Rights Commission through measures the President will present in a special message later on.

Second Goal

"To protect and develop our human resources."

To be gained by:

Increasing Social Security benefits.
Widening Social Security coverage.
Providing a national system of medical care insurance.
Federal aids to education.
A department of health, education and security.
A long-range housing program.
Extended and strengthened rent control.

Third Goal

"To conserve and use our natural resources so that they can contribute most effectively to the welfare of our people."

To be attained by:

An expanded reclamation program.
River plans like the Tennessee Valley Administration.

Fourth Goal

"To lift the standard of living for all our people by strengthening our economic system and sharing more broadly among our people the goods we produce."

To be sought by:

Increasing annual output by one-third.
More crop insurance.
Higher minimum wages, raised from 45 to 75 cents an hour.
Encouragement to farm cooperatives.
School-lunch programs.
Higher incomes for low income group.

Fifth Goal

"To achieve world peace based on principles of freedom and justice and the equality of all nations."

To be furthered by:

Supporting the United Nations.
Reviving world trade.
Maintaining a strong armed force.
Establishing Universal Military Training.
Admitting displaced persons to the United States.
Extending Reciprocal Trade Agreement Program.
Approving the European Recovery Program.
Providing Special Assistance to China.

Truman to Ask Big Warplane Budget Boost

President Truman will present a 10-billion-dollar defense budget to Congress next week calling for substantial increases for aviation and reductions in military manpower.

As finally written, congressional leaders learned, the 1949 budget will provide:

1. Cash and contract authority for ordering approximately 2000 new Air Force and Navy planes, totaling close to 30 million airframe pounds in weight. Current plane procurement totals about 1400 warplanes.

2. An Army of just under 500,000 officers and men—some 170,000 below authorized strength. This is not a cut ordered by the Administration, but a forecast of the size force that can be maintained next year under volunteer recruiting. The Army already is close to 100,000 men short and losing ground steadily.

3. A naval operating fleet slightly smaller than this year, manned by an average of 365,000 to 370,000 enlisted men. This is about the total strength the Navy will have next June, after reducing from 430,000 men last summer to an average of 390,000 men for the fiscal year.

A small "prototype" naval shipbuilding program is allowed, under which some warships of new design will be laid down. The estimates also provide for a Marine

Party Lines Fall in Ovation For Marshall

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

Secretary of State George C. Marshall was a man apart at the Capitol yesterday.

In an atmosphere rife with partisanship, he was perhaps the only American not suspected of having a political ax to grind.

Accordingly, the 500 or more men and women who make up the Congress gave the great soldier-statesman a rising ovation as he entered the House chamber. Party lines fell as Republicans and Democrats alike rose to their feet, applauding.

Old-timers on the Hill said that they had never seen anything like it. Foreign diplomats, worried about the fate of the "Marshall Plan," noted the extraordinary tribute, and smiled. It was something to write home about.

The demonstration for Marshall, which came before President Truman entered the chamber to deliver his controversial message on the State of the Union, was especially striking because of the intense political feeling that otherwise existed.

Mr. Truman, at the outset of his message, said that "the Congress and the President should concentrate their attention, not upon party but upon country . . ."

Perhaps this was asking too much in a year which will see the two parties battle for control of Congress and the White House. At

Disappointment Unconcealed

Truman Fails to Ask Congress For Home Rule for District

By Edward Ryan
Post Reporter

President Truman yesterday passed up an opportunity to boost the Auchincloss plan for home rule for the District of Columbia.

In his state of the Union message, the Chief Executive asked Congress to extend statehood to Hawaii and Alaska, but made no mention of suffrage for the District of Columbia.

Sponsors of the Auchincloss bill to extend home rule to the District made no secret of their disappointment. The omission was considered significant in view of the fact that the subcommittee perfecting the measure had called upon the President to indorse the plan.

Truman previously went on record in favor of suffrage for the District. He was the first President to do so.

The Auchincloss plan calls for turning District affairs over to a locally elected city council and a city manager appointed by the council. Both Congress and the President would retain final control over major District lawmaking through a veto power.

There was speculation that the President would tie the question of District home rule into a

European Aid, Inflation Issue Given Secondary Places in Speech

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

President Truman yesterday set Congress back on its heels with a 45-minute revival of all of Franklin D. Roosevelt's social aims plus an entirely new wrinkle in low income tax relief.

In a speech received mostly in frigid silence, Mr. Truman pinned the New Deal label back on his party and added this tax plank: A $40 tax cut for every individual and dependent, to be paid out of increased taxes on corporations.

The novel "cost of living" tax proposal got some scattered applause from Democrats, spurred on by a gallery demonstrator, but only six times was there even a rustle in the chamber.

Defense Brings Brief Cheers

Re-emphasized pleas for a four-year European Recovery program and all ten of his anti-inflation points, the two great focal issues before Congress, were almost buried in a speech devoted mainly to five broad social and economic goals reminiscent of the Roosevelt "Economic Bill of Rights."

Neither the Marshall Plan, never mentioned by that name, nor his inflation control program, received any applause. Members thawed, however, to briefly cheer his pledge of a strong defense arm and some listlessly applauded his call for military training.

Republicans broke the first 25 minutes of complete silence with ice-breaking handclaps when Mr. Truman promised to carry out the Taft-Hartley Act to the letter despite his opposition to it. But they laughed aloud when he said Federal costs had been and must be held down.

Bid for Wallace Charged

In its reaffirmation of the human rights aims of his White House predecessor, the joint session address harked back to Mr. Truman's September, 1945, speech that ended his Congressional honeymoon.

Then as yesterday, conservative Democrats took a dim view of it and Republicans shouted he had gone over to the left wing. Yesterday's favorite GOP comment, repeated so often that it became a refrain: "He out-Walleced Wallace." Some even charged it was a bid for Henry to come home."

Mr. Truman, however, wasn't speaking merely to the expressionless faces out in front of him. He was appealing over their heads to the country as Mr. Roosevelt had done so often before him.

Neutral observers, for example, noted that his proposed $40 tax cut for every individual and dependent, was set out in terms that every working man can grasp without the usual interminable tax exemption calculations.

Tax Position Maintained

He assessed the $3,200,000,000 cost against corporate profits, "with appropriate adjustment for small corporations," thus maintaining his position against any net cut in revenues "until inflation has been stopped."

"Many of our families today are suffering hardship because of the high cost of living," he said. "At the same time profits of corporations reached an all-time record in 1947 . . .

"I recommend therefore that, effective January 1, 1948, a cost of living tax credit be extended to our people consisting of a credit of $40 to each individual taxpayer and an additional credit of $40 for each dependent . . . the credit would be extended to all taxpayers, but it would be particularly helpful to those in the low-income group . . .

"This reduction should be made up by increasing the tax on corporate profits in an amount that will produce this sum . . . this is the proper method of tax relief at this time. It gives relief to those who need it most without cutting the total tax revenue of the Government."

As an answer to the GOP's Knutson $5,600,000,000 general tax slash, chiefly benefitting the upper brackets, Republicans were the last to discount its political appeal. Noting the President spread relief where the votes lie, they angrily charged "politics."

$40 Cut in Taxes Urged by Truman

but Administration tax spokesmen on both sides of the Capitol said the President's plan will be offered as a substitute for the Knutson bill in committee. Republicans claimed the votes to smother it, and enough more to override a certain presidential veto of their own bill.

Delivering what amounted to a Democratic platform, five months before his party's Philadelphia convention, the President answered Henry Wallace's third party bolt in this way:

1. He served notice on the country that regardless of the heavy burden of restoring western Europe and other obligations abroad, the Administration has abandoned none of its progressive goals on the home front.

2. Without mentioning Wallace by name, he wrote a speech within a speech denying the Iowan's charge that Administration policies lead to war.

Aims Declared Peaceful

"We are fighting poverty, hunger and suffering," said Mr. Truman. "This leads to peace—not war."

"We are building toward a world where all nations, large and small alike, may live free from the fear of aggression.

"This leads to peace—not war.

"Above all else, we are striving to achieve a concord among the peoples of the world based upon the dignity of the individual and the brotherhood of man.

"This leads to peace—not war."

Prompt Recovery Action Urged

He termed the four-year program for European Recovery a "decisive contribution to world peace" and asked Congress to "act promptly on this vital measure."

Then he promised to submit a "special program" for assistance to China. Congress last session jumped the gun by designating China, in the interim aid bill, for token relief.

He reaffirmed American support of the United Nations, despite "unforeseen and unwelcome difficulties" and linked world recovery with revival of world trade.

To help restore the war-shattered world trading system, he called for extension of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act and continued support of the International Trade Organization "through which we hope to obtain worldwide agreement on a code of fair conduct in international trade."

Five Goals Outlined

He grouped the bulk of his recommendations under these five goals, which he said should be fully realized in the next 10 years: (1) to secure fully the essential human rights of our citizens, (2) to protect and develop our human resources, (3) to conserve and use our natural resources to contribute most effectively to the welfare of our people, (4) to lift the standard of living of all by strengthening our economic system and sharing more broadly the goods we produce and (5) to achieve world peace based on principles of freedom and justice and the equality of all nations.

Discrimination Deplored

He called for more specific action on these points:

Removal of discrimination based on race, creed, color or land of origin as "utterly contrary to American ideals of democracy." He promised a special message supplementing recent sweeping recommendations of the President's Committee on Civil Rights.

Modernization of present price supports for major farm commodities, a strengthened crop insurance program, expansion of REA, and an adequately financed school lunch program.

Investment of at least 50 billion dollarrs by industry to improve and expand our productive facilities over the next few years.

Appropriations for proper enforcement of present antitrust laws, strengthening of statutes to protect competition.

An increase in the minimum wage floor from 40 cents to 75 cents an hour.

Russia Hit Indirectly

Mr. Truman never mentioned communism or Russia by name. But he hit at totalitarian ideologies indirectly in his premable, with this credo of American faith:

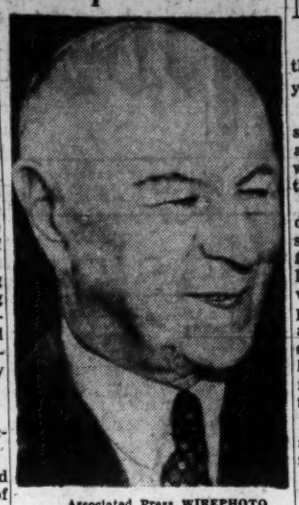

"The basic source of our strength is spiritual. For we are a people of faith. We believe in the dignity of man. We believe that he was created in the image of the Father of us all.

"We do not believe that men exist merely to strengthen the state or to be cogs in an economic machine. We do not believe that governments are created to serve the people and that conomic systems exist to minister to their wants. We have a profound devotion to the welfare and rights of the individual as a human being."

He referred again to an unnamed Russia when he spoke of United Nations "difficulties" and later when he said peace agreements for Germany, Austria, Japan and Korea "have so far been blocked."

There was one more plain reference when he said the situation in Greece and Turkey might be "radically different" today had it not been for American aid.

Boy, Mother Win $20,000 Damages In Traffic Suit

Bernard Williams, 14, and his mother, Mrs. Eva Vance, yesterday were awarded $20,000 damages by a District Court jury for injuries the boy suffered last July when struck by an auto in Cheverly, Md.

The jury was asked to determine the amount of damages, following an earlier default judgment when Ralph O'Neal of Glendale, Md., failed to defend the suit filed against him.

The boy was awarded $15,000 for foot injuries and his mother $5000 for expenses. They live at 520 E st. nw.

The suit named O'Neal and his wife as joint owners of the car. Mrs. O'Neal was driving at the time of the accident, the suit charged. She was not asked to appear in court, however, and the verdict was returned against O'Neal, alleged to be riding in the car with her.

The boy testified that two of his toes were amputated and the skin had to be grafted over his foot as a result of the accident.

Legionnaires Offer Services

The services of Washington Legionnaires—as volunteer workers in recreational agencies—yesterday were offered the Council of Social Agencies.

Jack P. Houlihan, council recreation secretary, said the proposal was made by Joseph Rogers, chairman of the local legion's youth division, at the monthly training conference of the council's recreation division, at Merrick Boys' Club, 608 Massachusetts ave. ne. Houlihan said he would survey the need for adult volunteer leadership and report his findings at a legion meeting Wednesday.

Abstract of Chief Executive's Message on State of Union

The President, in his State of the Union message to Congress yesterday, said that:

Congress and the President should concentrate upon country and not upon party, on things which bind us together and not things which divide us.

We have been through a difficult decade, but its hardships have strengthened our courage and confidence in democracy. We should look ahead to the next 10 years with determination to build upon past accomplishments and to achieve a glorious future. We should look ahead to goals that have the greatest bearing upon the foundations of our democracy and the happiness of our people.

Our first goal should be the essential human rights of our citizens. Any denial of these is a denial of basic democratic beliefs. Some of our citizens are still denied equal chance for schooling, jobs, pay, expression and the ballot. Discrimination is contrary to American ideals. The President's Committee on Civil Rights points to some needed action and measures will be recommended in a special message later. Alaska and Hawaii should be admitted to the Union to give their people full civil rights.

Our second goal is to protect and develop our human resources. Health, education and social security and housing of the people must be assured. Our social security system is only half finished and must be extended to millions not now protected. The level of benefits must be raised. Most of our people cannot afford to pay for medical, care. There must be a national system of payment for medical care based on well-tried insurance principles. Opportunity for education must be made more nearly equal. Al ithese problems are so important that there should be an executive department to take care of health, education and security. We must see that every American family has a decent home and as an immediate step we need the long-range housing program already recommended. Rent control must be extended and strengthened until housing shortage is overcome. All but a few veterans have successfully readjusted to civilian life.

Our third goal is to conserve and use our natural resources so that they can contribute most effectively to the welfare of our people. We are doing less than we know how to do to make use of our resources without destroying them. We must conserve our mineral resources and develop new supplies and build stockpiles of scarce materials. We must protect land against erosion, and rebuild soil fertility. We must expand our reclamation program to bring millions of acres of arid land into production. We should achieve the wise use of resources through the integrated development of our great river basins. We should apply the lessons of the TVA to other river basins.

Our fourth goal is to lift the standard of living by strengthening our economic system and sharing more broadly among our people the goods we produce. We have made great progress in the last decade. There are 14 million more jobs than there were in 1938. eYarly output of goods and services is up two thirds. Average income, in 1938 dollars, after taxes, is up 50 per cent. We can increase our output by at least one third and lift our standard of living to nearly double that of 10 years ago. Inequality between the incomes of farm and non-farm people should be eliminated within the next 10 years. We need to continue price supports for major farm commodities on a basis which will afford reasonable protection against fluctuations in the levels of production and demand. The present price support program must be reexamined and modernized. Crop insurance should be strengthened. Cooperatives must be encouraged. The school lunch program should be continued. We need to go on with rural electrification.

Another basic element of a strong economic system is the well-being of wage earners. The Government has wisely chosen to set a floor under wages. But our 40-cent minimum wage is inadequate and obsolete. Lifting the minimum to 75 cents an hour is recommended. In general we must rely on collective bargaining to set wage scales. Workers' incomes should increase at a rate consistent with the maintenance of sound price, profit and wage relationships and with increasing productivity. The President's attitude on the Labor-Management Relations Act of 1947 (Taft-Hartley law) was made clear in the veto message last June. Nothing has changed the President's opinion.

All of us must advance together. One-fifth of our families now have annual incomes less than $850. We must see that our gains are made more largely available to those with low incomes.

Our fifth goal is world peace based on freedom and justice and equality of all nations. We are giving and will continue to give our full support to the United Nations. While that organization has encountered unforeseen and unwelcome difficulties, the President is confident of its ultimate success. We are also devoting our efforts toward world economic recovery and revival of world trade.

We look forward to the day when armaments can be cut but we must maintain strong armed forces as long as there is serious opposition to the ideals of a peaceful world. The National Security Act was a notable step toward security but early provision for universal military training is even more important.

Had it not been for American aid, things would be different for Greece and Turkey. Their continued integrity will affect the whole Middle East. Our efforts to make peace with Germany, Austria, Japan and Korea have been blocked but we are still working for satisfactory settlements.

Many thousands of displaced persons, still in camps overseas, should be allowed entry into the United States. Congress should pass legislation that will permit us to care for homeless and suffering refugees of all faiths. Their admission will add to the strength and energy of this Nation.

To restore world trade we must extend the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act and support the International Trade Organization. Our major effort toward economic reconstruction is the recovery program developed by the countries of Europe. When the European economy is strengthened, the product of its industry will be of benefit to many other areas. We shall continue our cooperation in the Western Hemisphere. A special program for China will be submitted to Congress.

Unfortunately not all governments share the hope of this country that economic reconstruction can be achieved. In spite of these differences we will go forward.

It is of the highest importance that Congress authorize the European recovery program for the period from April 1, 1948, to June 30, 1952, with an initial amount for the first 15 months of $6,800,000,000.

Inflation in this country is undermining the living standards of millions of families. It holds the threat of another depression. Prices have continued to rise. We must stop the spiral of inflation. Congress should make available to the government weapons needed to fight inflation. Excess of Government revenues over expenditures is one anti-inflationary factor. Government revenues must not be reduced. There should be no cut in taxes that is not offset by additions at another point in our tax structure.

Many families are suffering from high living costs but corporate profits reached an all-time record in 1947. Effective January 1, it is recommended that there be extended a cost of living credit of $20 to each individual tax payer and to each of his dependents. It is estimated that such a tax credit would reduce the Federal Revenue by 3.2 billion dollars. This reduction should be made up by increasing the tax on corporate profits in an amount that will produce this sum—with appropriate adjustment for small corporations. This is the proper method of tax relief at this time. It gives relief to those who need it most without cutting the total tax revenue of the Government.

any rate, it had been pretty much forgotten when Mr. Truman finished. The Republicans looked upon the message as Mr. Truman's personal platform for '48, and said so vehemently.

The Chief Executive, wearing a blue business suit, was given a friendly greeting by both Democrats and Republicans as he walked into the chamber. He was applauded again as he mounted the dais and said he hoped the members had a pleasant holiday season and would not have to work too hard in the coming year.

Thereafter, the bursts of applause seemed as far apart as pay days.

Wallace Supporter Leads Cheers

Twice there was a demonstration in the galleries, led by Mrs. Delia Weimer. The handclapping broke out the first time when Mr. Truman said that the tax burden should be eased for those least able to pay. It came again when he said corporations ought to make up the tax revenue that is forgiven the little fellows.

It turned out that Mrs. Weimer, who lives at 3501 Carpenter st. se., was the wife of John H. Weimer, secretary to Representative Thomas E. Morgan (D., Pa.).

Talking to reporters later about her cheer-leading act, Mrs. Weimer said:

"I just decided it was time that somebody got up enough nerve to applaud. They were all sitting on their hands."

Mrs. Weimer said that she was a member of the Progressive Citizens Association, which is supporting Henry A. Wallace for President.

"I'm going to vote for Wallace unless that fellow (Mr. Truman) gets a liberal running mate," she said.

Husband for Truman

Her husband made it clear later that Mrs. Weimer was talking for herself, not the head of the family.

"I'm supporting President Truman myself," he said. "I'm not for Wallace."

President Truman, in his ride to the Capitol, was accompanied by two White House secretaries, Charles G. Ross and Matthew J. Connelly. In the next car were the First Lady and Miss Margaret Truman, and in the one after that Clark Clifford, counsel to the President; Brig. Gen. Wallace Graham, White House physician, and Eben Ayers, assistant press secretary.

Mr. Truman was in the Speaker's office, waiting for his cue to enter the House chamber, when the demonstration for Secretary Marshall occurred.

Other Cabinet officers had taken their seats in the kleiglighted chamber, but Marshall was two minutes late. When he finally entered and took a seat at the end of the line, a few handclaps sounded on the Democratic side of the aisle.

Gradually, as others saw Marshall, the applause began exploding on both sides of the aisle. Meantime, Secretary of Defense James Forrestal was urging the soldier-statesman to take his rightful No. 1 place in the Cabinet line. When Marshall got up to comply, all could see him.

Spontaneously, the whole Congress arose to show its affection and admiration.

Truman to Ask Big Increase For Warplanes in Arms Budget

Corps of one-fifth the manpower strength of the Navy—the traditional ratio.

4. An Air Force of 54 combat groups, manned by approximately 400,000 officers and men.

Moneywise the 1949 defense budget will closely approximate that of the current year. Estimated expenditures next year are a fraction under fiscal year 1948, while new appropriations are said to be 300 to 400 millions above the '48 total of 9.5 billions.

To Liquidate Contracts

The additional cosh lagrely goes to liquidate aircraft procurement contracts that Congress authorized last year to be let, but for which no funds were voted.

There were several last-minute revisions of the new aircraft procurement program. At one time, the total cash and contract authorization for new planes and research and development by aircraft manufacturers totaled more than 1.4 billions.

Final figures total just under 1.2 billions cash and authority for new plane orders, as compared with 888 millions this year. Estimates for research by aircraft builders run about 100 millions, approximately the same as now.

Rising costs have cut the size of the new aircraft procurement program. Originally, it was expected that planes weighing about 33 million airframe pounds could be bought, but this has had to be reduced by about 10 per cent.

Airframe pounds is the yardstick used by the armed services and the aircraft industry, rather than numboers of planes, because of the great difference in cost, materials and labor going into long-range bombers and trainers. Then, too, the services often revise their programs after the appropriations have been voted, changing the plane totals. Except for changes in cost levels, however, the amount of the appropriation sets the airframe poundage that can be built.

Division of Budget

Roughly, the 1949 budget divides up as follows: Just under three billions for the Army, about four billions for the Navy, about 3½ billions for the Air Force. This is baout a 200-mill on-dollar boost for the latter and approximately a like cut for the Army. The Navy figure is about the same as 1948.

Less than two months ago, Air Force chiefs testified before the President's Air Policy Commission that they would have to cut their strength from 54 to 40 combat groups next year unless USAF appropriations were upped greatly.

Current funds allowed for building up to 54 groups, but many of these units were formed only last fall. To maintain such a force for a full year would cost hundreds of millions more, they believed.

A recent restudy of costs, however, showed that maintenance costs for 54 groups for a full year could be met with little extra cost by cutting corners and using more older planes from war stocks.

Increases in Air Force estimates largely are for new aircraft, offset in the over-all budget by providing only for about 1,240,000 officers and men in uniform next year. Current strength of the armed forces is 1,454,985. Authorized strength is 1,731,200.

Research and development funds in the new budget are about equal to the current year.

Truman Social Goal Exceeds GOP Ideas

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

Congress will probably act this session on nationa lhealth, housing and education programs but the GOP proposals will fall far short of the sweeping social reforms proposed yesterday by President Truman.

This was the concensus of several GOP leaders yesterday after the reception of the Chief Executive's state of the union message.

Senate and House leaders will hold a series of meetings next week to draft their legislative program for the 1948 election year.

Health, housing, Federal aid to education, extension of social security and minimum wage legislation and continuation of rent control will all be on the agenda.

President Truman's call for national health insurance is virtually certain to be turned down. Speaking as individuals, and not for the party, Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio), chairman of the Senate GOP Policy Committee, and Senator Eugene Millikin (R., Colo.), chairman of the Republican Conference, both predicted Congress would enact some sort of national health legislation. This will be along the lines of the Taft bill, backed by the American Medical Association, and certainly not along the lines recommended by Truman, the leaders agreed.

Housing legislation is expected to follow the general GOP pattern of aiding the States and encouraging State incentive, rather than setting up an overall Federal system. Taft told The Washington Post that in order to get any housing legislation, he believed he would have to compromise on the long-range Taft-Wagner-Ellender bill introduced last session. Millikin predicted that any legislation passed through the session would be in the form of aid to the States.

Federal aid to education is given a reasonably good chance of passage this year. During the last session a bill providing 300-million a year in Federal funds to aid the States in educating America's children was reported favorably by the Senate Committee on Labor and Public Welfare. A similar bill is bottled up in the House Committee on Education and Labor by one vote.

Actually, however, the real stumbling block to House action on the aid to education bill is the House Rules Committee, which during this Congress has generally reflected the views of the Speaker.

Speaker Joseph W. Martin yesterday declined to comment on any proposed legislation in advance of House Steering Committee and joint House-Senate policy meetings.

Millikin, however, gave aid to education a "fairly good" chance of passage this session, and Taft said every effort would be made to get action.

There has been considerable discussion of possible extension of social security during this election year. In a speech in Oregon last fall Taft called for broadening of social security to include farm workers and domestic servants, and there appears to be considerable GOP support for this.

Millikin said there was "a good chance" that Congress would raise the minimum wage this year from 40 cents to 65 cents. President Truman yesterday recommended a 75 cent minimum wage, a goal neither Republicans nor Democrats believe will be reached during this session.

Rent control in some form is virtually certain to be continued. Millikin said legislation to continue it will have to contain some sort of provision "to give landlords better treatment in equity cases." Others predicted continuation of controls with greater provisions for landlords' "hardship cases."

President Truman told Congress yesterday that the Government's programs for health, education and security are of such great importance that a separate executive department for their administration should be established. It was a repetition of a request made to Congress last year, but chances of its enactment during this session appear dim.

So far as can be learned, consideration of this separate department is not on the agenda for the joint leadership conferences.

Taft, who together with Senator William Fulbright (D., Ark.), introduced a bill last year to create a new Government department devoted to th problems of health, welfare and education, said last night he was awaiting a report from the commission headed by former President Herbert Hoover, which is making a study of reorganization of the Federal Government.

However, Congress, according to Mr. Hoover, has provided that no report is required until after the next election.

This would seem to mean that no action is likely to be taken this session. In addition, it is likely during an election year, that a Republican-controlled Congress would not give a Democratic President the opportunity to appoint another Cabinet member.

Leadership on all of what may be termed the election year "progressive" part of the GOP program obviously is coming from the Senate side of the Capitol. The House is far more conservative and there is still a strong possibility that even the comparatively mild program outlined by some leaders may be blocked in the lower chamber.

Truman Tax Cut Plan Seen Pigeonholed

President Truman's $3,200,000,000 proposal to give everyone a $40 tax cut, plus another $40 for each dependent, and collect the cost in increased corporate taxes, headed for a Republican pigeonhole last night.

Shouting "political demagoguery," Representative Harold Knutson (R., Minn.), announced plans to press for quick passage of his $5,600,000,000 general tax slash.

Administration stalwarts on the House Ways and Means Committee, however, revived charges that the Knutson bill "gives the breaks to the wealthy" and promised to put the Truman plan to a committee vote.

Representative John Dingell (D., Mich.), who first proposed a $100 increase in individual exemptions, said he would withdraw this in favor of a substitute providing the $40 credit and a corporate tax offset.

Representative Herman P. Eberharter (D., Pa.), another member of the Ways and Means group, called it "an honest, across-the-board tax cut"—with the same tax reduction in dollars whether a person makes $500 a year or $5,000,000.

Three Discharged Sue Film Studios After Red Probe

Hollywood, Jan. 7 (U.P.).—A multimillion dollar series of damage suits were filed today by two writers and a director against the Hollywood studios which discharged them for refusing to tell a congressional committee whether they were Communists.

Ring Lardner, jr., asked $1,382,500 from Twentieth Century-Fox studio, including $60,000 compensation for work he expected to perform, $572,000 for loss of opportunity for earnings through further options, $500,000 for being deprived of "artistic and intellectual gratification" and $250,000 for "humiliation and anguish."

Director Edward Dymtryk accused RKO Radio Pictures of breaking a contract signed January 1, 1947, when it fired him November 26, and asked $1,783,425 damages. His charges were similar to Lardner's.

Writer Lester Cole asked no specific damages from Loew's, Inc., which controls Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, but said the studio had no right to suspend him December 7 from work under a contract signed December 5, 1945, and amended last August 25. He asked a court order for reinstatement.

Speech Ignores Home-Rule Bill

promised message on the recommendations of his Civil Rights Committee which included home rule for the District.

Officials of the House Subcommittee on District Reorganization and Home Rule said in their recent visit to the White House the President indicated he might refer to their plan in his state of the Union message.

Following this Subcommittee Chairman James C. Auchincloss (R., N. J.) sent President Truman a letter outlining high lights of the plan. The President replied with a formal acknowledgment. Dr. George B. Galloway, staff director for the Auchincloss group, said he understood the chairman's letter had reached the White House after the President's message had been written.

Meanwhile, members of the House Home Rule Subcommittee approved several technical changes in the home rule bill during an executive meeting. The House group will meet with the Senate District Home Rule Subcommittee at 10 a. m. today.

Most important change approved by the subcommittee involved the method for calculating the Federal payment to the District.

The committee decided the Federal payment should vary with the District property tax rate, now $2 per $100. A first plan called for having the Federal Government pay the District an amount of money equal to the tax that would be collected on Federal property if a $1.75 per $100 levy were applied. The change calls for keeping the theoretical Federal tax rate 12½ per cent below the general property tax rate.

Other changes approved by the House group were these:

1. Appropriations Committee members who would serve on the proposed 15-member joint District committee in the home rule setup were reduced from 2 to 1 for the Senate and 3 to 2 for the House.

2. No members of the proposed city council would be allowed to serve as members of advisory groups set up by the council.

3. The council would meet every two weeks during July and August instead of once a month. Through the rest of the year meetings would be every week.

4. Legislative proposals from the council to Congress, the annual Government Accounting Office audit report on District affairs, and the city manager's statement on the audit, would be printed in the Congressional Record.

5. The council would be authorized to pay a city manager up to six months salary as severance pay if it fires him.

6. The date for the city manager to submit the annual budget to the council was moved up from the first meeting in January to the first meeting in February. Similarily the date for the council to finish tentative action on the budget was moved up from February 28 to March 31. The Joint District Committee would have until April 30 to review and send back comments on the budget, and the council would have until May 31 to complete the final budget for the fiscal year starting the following July 1.

7. The District Register of Wills would be appointed by the Chief Justice of District Court instead of by the President, as now.

8. The committee also decided to limit authority of the council to borrow money against anticipated revenue to an amount equalling 25 per cent of revenue.

9. The limit of pay for members of the District Board of Elections was raised from $1000 to $1200 a year. Since members are to be paid at the rate of $25 a day for actual service, this would permit them to work 60 instead of 40 days a year.

Truman Offers 9-Point Farm Program

President Truman yesterday asked Congress for a farm program based upon the Agriculture Department's oft-proposed "policy of abundance."

In other words, the Chief Executive urged a program to maintain the present level of food consumption in case of an ebb in public buying power—in place of a "policy of scarcity," or the limitation of food production.

Tied to his farm program was a plea for development of more river basins "along the lines of the Tennessee Valley Authority," and an expansion of the Nation's reclamation program.

Calls for Adequate Diets

The President outlined his program in general terms only, leaving the details to the lawmakers to work out. Here are the main points:

1. Adequate diets for every American family.

2. Legislation to enable the farmer to "market his varied crops at fair price levels and to improve his standard of living."

3. Continued price supports for major farm commodities on "a basis which will afford reasonable protection against fluctuations in the levels of production and demand. The present price support program," he said, "must be reexamined and modernized."

Asks Stronger Crop Insurance Law

4. A strengthened crop insurance law, with "its benefits extended in order to protect the farmer against the special hazards to which he is subject."

5. Improved marketing methods for farm products.

6. Marketing farm cooperatives "must be encouraged—not discouraged."

7. "The school lunch program should be continued and adequately financed."

8. A wider rural electrification program "to bring the benefits of electricity to all our farm population."

9. A soil conservation program "to aid and encourage farmers to conserve their soil resources and restore the fertility of land that has suffered from neglect or unwise use."

"All of these are practical measures," the President said, "upon which we should act immediately to enable agriculture to make its full contribution to our prosperity."

He said that "adequate diets for every American family, and the needs of our industries at full production, will absorb a farm output well above our present levels.

Says Farmer Better Off Than Ever

"Although the average farmer is now better off than ever before, farm families as a whole have only begun to catch up with the standards of living enjoyed in the cities. In 1946, the average income of farm people was $779, contrasted with an average income of $1288 for nonfarm people. Within the next decade, we should eliminate elements of inequality in these living standards."

He urged multiple-purpose dams to provide power "and integrate development of the river basins along the lines of the Tennessee Valley Authority."

"We must expand our reclamation program to bring millions of acres of arid land into production, and to improve water supplies for additional millions of acres," he said.

"This will provide new opportunities for veterans and others, particularly in the West, and aid in providing a rising living standard for a growing population."

GOP Calls Truman Talk 'Pure Politics'

Republican lawmakers accused President Truman of "demagoguery" and "pure politics" in his State of the Union message yesterday. A number of Democrats applauded the message as wise and far-seeing.

The President's tax recommendations aroused most immediate comment in Congress. Republicans lashed out at the proposal while many Democrats, though not all, appeared receptive.

Speaker Joseph W. Martin, jr., (R., Mass.) said "the left wingers of the Democratic Party must have prompted the message" and complained Mr. Truman "offered no hope of cooperation with Congress" in cutting Government costs.

House Majority Leader Charles A. Halleck (R., Ind.) termed it "a purely political document" and said the President "must be really disturbed about the Wallace threat to the future political success of himself and his New Deal Administration."

Called Appeal For Votes

In an over-all appraisal of the President's address, Representative Arends of Illinois, the House Republican Whip, said:

"This was not a speech on the State of the Union, but a speech on the state of affairs of candidate Truman appealing for votes in November, 1948 . . . Candidate Truman has tried, in this speech, to be everything to everybody. I never saw a speech cover the waterfront like that one did."

"It will be a source of inspiration and a rallying point for all true progressives of every political faith," said McGrath.

Senate Democratic Leader Alben W. Barkley (Ky.) said only that the message was "comprehensive and his recommendations were set forth clearly and forcefully."

But House Democratic Leader Sam Rayburn (Tex.) called it "a strong message that challenges the statesmanship of Congress" and showed Mr. Truman "places the welfare of the nation above everything else."

GOP National Chairman Carroll Reece said the President could have saved words by writing "Dear Henry, come home, all is forgiven, and you can write your own ticket."

Senator Harley M. Kilgore (D., W. Va.), however, said it "reaffirms the Democrfatic party as a liberal, progressive force." Senator W. Lee (Pappy) O'Daniel (D., Tex.), termed it the "same old worn out New Deal hocus pocus."

Pepper Liked Speech

Senator Wiley (R., Wis.) commented that Mr. Truman "got his presidential hook into every fish in the sea," but Senator Pepper called it "a splendid message" which "breathed democracy."

Senator Taft of Ohio, chairman of the Republican Senate policy committee and a candidate for the presidential nomination, will comment tonight over the radio.

Other comment:

Senator Elmer Thomas (D., Okla.): "In the main I'm sure the public will support his program, but there are some controversial items such as universal military training. I will support his tax program."

Senator Connally (D., Tex.), ranking Democrat on the Foreign Relations Committee: "I advocate the reimposition of excess profits taxes to as much as 60 per cent of the former rates. If progressive taxation on individuals is justified, progressive taxation on corporations is justified."

Representative Albert Gore (D., Tenn.) said the tax proposal "has eminent social fairness and is economically sound."

"Out-Wallaced Wallace"

Representative Frederick C. Smith (R., Ohio): "Mr. Truman has just about out-Wallaced Wallace."

Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the Republican whip: "The President's program may be valuable campaign material but it won't curb inflation."

Chairman Taber (R., N. Y.) of the House Appropriations Committee: "It (the President's tax plan) is . . . reactionary and inflationary."

Senator Ball (R., Minn.): The Administration seems "to want to take this country in the direction Soviet Russia is going as fast as possible."

Representative Bloom (D., N. Y.), senior Democrat on the Foreign Affairs Committee: A "wise and far-seeing address."

Senator Hoey (D., N. C.): "Much of the President's program is impractical."

Senator Byrd (D., Va.)—"The President outlined quite a few new plans to spend Federal funds in new fields . . . yet he did not offer a single suggestion to eliminate at least some of the waste and extravagance . . . An increase of over 30 per cent in corporate taxes in time of peace would certainly effectively chill any new money now being contemplated for plant expansion."

PSC Engineer Challenges CTC Beltsville Line Figures

Baltimore, Jan. 7 (AP).—Paul Holland, Public Service Commission engineer, testified today the Capital Transit Co. of Washington had given a "decidedly excessive" estimate of expenses for track upkeep on the Beltsville-Branchville trolley line it wants to abandon.

Holland also told the PSC that the utility's statement on the annual cost of power for running the 3.2-mile shuttle line "is somewhat in excess of my estimate."

Capital Transit, contending the car line is a consistent money loser, is seeking authority to eliminate it. Prince Georges County residents say the line is essential.

Figures Revised

Holland was called to the witness stand by Louis B. Arnold, attorney representing the residents, after the utility submitted a downward revision of figures on the cost of running the line.

It amended an original statement that it had sustained a $49,688 deficit for the year ended last September 30 to a net annual loss of $34,915.

Holland said it will cost $16,700 in immediate improvements to place the Beltsville-Branchville track in "normal operating condition." Edwin Goucher, way and structure engineer for the utility, previously testified this would run to some $28,000.

T. Ray Burch, College Park real estate man and member of the Maryland General Assembly, said the car line "is part of the very life of the community" it serves.

1029 Homes in Area

He said a survey undertaken by Limself showed there were 1029 homes now in the area, with 67 under construction and 189 more planned.

"The growth stops where the car line stops," he said.

Robert C. Ziepold, of Beltsville, told the commission the Washington blvd. bus service was "entirely inadequate" to absorb the patrons of the street car line, and presented a protest petition signed by more than 400 residents.

David Ginsburg, of Hyattsville, also testified against the company plan.

The hearing is expected to conclude tomorrow. Another Capital Transit case, in which the utility asks a general rate increase for its Maryland bus lines, is tentatively scheduled for hearing in the afternoon.

'Voice of America' Measure Approved by Senate Group

The Mundt bill, giving legislative authority to "The Voice of America" and related activities abroad, was approved without a dissenting vote by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee yesterday.

It was approved with one alteration to meet the wishes of American educators, who have urged a sharp separation between the State Department's information and propaganda work abroad, on the one hand, and its student and teacher exchange on the other.

The bill now provides that both activities be handled by the State Department, but that two separate advisory committees of private citizens be created to give policy guidance in the respective fields.

Senator H. Alexander Smith (R., N. J.), chairman of the subcommittee which revised the bill, said he had been assured the bill could not reach the Senate floor next week.

By that time, it is expected, President Truman will have submitted the nomination of George V. Allen, at present Ambassador to Iran, as Assistant Secretary of State to take charge of the program.

Club Meets Tonight

The Reciprocity Club of Washington will hold its monthly dinner meeting at 6:30 tonight at the Mayflower Hotel.

50,000 to Stage Strike in Essen

Essen, Germany, Jan. 7 (AP).—A general strike of 50,000 workers will be staged in this Ruhr industrial center Friday to appeal for more food, the Trade Union Board said today. It will be the most serious work stoppage since the big hunger demonstrations of last April.

The strike will affect 15,000 Krupp employes and other workers, but not the coal miners or essential public utility hands. It was set to continue for five hours.

Train Smashes Auto Pushing Stalled Car Free

Blue Gem, Va., Jan. 7 (AP).—Bascon Kirk of Blue Gem, who started out to do a "good deed," ended up with a smashed car.

The 18-year-old youth offered to give Mrs. Flora Davidson Bell some help with her stalled automobile. Driving his own car, Kirk pushed the crippled auto down the road. As he approached a railroad crossing both cars stalled in the path of a freight train.

Kirk said he remembered only "floor-boarding the gas." Mrs. Bell's car shot forward and cleared the tracks. The engine caught the rear end of Kirk's car and flipped it into a ditch.

No one was injured.

A billion-dollar investment is not enough

A personal message from the President of the Santa Fe

Santa Fe's total investment in road and equipment is well over a billion dollars.

The exact figure is $1,341,266,143.94.

Many people think a billion dollars is a lot of money —and it is.

But all values are relative. For a small business an investment of a few thousand dollars may be adequate. Larger firms require millions.

A railroad deals in big figures because it must own not only tracks, but the land on which to lay the tracks; it must own not only the engines and cars which comprise the trains, but yards and terminals to handle the freight and passengers it carries.

And we are face to face with the fact that for the Santa Fe today an investment of a billion three hundred million is not enough.

The New Western World

Along Santa Fe lines in the West and Southwest, big things have happened. This territory, long the great American frontier, has always been dynamic in its strength and growth, and has now truly "come into its own."

The states served by Santa Fe lead the nation in growth. In the past seven years the population has shown remarkable increases. Medium-sized cities have become new metropolitan areas, and new towns have grown up in many sections along our right-of-way.

Coincident with this population growth is a great new expansion in agriculture, livestock, lumber, manufacturing and other industries in the West and Southwest. Steel, metal fabrication, chemical, plastics and many other new plants have sprung up. Employment is at an all-time peak.

Santa Fe must expand, too, with the growth of these new developments, because Santa Fe is a very important traffic artery of this territory.

People in the New West

The people of this great New West are not the same people who have always been there. The war changed them. Their needs are different. There are more of them. More of them are new. So the total needs of the territory have grown.

And that means Santa Fe must supply more and more transportation in the modern manner.

The Cost of Progress

Plans for Santa Fe's development with the growth of the territory and for providing modern and efficient transportation services call for large expenditures for additions and replacements. Only by the continued utilization of the best tools and facilities can efficient and economical transportation services be provided.

These are carefully thought-out programs for progress. And you, the American public, have a right to this kind of progress.

Santa Fe now has on order more than $63,000,000 worth of new locomotives, freight cars and passenger cars—and that is in addition to the millions required for improvements in road property and existing equipment.

The cost of modern railroad equipment is approximately twice that of twenty years ago; in some cases it is more than double.

Expansion and improvement programs at today's high costs of capital goods are dependent upon financial stability, of which the first essential is an adequate return on the investment.

There is no secret or mysterious process by which a railroad can secure money. Rates for its services must be sufficient to produce adequate earnings, now and in the future. That is the only way a railroad can pay a fair return to those who already have money invested in the property, and the only way to obtain additional cash or sound credit necessary to carry on its improvement programs.

We have an obligation to expand with the New West. The Santa Fe must go forward.

F. G. GURLEY, President
THE ATCHISON, TOPEKA AND SANTA FE RAILWAY COMPANY

ALP Support Of Wallace Splits Party

New York, Jan. 7 (AP).—The New York State American Labor party today plumped for Henry A. Wallace for President, but the indorsement caused several big unions to quit the party.

The party split attracted wide attention from political observers who felt it might have an important bearing on the disposition of New York State's 47 electoral votes in the 1948 presidential campaign.

The walkout from the ALP was led by the CIO Amalgamated Clothing Workers, one of the party's leading segments both in voting strength and financial backing. It also included the CIO United Automobile Workers, the CIO United Steel Workers, the AFL Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, and others.

The Amalgamated alone places its membership in the State at 135,000. The auto and steel workers and railway clerks were estimated to have about 115,000 members in New York State.

The split made it problematical how many votes the ALP, which functions only in this State, could deliver in the 1948 election.

The party rolled up 496,405 votes for President Franklin D. Roosevelt four years ago and was a major factor in that race because Roosevelt's margin over Gov. Thomas E. Dewey in New York State was only 316,591.

Hyman Blumberg, State ALP chairman and executive vice president of the Amalgamated, resigned as the top party executive, declaring "a third party in 1948 must inevitably play into the hands of labor's enemies."

The Amalgamated, Blumberg said, "supports the national policies of the CIO and the CIO's Political Action Committee" with respect to a third party. The PAC has gone on record against a third party candidacy.

Civil Rights First Goal, Truman Says

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

Attainment of "essential human rights" for all citizens was labeled by President Truman yesterday as America's "first goal" in the next decade.

In his state of the Union speech to Congress yesterday, the President declared he would send a special message to Congress "on this important subject" and seek "effective" Federal action through legislation.

Mr. Truman indicated that the legislation would be along the lines of the recent report of the President's Committee on Civil Rights, which, he said, "points the way to corrective action" by the Federal, State and local governments.

The Civil Rights Report, made public October 29, called for elimination "now" of discrimination and segregation based on color, race, or creed and for strengthening of civil rights through specific legislation.

"We should also assure the fullest possible measure of civil rights to the people of our territories and possessions," the Chief Executive told Congress.

"The United States has always had a deep concern for human rights," the President said. "Religious freedom, free speech, and freedom of thought are cherished realities in our land.

"Any denial of human rights is a denial of the basic beliefs of democracy and of our regard for the worth of each individual.

"Today, however, some of our citizens are still denied equal opportunity for education, for jobs and economic advancement, and for the expression of their views at the polls. Most serious of all, some are denied equal protection under our laws.

"Whether discrimination is based on race, or creed, or color, or land of origin, it is utterly contrary to American ideals of democracy."

The President's Committee recommendations for specific legislation included creation of a permanent Commission on Civil Rights and a Joint Congressional Committee on Civil Rights, more stringent laws against police brutality, anti-lynch law, outlawing of poll taxes, clarification of the loyalty obligations of Federal workers, setting up of a fair employment practices commission, elimination of restrictive covenants.

Time Lost In Strikes Cut Two-Thirds

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter

Only one third as much working time was lost because of strikes last year as in 1946, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said yesterday.

Its yearly review of labor-management disputes showed that 1947 was still one of the worst years on record for lost time due to strikes. But it was not nearly so bad as 1946 or 1919, the first peace years following two wars.

Last year there were about 3600 stoppages, involving 2,200,000 workers. They cost 35,000,000 man-days of time. This was about four to five of one per cent of the total working time of the Nation.

In 1946 there were nearly 5000 strikes involving 4,600,000 men (more than double the 1947 figure). They cost 116 million man-days of idleness. This was 1.4 per cent of the total working time.

Three Strikes Hurt Most

The BLS pointed out that almost half of 1947's total of man-days lost by strikes was the result of three big disputes:

1. The Nation-wide telephone strike in April and May.
2. The East Coast shipyard strike last fall.
3. The short, but big, strike of coal miners.

As in 1946, wages were the main issue of the strikes last year. Toward the end of the year there were some controversies from issues arising from the new Taft-Hartley Act.

But in this connection, the BLS said most labor contracts were signed in the first half of the year, before the law was passed. Thus, most disputed issues that might grow out of applying the new law will not normally show up until the present contracts expire. In other words, the critical time, in which it will be found out what the effect of the law will be on labor relations, will be in the next six months.

GSI Strikers Plan to Mass prevent entry to the cafeterias, would no be permitted, he said.

Previous picketing strategy has been to spread the strikers among the 40 operating cafeterias. Cafeterias at the Labor Department and the Supreme Court have been closed at the request of the agencies involved. More than 95 per cent of GSI's 1500 production and service workers are on picket lines, the union claims.

Both GSI and the union made the first reports yesterday of tension between the pickets and some 750 new workers hired to replace them. There was no violence.

A union official charged last night that the hiring of new employes in GSI cafeterias without physical examinations "endangers the health and safety of all Government employes."

Max Roffman, regional director of Local 471's parent union, the United Public Workers (CIO), told Federal Works Administrator Philip B. Fleming in a telegram: "The company is making no effort to determine whether any of the strikebreakers are sick or have any communicable disease. We urge you to close all GSI cafeterias at once."

J. C. Niehuss, personnel director of GSI, answered this charge for GSI with the promise that the corporation would follow its approved practice of having new workers certified by the District Health Department after they are hired. He said some Wasserman tests already had been taken yesterday.

Pentagon Signed Up

Local 471, seeking a new contract including a 15-cent hourly wage increase, already has signed a new agreement with National Food Corp., operators of 18 cafeterias and snack bars at the Pentagon. In that case, NFC never raised the question of non-Communist affidavits.

GSI, has raised wages 6½ cents an hour for all new workers and those who stayed on the job. GSI wages amount to an average of $21.90 a week after deductions, the union says.

Niehuss said last night that employes who fail to report for work before Friday "will receive their final pay check at 2 p. m. Friday" at the GSI produce commissary, 1307 Maine ave. sw.

In another development yesterday, Secretary of the Interior Julius A. Krug personally asked that the Interior Department cafeteria be closed after an earlier request from the department was turned down by Federal Works Administrator Fleming.

Tuesday, Fleming refused to close the cafeteria at the request of Oscar L. Chapman, Undersecretary of the Interior, who signed the letter as acting secretary in Krug's absence.

Fleming could not be reached last night for comment on Krug's letter, which sought the shutdown "to avoid embarrassment," it was said.

Abd El Krim Forms New Freedom Unit

Tunis, Jan 6 (AP).—Formation of "committees for North African independence," as announced in Cairo by Abd El Krim, the aging Riff warrior, was seen here today as the start of a new international headache which may bring new Soviet-American rivalry.

It promised to be a serious thorn in the side of France, which is faced with armed revolt in Indo-china, Madagascar and now organized political opposition to French rule in North Africa.

The possibility that the North African ndependence issue might balloon to international importance was heightened by the declarations today of Salah Ben Youssef, Tunisian political leader

"If the United States lets France continue in her present oppressive policy in North Africa, we will eventually turn in another direction for support," he said in an interview. "Yes, I mean Russia."

The formation of the committee was seen here as the beginning of a united front of 8,500,000 Arabs in French Morocco, where 300,000 French are living in a military-headed protectorate; of 6,250,000 Arabs in Algeria, where one million Europeans including 400,000 Frenchmen live uneasily in semi-departments like continental France, and 2,400,000 Arabs in Tunisia, where there are 215,000 Europeans living in a civilian-headed protectorate.

Arab Crowd Is Bombed

Jerusalem, Jan. 7 (AP).—Jews disguised in blue caps of the Palestine police and driving a stolen armored car hurled two bombs today into Arab crowds at ancient Jaffa Gate and a nearby street intersection.

Eighteen persons were killed, 14 Arabs at the gate and three Jews and one Arab at the road intersection.

Two of the Jewish bombers were slain by British police bullets.

The bomb attacks and other violence brought to 622 the number of deaths since the November 29 decision by the United Nations for partition of Palestine.

quarters and posted a total of $57 collateral for Walls.

At 2:40 p. m., the raiding party forced a truck to the curb in the 1500 block of 5th st. nw. after trailing it for a mile and a half and watching its two occupants make several pickups in houses and at street corners.

The driver of the truck, which was carrying a load of wood in the back jumped to the street and escaped. The second man, however, was captured. He identified himself as the owner of the truck, Jackson. Blick said Jackson is the ring's chief pickup man.

Police said in the cab of the truck was a 20-inch long tool kit containing lottery slips. They booked Jackson for operation of a lottery and possession of lottery slips before proceeding to the ring's headquarters at 309 I st. nw. at 3 p. m.

On the second floor at this address, in three sparsely furnished rooms, police said they found "No. 2 man Strong" collecting money and tallying it on an adding machine.

While police were there, several men entered. One of them was the previously arrested Walls. He pleaded that it wasn't fair to arrest him twice in the same day. Police turned a deaf ear and took him along with the others. All those seized at the ring's headquarters — including Walls — were charged with operation and possession. Each was freed in $1500 bond to await hearing in Municipal Court today.

Blick said the raiders surprised Strong as he was checking cash turned in by the pickup men

First Prize is $200

First prize in the "Miss Government Girl" contest is $200 in cash. second prize is $50 and the next 10 runnersup will receive cash prizes of $5 each.

Each entrant should submit a photograph of herself. It should be of fairly good size (not a snapshot) and must not be mounted or tinted.

Finalists will be chosen from their photographs and then this group will be interviewed by Ken Ernst, the artist who draws the Mary Worth strip. Ernst will determine the 12 prizewinners.

This is not a beauty contest in the usual sense. Each heroine used by Ernst in the various episodes of the comic strip is of a different type. Anyone of the thousands of attractive Government girls working in Metropolitan Washington may be the one to strike Ernst's fancy as the one he wants for the model of his new heroine.

The contest extends through January 28. Rules must be followed closely. They will be published daily. The Washington Post will also publish an entry blank form. However, the blank is published for convenience only. The same information on any sheet of paper will do.

Blue Ridge Road Toll Opposed by Robertson

By The Associated Press

To make a toll road of the Blue Ridge pkwy. "would take the heart out" of members of Congress who are seeking funds to complete the project, Senator A. Willis Robertson (D., Va.) said yesterday.

In a letter to Secretary of Interior J. A. Krug, Robertson protested the proposed fees of 25 cents a car and $1 a year permit on the scenic highway in Virginia and North Carolina. The department has planned to start the charges at the beginning of the tourist season this year.

Robertson inclosed letters of protest from Governor Tuck of Virginia and James A. Anderson, Virginia State highway commissioner. Representative Harrison (D., Va.) also has protested the fee plan.

Banning Conciliation

The mischief hidden in the Communist affidavit provision of the Taft-Hartley Act is made manifest by the current strike in the GSI-operated Government cafeterias. The newly established Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, which ought by every consideration of common sense to be working earnestly to bring the disputants into agreement, is barred from any participation in the affair whatever. No one can blame Cyrus Ching or his agency for this apparent abdication of responsibility. Mr. Ching is on incontestable ground in asserting that the agency will not make its facilities available "where it appears, in a labor dispute, that the employer does not accept the authority of a union to act for the employes." The mischievousness of the Communist affidavit clause lies in the pretext it affords employers capriciously to deny the authority of a union when the union has failed, for whatever reason, to affirm that it has no Communist officers.

This appears to be precisely what the GSI management has done in respect of Local 471 of the United Cafeteria and Restaurant Workers Union. As we observed the other day, the fact that the officers of the union have not signed the affidavit "seems to us to be irrelevant to the issue in the strike." The union is not complaining to the NLRB or seeking its protection and of course the signing of the affidavit is not a prerequisite to ordinary negotiations between unions and management. But in this case, GSI, although it has long recognized the union's authority to represent the cafeteria employes, seems to have seized upon the affidavit clause as a convenient union-busting bludgeon.

Mr. Ching cannot, to be sure, attempt to persuade GSI or any other employer to refrain from using a weapon which Congress has made available. The pity, and irony, of the situation is that irresponsible use of this weapon makes it impossible for the Mediation and Conciliation Service to find any way consistent with the law to fulfill the function for which it was created—that is, to settle disputes. As usual, the public in its role as innocent bystander—including some thousands of Government employes—will be the loser.

Hoarding Charges

Because of the tight food situation and the prospect of worse to come, the Government should be empowered to set up a system of inventory controls that could be used when and if protective action becomes necessary. It should also be permitted at its discretion to set up rationing and price control systems at consumer levels for meat and any other food products in short supply. However, we do not share the views of Mr. Stassen who apparently thinks that the current rise in food prices is largely due to speculative hoarding of foodstuffs.

As proof of this contention Mr. Stassen cites the rise in stored stocks of meats, butter, poultry and lard which has brought total stocks of such commodities well above the level of a year ago. "There seems to be no good reason," he asserts, "why the amount of food in storage should be so far above normal. Only one conclusion is possible—hoarding for higher prices." And he adds that "Government could do the consumers a great service by stepping into this picture." In other words, Mr. Stassen wants the Government to relieve the pressure on food prices by taking control of inventories and accelerating the consumption of stored stocks of meat and other foods.

The weak spot in Mr. Stassen's argument is discovered by looking at the statistics. For they do not confirm his assumption that foods in storage are now at abnormally high levels. On the contrary, the amount of beef and pork held in cold storage December 1 was below the December five-year average of 1942 to 1946 inclusive. The totals were high only by comparison with the abnormally low figures of last year. Butter supplies at the beginning of December were just half the five-year comparable average, although frozen poultry and eggs in storage were far above the five-year average. The data on the whole decisively refute Mr. Stassen's thesis that hoarding is responsible for an abnormal accumulation of food in storage, with resultant price increases.

The basic cause of high food prices can be summed up in a phrase: scarcity of supplies in relation to effective demand—that is, demand coupled with ability to pay current high prices. In case of meats, for example, officials of the Department of Agriculture anticipate further increases in prices next year owing to an expected decrease in meat production resulting from the short corn crop of this year as well as the decreasing number of cattle on farms and ranges. According to Carl C. Farrington of the Department of Agriculture's Production and Marketing Administration, "the decrease will be most pronounced in the spring and summer of 1948 when marketing of hogs and all grain fed cattle will be sharply reduced."

With this prospect facing the country, we fail to see how forced liquidation of present meat stocks would provide any relief from the pressure on prices. In fact, it seems to us that the situation clearly calls for conservative use of stocks on hand and avoidance of any action that would immediately stimulate consumption of our reserve supplies.

Tomorrow And Today

The President drew a rosy picture of a new millennium in yesterday's message on the state of the Union. We can imagine some of his opponents getting out pencil and paper and figuring out the total cost of all the projects contained in it. Doubtless Mr. Truman, besides seeking kudos in the country for good intentions, was merely sketching the Utopia which he envisions for America. But the impact of the presidential catalog may nullify the appeal of reforms that are pressing—reforms that cannot wait. In this respect we have in mind such reforms as new housing, the setting up of a new department of health, education and security, expansion of social security coverage, higher minimum wages, soil and forest conservation. A nation, no matter how powerful, can husband and improve its strength only as it keeps its property in good repair and its government abreast of the times. That is the business of day-to-day government. Nevertheless the message is distorted by its emphasis on long-term undertakings which have no place in the agenda that is before the last session of the Eightieth Congress. There is only one watchword for the world of today, and that is prudence. Only with prudence can the Government hope to scotch inflation at home and aggression abroad. What is there in the message that would arm the Nation to meet the problems that unless handled wisely and firmly and promptly will pull down the curtain over the President's world of tomorrow?

Adam Smith, the theoretician of our free enterprise system, said that "security is better than opulence." The President, after confiding his visions to Congress, comes to grips with this primary problem. He pleads again for the Marshall Plan, the pursuance of economic pacification in freer trading relations, and universal training. It is our conviction that this is the minimum program for the salvation of the free world. The American issue is how best we can use our resources in creating conditions which will make free peoples self-reliant in the face of a predatory aggressor. Aggression thrives on vacuums. It is the object of the Marshall Plan to fill those vacuums which are situated on the accesses to our continent. Coupled with UMT, which would show the Soviet Union that the United States intends to back up its foreign policy, the Marshall Plan would be a mighty blow for peace in a world threatened with disintegration. It would take time by the forelock, and that is prudence.

On inflation, on which the President is disappointingly vague, there is no alternative to the same sort of prudence. Fiscal strength is the best safeguard against runaway inflation. But, as we comment elsewhere, the President's tax proposal is unmitigatedly demagogic. Nor is the irresolution he showed last year in advancing his 10-point program overcome in his present message. The split in the Cabinet on rationing is still extant. The Administration's ideas on brakes to be applied to the hemorrhage of bank credit are still inchoate. Inflation cannot be exorcized by exhortation, but requires stern measures which will stop the output of money in excess of goods which accounts for the present inflation. Inflation is a monetary phenomenon, but no such recognition is available in the state of the Union message. What is as important: inflation is encouraging the aggressor abroad because he knows that the presence of inflation is the forerunner of the slump upon which he is banking. We should like to have read less about the "shore dimly seen" and more about today's actualities.

Bid For Votes

The President's plan for reducing individual income taxes and offsetting the resultant revenue loss of 3.2 billion dollars by increasing taxes on corporations is only explicable as a transparently political move—and a crude one at that—to keep in the Democratic ranks certain left-wing groups that might desert to third-party candidate Wallace. Of course, the President reiterates previous warnings that Government revenues should not be reduced until inflation has been stopped. But his words have a hollow sound in view of the character of the recommended tax adjustments. For he is proposing to put more than three billion dollars of additional purchasing power in the hands of consumers by means of income tax credits of $40 for each individual taxpayer and each of his dependents. The remission would benefit particularly the lower-income tax groups and would result in dropping from the tax rolls between 9 and 10 million individual income-tax payers. Hence the proposal has a demagogic appeal that may commend it to the short-sighted.

However, the President's plan creates grave doubts as to the sincerity of his professed desire to follow anti-inflationary fiscal policies, since it would stimulate consumer buying at a time when buying restraint is being urged by the President's own advisers as a check to price increases. Moreover, the proposal to levy an additional tax on corporate profits to compensate for revenue losses would not neutralize the inflationary effect of the lowered income taxes. On the contrary, it would make heavy inroads on corporate reserves accumulated out of profits, and consequently tend to curtail expenditures for the replacement of obsolete equipment and installation of new production facilities. In other words, the President's tax adjustment program will stimulate demand for goods and at the same time hinder efforts to increase the production of goods by taxing away savings from profits that would otherwise be available to finance industrial expansion. It is, in short, a first-rate method of fanning inflationary fires.

The plan cannot even be defended on the ground that profits are excessive in relation to other types of income. For the Department of Commerce states that the distributive share of business income going to profits is "currently the same as in 1929" (that is 12.9 per cent). "If account is taken of the substantially increased profits-tax liabilities over this period," the department adds, "profits after taxes and inventory valuation adjustment are seen to represent about 7 per cent of total income originating in business as compared with 11 per cent in 1929." On the other hand, labor's share of income originating in business rose from 56.1 per cent of the total in 1929 to 59.4 per cent in 1947. Moreover, the share of corporate profits is lower now than it was in 1941, while labor's share of total income from business is higher.

These data, in our opinion, dispose of the argument that current business profits are so excessive as to justify a form of tax adjustment that would shift tax burdens from individuals to industry. Already business concerns are feeling the pinch of capital shortages that have resulted in rapidly growing demands for bank loans of an inflationary type. Inflationary credit expansion of this kind would be encouraged by heavy increases in taxes on corporate profits—a large part of which would otherwise be saved and invested in productive facilities.

If the President had stood by the principles that he has indorsed so courageously in the past, and refused to countenance any form of tax reduction calculated to increase consumer spending, he might have rallied sufficient support to defeat the Republican tax-reduction program. As it is, his opportunistic bid for labor votes, implicit in his proposal to reduce income taxes at the expense of industry, will be regarded as a go-ahead signal by the Republican advocates of immediate tax reduction.

Atomic Future

When a course of action has been dogged by repeated failure, search for some alternative course would appear to be the part of wisdom. Reviewing the American effort to bring about an international accord for the control of atomic energy, Prof. J. Robert Oppenheimer, one of the principal architects of the atomic bomb and now chairman of the Advisory Committee of the Atomic Energy Commission, points this moral in an article written for the current issue of Foreign Affairs. The article, a brilliant piece of analysis, is melancholy and pessimistic. "It appears most doubtful," says Dr. Oppenheimer, "if there are now any courses open to the United States which can give to our people the sort of security they have known in the past. The argument that such a course must exist seems to be specious; and in the last analysis most current proposals rest on this argument."

Without attempting categorically to answer the question whether the Soviet government would have responded cooperatively to any approach, and recognizing that cooperation in respect of atomic energy could succeed only if coupled with comparable cooperation in other fields, Dr. Oppenheimer raises some significant doubts as to the manner in which we dealt with the problem. "We have allowed our own internal preoccupations to make us content to put forward our views in the world forum of the United Nations, without pursuing early enough, on a high enough plane, or with a fixed enough resolution, the objective of making the heads of the Soviet state in part, at least, party to our effort. Our internal effort . . . has cost a sort of schizophrenic separation of our dealings in this field from our dealings in all others."

Dr. Oppenheimer concludes that the trend to rivalry and conflict between Russia and the United States can be reversed only by "a profound change in the whole orientation of Soviet policy, and a corresponding reorientation of our own, even in matters far from atomic energy." But this is, of course, to beg the question. The trend is fraught with such desperate peril for us all that to throw up our hands and accept it resignedly must seem intolerable to all men who believe in the concept of free will.

AUTUMN-PIECE

This is the season not for words, frail epitaphs that cast their gloom on brightest failure; this is a sculpture rising bare from a darkening room.

Or let the painter's brush try stroke and thrust
Of desperate hue to stop the suicidal burn of leaves on master blue.

An etcher's pencil might feel out the line,
the wire-thin way,
to prove the poplar's grace, that lifts the eyes
a dozen times a day;

or say a man could write the notes the birds,
vine-dwellers, sing at dusk, or shake dry tambourines to tell how leaves that fell made music in the husk, and from their ashes sent the smell of childhood to men of homing will.

The speaker knows the limits of all speaking and is still.

This is the season not for words; its brilliant trance will keep alone, perhaps, in art.
But what will catch the shadow, the shadow beauty, dying spreads on the secret heart?

Wallace's Support

Mr. Wallace's decision to run on a third party ticket backed by the Progressive Citizens of America means that he is now willing to follow the Communist line completely in foreign affairs.

The effect of Wallace's candidacy is to increase the likelihood of a Republican winning against Truman. From the point of view of organized labor that would be disastrous. President Truman vetoed the Taft-Hartley Law to reduce the power of organized labor to keep their wages up to the increase in the cost of living, while the leading Republican candidates favored that law. Yet Mr. Wallace is willing to forfeit all non-Communist labor support to run for President with the probable effect and intention of defeating the more pro-labor of the two major party candidates.

The only possible reason is because he is so much opposed to the Marshall Plan for adequate aid to western Europe that he wants above all else to defeat President Truman because Truman supports the Marshall Plan. If that means the election of a Republican that will please Mr. Wallace, because he knows that the Republicans, judging from the statements of some of their congressional leaders, will be far more niggardly in furnishing aid to Europe than will President Truman.

In addition to the isolationist wing of the Republicans, the Communists are opposing the Marshall Plan because Russia is opposing it. Russia is opposing it because the Marshall Plan would put western Europe on its feet economically and prevent the Communists from gaining political control there by exploiting the hunger and misery from which the workers in western Europe will suffer if we fail to carry through the European recovery program.

Wallace's running as a third party candidate means that he is following this Communist line and will be supported only by the Communists, their fellow travelers and dupes.

Family Taxes

The facts do not bear out M. L. Kenworthy's implied argument in his letter of January 2 that the living costs of children are as great if not greater than for adults. In a four-person family in Washington, D. C., according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the annual outlay on clothing is $90 for an 8-year-old daughter, $89 for a 13-year-old son, $134 for the wife, and $149 for the husband.

On medical care, the costs are $26 for the daughter, $25 for the son, $57 for the wife, and $31 for the husband.

In food, the bureau allows a total of 5200 calories for the boy and girl, as compared with 5500 calories for the man and wife.

The BLS has no breakdown per person on rent. It's evident, however, that the cost per room drops as the number of rooms increases.

As for movies, the bureau figures that adults average 34 paid admissions per year, as compared with an average of 22 for the boy and girl. Similarly, the man needs 15 haircuts a year as against 10 for the boy, 4.7 for the girl, and 4.2 for the woman. Add in for the wife finger waves, permanent waves, shampoos, etc.

In reading matter—newspapers, periodicals, magazines, etc.—it is probable that a larger proportion of the expenditure should be allocated to the adults. Then there's the tobacco budget, which of course is for adults only.

I am not implying that it isn't expensive to bring up children. Far from it. I am reiterating, however, that the straight $500 per person tax exemptions allowed by Congress don't spread the cost of household operations equitably. Setting up a household is the big initial expense. And overhead goes on regardless of the number of dependents.

If, however, we are to use the tax system to increase the birthrate, that's another matter. But would it not be more efficacious to do it directly by subsidies?

War With Russia

Why all this chatter about ways and means of avoiding war with the Soviet?

We already are at war with Russia. The Reds themselves declared said war last year. They spurned, and ordered their East Europe stooges to spurn the decency contemplated by the Marshall Plan. Then they set up a Bolshevik dummy Santa Claus, who is certain that it is far more blessed to receive than to give.

Naturally, a shooting war is inevitable. It begins when the current phase has arrived at stalemate. It is inevitable because the Kremlin autocrats wish it to be so. These tyrants desire neither cooperation nor coexistence with the West. Surely this is no secret! Moscow has been shouting it for going on 30 years.

Gambling In Futures

I have recently noticed in newspaper accounts of grain gambling two remarkable modifications. First, for the term "grain gambling" there has been substituted the term "speculation in grain"; second there has been inserted into these stories, with remarkable regularity, the sentence: "Speculation in grain is not illegal." I have wondered whether that is the legal conclusion of the reporters or whether it is an expression of opinion of someone else which reporters have inserted into their their stories without quotes.

Investments and speculations in grain are made only in the cash grain markets. The stories in question do not relate to transactions in the cash grain markets, but to transactions in the grain "futures" markets. This distinction is basic—and important. It was from failure to make this distinction that Dr. James Munro Smith, former president of Louisiana State University, landed in the State penitentiary. He traded in "wheat futures" (which is gambling), believing, as he said, that he was "investing" university funds in wheat!

Gambling in futures has been repeatedly denounced by State and Federal courts.

News reporters, if they feel justified in incorporating their own conclusions of law into news stories, should first read some of the court decisions on the subject. At least, they might read the decisions in the case of Dickson vs. Uhlman Grain Co., 228 U. S. 188, which is the last word of the United States Supreme Court on trading in wheat futures.

Italy's Housing Shortage

If the average Italian were suddenly transplanted to the United States his first remark might well be: "What a wonderful country—no housing shortage."

In comparison to Italy and the Balkan countries, this Nation would appear a fairyland of comfortable housing units. Italy, where little modern housing was erected prior to the war, has an estimated 10 million persons homeless. Some 6,500,000 of her estimated 32,175,000 prewar residential rooms were destroyed or damaged.

Little is being done to solving this pressing problem. Immersed in political discord, not yet finally settled as to eventual form of government and stable ideologies, lacking in financial stability and material resources, disunited as to rule and rulers, Italy has been unable, or unwilling, to apply energetic action to its housing problem.

As Allied Commissions housing adviser, I viewed all damaged portions of that unhappy country, interviewed hundreds of officials and worked, planned, lectured and "lived" rehabilitation of housing for 18 months, returning to Washington last year. It was my job to aid the Italians in the rebuilding of their homeland. A definite program was laid out, but little was accomplished. I found that it will be impossible for an adequate reconstruction program to get under way in Italy until a permanent, stable government takes over.

Housing, unfortunately, has not been disassociated with politics. Theoretically, the Public Works Administration is supposed to carry out the rebuilding program. However, the appointment and dismissal of Ministers over this Italian PWA was so dazzlingly fast and continual that it became for a time customary among us at the Allied Commission to inquire each day, before arranging for correspondence or personal conferences, "Who is Minister today?"

The loss of personnel to this governmental bureau through war actions, defascistification and Allied dismissal of inept persons left it so emasculated that it could not cope with normal problems, much less devise and spark plug a tremendous housing job.

Italy, if it is ever to begin a workable rebuilding program, must organize a housing department. Such a body must be divorced from politics and ever-changing ministries; it must coordinate its work with the very capable Italian architects and engineers available. Most important, it must delegate authority to local bodies. Such action has been contrary to Italian custom for centuries. Practically all authority has been vested in Rome.

Even with all the above handicaps, a very large amount of reconstruction could be accomplished without further delay if cooperative effort by local populations, properly encouraged and guided by local housing department officials, could be obtained.

Due to the peculiar nature of Italian home construction in all but the largest cities, homes can be erected by so-called "unskilled" labor, plus use of certain abundant natural resources. Masonry and clay products are indigenous to Italy. Nearly every able-bodied Italian can work with these natural building products. The bulk of all suburban and village construction has always been done by farmers, local artisans and tradesmen. Stone was cut locally; lime, clay tile and bricks were manufactured locally. Less than 3 per cent of materials necessary for such construction required either large-scale manufacture or import from foreign sources.

True, more modern methods and materials are needed for reconstruction of larger cities, but of the greatest importance by far is the reconstruction of rural communities. Such construction would return farmers and local artisans to their homes, and, once rehoused, these citizens would start the ascending spiral of Italy's economic rehabilitation.

Grass Roots Decision

By Malvina Lindsay

Report On The 'Peepul'

NEARLY EVERY member of Congress can tell you what the folks back home are thinking about the big decision this country faces on foreign affairs. The people are either "out and out" for the Marshall Plan, or "for helping Europe, but—" or against "throwing money down a European rathole"—all depending to a large degree on what the legislator himself thinks.

Reports also come from other experts on grass roots opinion—poll takers, lecturers, politicians who have been sounding out county chairmen, journalists who have made surveys of the hinterlands, cross-country motorists who have talked with filling station attendants, and virtually everyone who went home for Christmas.

These reports vary, but generally agree on the large number of voters who haven't heard of the Marshall Plan, and on the fact that the majority of those who have misunderstand it as a handout. They also reveal that the rank and file of Americans are too concerned with personal problems to think much about Europe's troubles. The most optimistic surveys come from those persons whose contacts have been chiefly with community leaders or intellectuals.

ALTHOUGH farm leaders are disputing a magazine poll that shows 52 per cent of American farmers had never heard of the Marshall Plan, yet there is evidence that throughout the country it is about half as widely known as the "new look" in fashion. Because of this, and in view of past American isolationism, some historians are predicting that the American people will pass up the role of democratic leadership destiny is now holding out to them—or else half-heartedly make a fizzle of it. They think Americans are not aware of nor prepared to take over the world power Britain is abdicating, and that it will take another war to make those who may survive realize that their interests are tied up with all the globe's inhabitants.

However, the big question is not so much what people are thinking now, but what they will be thinking by the time Congress gets around to voting on European reconstruction. What will be their decision after being exposed to congressional debate and to a deluge of writings, broadcasts and speeches on the issue?

Forces both for and against the program are getting into action. Those working against it have the edge in appealing to mass emotions. They can play on the disillusionment, insecurity, fear, escapism that always follow war. Both polls and elections have shown that people can change their minds quickly when stirred by catch phrases, slogans and warnings that appeal to selfishness, self-pity and fear.

WITH AN election around the corner such methods offer great temptation to office seekers. And the high cost of living offers a perfect springboard for frightening warnings about what exports may do to inflation. Also many people are in a mood to respond to the "play safe" arguments of the eternal Bourbons, who always muff their chance to forestall trouble.

Yet some foreign visitors with detached perspectives on Americans report that on recent tours of the country they found a definite swing away from the retreat, fear and escapism prevalent a few months ago. They sense a growing tendency among those who give any thought to foreign affairs to face realistically their new responsibilities, rather than run away from them.

If the fate of European recovery lies with the decision of American voters, the problem of those supporting the Marshall Plan is first to overcome the apathy of people, and second to make them realize that the reconstruction program is not charity but a gamble for their own future welfare. National and community leaders will need to find a way of driving home forcefully the economic facts of life to a lot of listeners who don't want to hear them.

Career Employes

In answer to a letter in The Washington Post of January 3 about governmental career employes, let me state that much of the displacement of career employes was engendered by the very obvious fact that, during the shooting war, many people now in that category, transferred from permanent positions in old-line agencies, to higher paid positions in wartime agencies. They knew that they were taking a risk in so doing and that sooner or later the agencies to which they had transferred would cease to operate. Many of them obtained much higher paid positions with less qualifications than would normally be required in time of peace.

The risk was there, and they most certainly were cognizant of the fact, that even if the old-line agencies were prepared to reinstate them, that there was no guarantee they would be rehired at their level of pay. Even returning veterans were only guaranteed jobs of like seniority, status, and pay.

No system, where human emotions and judgment are the determining factors, is absolutely perfect, but the Civil Service Commission has been placing as many displaced career employes as can be expected, taking into consideration the relative qualifications—training, education and experience—of the persons in question, as related to the number and types of positions which are available, and the salaries which those persons are willing to accept.

Today And Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

To Promote The Marshall Plan

THE AGREEMENT between Mr. Vandenberg and Mr. Lovett to delete the total figure of 17 billions is the first of several practical steps that need to be taken before the Marshall Plan will be ready for general debate in Congress. It was a necessary first step. For there was no point in asking Congress to accept a figure which is at best only an educated guess as to what may be needed for a period of more than four years.

Lippmann

The naming of the figure in the authorization bill would not have meant that Congress was committed to appropriate that sum, and no European government would have been justified in regarding the figure as an American commitment which it could count upon and take for granted in its calculations. But the American public and the European public would have been misled; they would not have understood easily why Congress named the definite figure of 17 billions in a law if that huge sum of money was not in fact promised and made available.

A SECOND step which might now be taken is the negotiation of an agreement on the agency which is to administer the European Recovery Program. In fact there is much to be said for separating the bill which creates the agency from the bill which contains the authorization of money and defines the standards which are to govern the use of it. If this were done, the bill for the agency could be reported to Congress and passed before the debates on the program itself began.

There are many practical advantages in this procedure. The greatest perhaps is that Congress and the people would know quickly who was actually going to handle the money and the whole complicated operation. If they have confidence in the men who are to operate the program, they will have much greater confidence in the figures.

FOR THESE men, selected by agreement among the leaders of Congress and the Administration, will have to be men of eminence and experience. The fact that these men, who will be bearing the responsibility, vouch for the figures will be a better test of the soundness of the figures than any amount of prolonged, abstruse and abstract statistical calculation. Most of the congressmen who have to vote will be in the position of a man who wishes to invest his savings prudently and profitably. In deciding where to invest he cannot really make up his mind by studying the financial prospectuses. He makes up his mind by looking at the names and the records of the directors and managers of the corporation.

Moreover, in this way an agreement on the agency should be easier to reach. There are some abstract differences in principle between the State Department plan, the Herter plan, the Bureau of the Budget plan, and one or two other plans that will be proposed. But there is no point in debating these differences in the abstract, no point in getting into a wrangle about the blueprints of the organization. Once there is the basic agreement on the men who are to administer the business, the heat will go out of the argument about principles. The men will obviously have to be men who are trusted by the President, by Secretary Marshall, and by Congress. It will be these men, not the blueprints of organization, who will see to it that the program is consistent with our foreign policy and with the intent of Congress.

BY GIVING priority to the agency the congressional committees will be doing what Congress, in its vote for the interim aid bill, has already suggested. Section 14 of that law says that "the functions, applicable records and funds provided for the purpose of carrying out this act shall be transferred to the administration of any organization for general foreign aid which Congress may provide." The interim aid bill provided funds which were to be used up by March 31. No one thought when that bill was passed, and few think now, that the general foreign aid program will have been adopted and the funds appropriated by March 31.

Therefore it is a fair conclusion that Congress contemplated the creation of a new administrative organization for foreign aid early in this session.

THERE ARE other advanages to be gained by creating that agency first, and as soon as agreement can be reached on the form of organization and the men who are to be appointed. One is that Congress can then demonstrate concretely its general approval of the idea, and yet not commit itself to the substance of the program until it has had a full opportunity to debate it. This will have a salutary effect in Europe at a time when the strain of the winter and the tensions created by the debates here will be serious.

The enactment of a short bill and the naming of the men will prove at once not only in London, Paris, and Rome but in Moscow, Prague, and Warsaw that Congress, while it means to deliberate and is no ruberstamp for the Administration, does in fact mean business.

Stalin will understand it. For Stalin, we may recall, refused to beieve that the British and Americans really meant to invade the continent until Roosevelt and Churchill had appointed a supreme commander. If in a few weeks time Congress creates the agency for the Marshall Plan, everyone will understand that there is going to be a Marshall Plan, however much delay there may be over the details of the program.

ANOTHER great advantage to be gained is that the European countries will have no further reason for delay in creating a European organization to police the commitments they made at Paris. The Marshall Plan requires European cooperation, and no more time should be lost in organizing that cooperation. The European countries by acting together while Congress is discussing the program will be showing that the program is in fact what it professes to be.

Our people will be much more disposed to contribute the large sums which the plan calls for if they are convinced that they are contributing to the unification of Europe. They will not take kindly to this whole project if they are left with the impression that all there is to the plan is 16 separate shopping lists put together in one envelope.

Therefore, it is imperative that the European countries, led by Britain and Frence, act as soon as possible to prove that they are in fact cooperating. They will have no excuse for not acting promptly if Congress adopts quickly a law to create the American agency.

State Governments List Council Board Meeting

The annual executive board meeting of the Council of Governments will be held at the Mayflower Hotel tomorrow and Saturday.

Subcommittees studying grants-in-aid and the overlapping of Federal and State taxes, in session yesterday and today, will present their reports to the board. Governor Millard Caldwell of Florida is president of the council.

Washington Calling

By Marquis Childs

Champion Of Frustration

THE OLD saying about history repeating itself is wide of the mark. While the drama on the world stage seems often to be a repeat, there are variations which make the end result something quite different.

Childs

The year 1924 had many surface similarities to 1948. The idealism of that other war had been replaced by isolationism. We were never going to be taken in again by the intrigues of the Old World. Europe called us Uncle Shylock.

The two old political parties were like tweedledum and tweedledee, so fat and contented that you could not tell the one from the other. But beneath the surface, protest and resentment boiled.

Today it is this same resentment and protest that Henry Wallace seeks to exploit. There is the same sense of idealism betrayed, of fine promises gone aglimmering.

Many people feel frustrated, insecure, unhappy in our rushing, materialistic society. A vote for Wallace is one way of expressing that frustration and unhappiness.

Added up, those votes will make a substantial total. The Wallace total will be important in those States—New York, California, Illinois and Michigan—with a large city population and a high proportion of Negroes, many of them only recently come to the North with a new awareness of the problems of their race. And these are the pivotal States in the presidential contest.

James A. Hagerty, veteran political reporter for the New York Times, expressed the view that he did not see how the Democrats can carry New York State in view of the minimum of 200,000 to 250,000 votes Wallace will poll there. From California comes a similar prediction.

IN 1924, Robert M. La Follette, sr., ran for President on a third-party ticket. He polled five million votes and carried one State, Wisconsin. The Republican victory was guaranteed well in advance of election day.

But there are major differences between La Follette in '24 and Wallace in '48. Without any weasel words, La Follette repudiated the Communists who wanted to ride on his coattails.

As Edward N. Doan tells the story in his recently published The La Follettes and the Wisconsin Idea, a convention of Farmer-Laborites dominated by Communists was to be held in St. Paul and they proposed to endorse La Follette. La Follette spoke out:

"The Communists have admittedly entered into this political movement not for the purpose of curing, by means of the ballot, the evils which afflict the American people, but only to divide and confuse the Progressive movement and create a condition of chaos favorable to their ultimate aims. Their real purpose is to establish by revolutionary action a dictatorship of the proletariat, which is absolutely repugnant to democratic ideals and to all American aspirations.

"Not only are the Communists the mortal enemies of the Progressive movement and democratic ideals, but under the cloak of such extremists, the reactionary interests find the best opportunity to plant their spies and provocatory agents for the purpose of confusing and destroying true progressive movements."

THOSE WORDS are as true today as they were in 1924. Yet Wallace is not likely to deliver any such rebuke to communism. While he sometimes scolds Russia as well as the United States the fact is that his most vocal support comes from the Communist Party.

This is only one evidence of the difference between '24 and 48. Before 1924 the League of Nations had been scuttled by President Harding. Both parties were essentially isolationist, even though the Democrats had a wishy-washy plank on the League in their platform.

There was nothing like the wide range of bipartisan support for world cooperation and world reconstruction that exists today. When La Follette talked idealistically about disarmament, he was talking into a complete vacuum. When Wallace talks the same way, he is in reality talking against any practical hope for a stable world order. With his cries for perfection and against war and any racial segregation, he is serving the cause of the intriguers who want to produce breakdown in this country.

That is a fact which should make those who feel like voting for Wallace, merely out of angry protest, stop and think a moment. That kind of protest is worse than futile. It is a reckless abuse of the privilege of the ballot. There is no justification in 1948 for the kind of protest vote that La Follette rolled up in 1924.

Brazil to Oust Elected Reds

Rio de Janeiro, Jan. 7 (AP).—The Chamber of Deputies voted tonight to remove all Communists from elective posts throughout the country. The measure now goes to President Eurico Gaspar Dutra, whose signature will abolish the last legal remnant of Communist activity in Brazil.

Cripps Says Britain Must Rely on Self

London, Jan. 7 (AP).—Sir Stafford Cripps, chancellor of the Exchequer, cautioned tonight that Britain "must not count" upon the Marshall Plan and must "rely more and more on our own efforts" for recovery.

He said, however, that a lack of dollar assistance would place the country "in a grave position."

"We could not play our part in European recovery and, therefore in the recovery of the world as a whole, but should be driven back upon a policy of self preservation."

He added the main British objectives are to "earn more dollars" and "wipe out the general deficit in our overseas trade."

Cripps said the country must earn at least $1,140,000,000 in dollar currency and currency of other Western Hemisphere countries in 1948, "and even so we shall have a $1,200,000,000 deficit in dollars over the whole year."

He advocated special efforts to increase exports to dollar markets, reduction in production costs through greater efficiency, and a willingness by both labor and management to "hold nothing back."

British newspapers differed in comment on the Marshall Plan.

Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard urged that the government "gratefully decline" the assistance.

"The British people must reject this offer if they value their independence and desire to stand on their own two feet," the Evening Standard declared. "Economic sovereignty would be bartered away for a dried egg omelet."

The Conservative Evening News lauded the plan as "one of the most remarkable constructive efforts ever devised, for which, as it is carried out, Britain and Europe will again be indebted to America."

Low-Quality Goods Hamper Moscow Store

Moscow, Jan. 7 (U.P.).—The commercial director of the largest department store in the Soviet Union reported today that production shortages and low-quality manufacturing make it impossible for him to satisfy the buying demands of many Russian families.

Jacob Ganshtak of the Mostorg Store here said that he could not get washing machines, vacuum cleaners, electric refrigerators and several furniture items. Numerous other products, he declared, show such serious flaws that they cannot be sold.

This has been coupled, Ganshtak reported, with increased buyer resistance, apparently caused by the end of rationing and revaluation of the ruble last month.

Bulgars, Slavs Warned by U. S. On Recognizing Greek Rebels

The United States and Britain have warned Bulgaria and Yugoslavia against recognizing the Communist guerilla "so-called government" in Greece, the State Department said yesterday.

American diplomatic representatives in the two Balkan capitals conveyed American views that such recognition would be "clearly contrary to the principles of the U. N. Charter."

Michael J. McDermott, Secretary Marshall's press assistant, told reporters that the American position, first stated last December 30 by Undersecretary Lovett, was submitted orally.

Statement read by McDermott said:

"In conformity with the acting secretary's statement to the press of December 30, United States representatives are making clear that it is the view of the United States that any recognition of the Markos Junta would be clearly contrary to the principles of the United Nations Charter, and in the case of Greece's northern neighbors would constitute open disregard of the recent recommendations of the United Nations Assembly."

Greek Drive Nears Albanian Border

Athens, Greece, Jan. 7 (U.P.).—Greek army troops mopping up guerilla remnants northwest of Konitsa, reached the heights near the Albanian border against stiff opposition today and relieved the entire Konitsa sector of artillery bombardment, dispatches from Yannina reported.

Guerilla rear guards who had delayed the government troops while the main force fled into Albania and the Grammos Mountain area of northwestern Greece, were said to have suffered heavy casualties.

United States Maj. Gen. William Livesay arrived by plane from Washington tonight. He was expected to confer with Greek military and government officials on plans for increasing the Greek army.

Auriol Sees World Threat In 'Cold War'

By Walter Kerr

Paris, Jan. 7 (NYHT).—President Vincent Auriol of France said here today that the "cold war" between the western powers and the Soviet Union was an "absurdity" which threatened to set the whole world on fire.

He appealed for reason, good sense and justice and predicted that in the end they would triumph over uneasiness, and distrust. As a Frenchman, he applauded the European Recovery Program. As a European he said that Europe must work for its own reconstruction.

President Auriol, who became the first President of the Fourth Republic a year ago, spoke to the Anglo-American Press Association.

"If it is true," he said, "that no one wants war, that everyone has a horror of it and everyone understands that, whatever may be its cause, it is a bad business, then why not recognize that the "cold war" is an absurdity?

"For, out of fear or distrust, it can set the world on fire—just as a traveler lost in the forest unconsciously and out of fright fingers the trigger of the gun that he carries."

President Auriol approved the "imperialism of good faith and reason."

Cooperation and solidarity, he said, were contagious and that was the great justification for the Marshall Plan.

"Europe, which must be helped," President Auriol said, "must first help itself and unite if it hopes to reorganize and live. Otherwise, American help is a pittance without a future, or humiliating help."

Yangtze Traffic Halts Again; Red 'Rice Bowl' Drive Feared

Shanghai, Jan. 7 (U.P.).—Government report today claimed victories along the north banks of the Yangtze River but shipping was halted for the second time in five days, indicating that Communist troops might have penetrated the rich "rice bowl" area in force.

Meanwhile, the Communists struck anew in the Changchun area of Manchuria, reportedly capturing Tangku, the port for Tientsin, and cutting all land communications to Tsingtao, a vital port and American naval base on the central China coast.

Kuomintang Committee Expels Feng as Disloyal

Nanking, Jan. 7 (AP).—The Kuomintang supervisory committee today expelled Christian Gen. Feng Yu-hsiang for "disloyalty."

The government recently instructed Feng to return from Washington where he has been outspoken in his criticism of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Loan Sought By Yugoslavia

The 46-nation World Bank announced yesterday that Yugoslavia has asked for a 500-million-dollar loan.

The Yugoslav Ambassador to the United States, Sava N. Kosanovic, applied for it in a letter.

The bank said it had acknowledged the letter and "is advising what data will be required before consideration can be given to the request."

Yugoslavia is the third country within the so-called Russian bloc to apply for a World Bank loan.

Both Poland and Czechoslovakia have had loan applications in for many months. The Bank has not acted on them.

None of those three countries is eligible for aid under the Marshall Plan for European recovery.

The only World Bank loans to date, totaling just under 500 million dollars, have been made to France, The Netherlands, Denmark and Luxembourg.

Aid to Cost Europe Its Steel Secrets

The United States intends to use the Marshall Plan as a lever to extract hitherto-secret information from European countries about the trade practices of their privately owned steel companies.

This was made known yesterday in one of a series of technical reports and recommendations issued by the executive agencies of the Government to supplement last month's Marshall Plan proposals.

Disclosure of the steel-trade information from Europe, it was argued, would make doubly sure that the European countries would not use steel from the United States to continue or reinforce the prewar European steel cartel. The United States has contended for years that cartel arrangements operate in restraint of trade.

Plan Is Surprise

Not a word about demanding information on European steel trade practices was contained in the 250-page "outline" of the Marshall Plan which accompanied President Truman's message on the subject last month. The proposed request for such information amounted to a brand-new condition laid down by the Administration as part of the price of American help.

It may be resisted strenuously by Great Britain, France, Belgium and Luxembourg, the chief steel-producing countries involved in the Marshall Plan. The iron and steel report made public yesterday, after months of work by several Administration agencies, recalled that the pr cartel arrangements in E were supposed to have ter in 1938, but before expiring they were renewed."

"Reports from United States observers in Europe suggest that they are at present legally in effect though presumably in a state of suspense in terms of operation," it said.

To make sure that such practices do not continue, the Administration now finds it "desirable to request the participating countries" under the Marshall Plan to turn over a sweeping range of information to the United States.

It wants summaries or copies of all patent licenses, sales or other agreements or arrangements affecting production, sale and distribution of steel and of contracts for modernizing or expanding steel plants in Europe, to the extent that these may affect a company's freedom to fix its own price policy and seek its own markets.

Another Condition Set

The Administration report laid down one other condition regarding a proposed conference of European countries next March. This conference, called for by the Paris meeting of 16 countries last summer, will try to set up a continuing organization to develop steel production in western Europe as a whole.

Without questioning the temporary need of such an organization, the Administration expressed the fear that it might develop "the usual restrictive cartel functions" when the present extreme scarcity of steel production ended. Therefore, it suggested that the new organization should not be permanent, and should provide representation for steel consuming interests as well as producers in each country.

Against Anderson

Ban Asked On Revealing Grain Deals

A California investment counselor yesterday asked District Court to enjoin Secretary of Agriculture Anderson from publishing the names of grain and cotton dealers.

Lester B. Robinson charged that if the names of his clients are published, their businesses and consequently his business will be irreparably harmed.

Stating that he "believes and is informed" that Anderson intends to make public the names of his clients, Robinson's complaint charges the clients would thereby "be held up to scorn and ridicule," and their business "irreparably harmed and in many cases totally destroyed."

Union Clerk Arrested

A clerk of Building Service Employes Local No. 82 (AFL), which is on strike against the Fairlington apartment development, was arrested yesterday by Alexandria police on two warrants.

Clarence D. Gurewitz, 33, of 1619 R st. nw., was released under $500 bond by Arlington authorities. He was turned over to them by the Alexandria police.

One warrant, sworn out by Fairlington Rental Manager J. B. Howell, charges Gurewitz with "unlawful picketing." The other accuses him of smashing the window of a truck driven by Thomas Huff, of Marshall, Va., who swore out the warrant.

In Alexandria, meanwhile, two strikers, arrested Friday on disorderly conduct charges, were convicted in Civil and Police Court. Each was fined $25 and sentenced to 30 days in jail by Judge Harry F. Kennedy. Both noted appeals and were released under $250 bond each.

They are George T. Puckett, 20-year-old fireman of Route No. 5, Alexandria, and James F. Hogan, 28, truck driver, of Sterling, Va.

total of 600,000 bushels on the winning side.

Another interesting name that showed up on yesterday's lists was Don Ameche of California. Ameche was "long" 90,000 bushels of wheat on September 17—just before that market went into a three-day nose dive.

He apparently was caught, as he sold 25,000 bushels on September 18, a day that the market dropped the full 10-cent limit for one day's trading, another 35,000 September 19, when the market took a second 10-cent drop; and another 35,000 on September 20, when it took a third dime-a-bushel plunge. In the meantime, on the eighteenth, he bought 25,000 bushels—perhaps on the slump.

A spokesman for Ameche, the movie-radio star, told the United Press in Hollywood that Ameche had traded in the grain market. His secretary said: "Mr. Ameche cannot be reached right now and I do not know whether he plans is issue a statement. It is true, however, that he has traded in the market."

Also on yesterday's grain list was the Pioneer Hibred Seed Corn Co. of Des Moines. This company, owned largely by former Vice President Henry A. Wallace and members of his family, is reported as "long" 195,000 bushels of corn on June 30.

The report didn't show whether the account was speculative or hedging. It might have been the latter, as the company is the largest hybrid seed corn company in the country.

However, officials point out it was significant that both the Morgenthau and the Wallace Pioneer account was 195,000 bushels—5000 bushels under the figure that would carry both into the "big trader" listing.

Holders of 200,000 bushels of grain futures at any one time, are required by law to report those holdings to the Commodity Exchange Authority. Similarly their brokers must report any account above 200,000 bushels.

Governor Maw "Spreader"

Another name on yesterday's list was Gov. H. B. Maw, Democrat of Utah. May had appeared on a previous list. He was shown as "spreading"—10,000 bushels "long" in one future and the same amount "short" in another.

An open hearing by the Senate Appropriations Committee into market speculation, with Harold E. Stassen, Republican presidential aspirant, Brig. Gen. Wallace H. Graham, President Truman's personal physician, and Pauley as first witnesses, is scheduled for tomorrow. Stassen precipitated the present furore over the names of speculators when he named Pauley as a market operator a month ago.

D. C. Traders Listed

Among the names of Greater Washington residents shown as trading in corn on June 30 were:

From the District: Davis S. Alpert, "short" 2000 bushels; Samuel M. Badian, "short" 10,000 bushels; Comdr. O. L. Billingsley, "short" 2000 bushels; Harry G. Theft of Sink Ends One Plumbing Problem

Baltimore, Jan. 7 (AP).—For the first time in two months Mrs. Mildred McQuaid is not waiting for the plumber today—but not because he ever showed up.

Mrs. McQuaid said she bought a new sink two months ago, and immediately began a fruitless effort to obtain a craftsman to install it. She gave up in despair yesterday, when she found the 100-pound fixture had been stolen during the night.

Marshall Takes Stand Today To Battle Aid Program Foes

The Marshall Plan starts at 10 o'clock this morning on what threatens to be a long and stormy journey through Congress.

Secretary Marshall will be the first of the Administration's witnesses before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in the Caucus room of the Senate Office Building. Following him on subsequent days, Chairman Arthur H. Vandenberg (R., Mich.) announced yesterday, will be a long line of Government officials, including six other Cabinet officers.

The "generalissimo" in charge of the Administration's case, said Vandenberg, will be Ambassador Lewis W. Douglas, who was called home from his post in London to handle the presentation of the vast and complex European Recovery Program to Congress.

Although the Senate committee will hold morning and afternoon sessions today and tomorrow, Administration witnesses are expected to take at least a week to complete their case. After them will come private citizens and spokesmen of unofficial organizations, opponents as well as supporters of the program.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee intends to hear Secretary Marshall Monday, and probably will take even longer than the Senate group for its hearings. Chairman Charles A. Eaton (R., N. J.) has already said that his committee might need two months, although President Truman has set a deadline of April 1 for getting the authorization through the two houses.

In his testimony today, Secretary Marshall is expected to argue strongly for the full amount requested by the President, and for meeting the April 1 deadline without fail. From both houses, however, came indications yesterday that the program would run into trouble on both counts.

On the Senate side, Senators Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) and Walter F. George (D., Ga.) said that a longe-range European recovery program could not possibly go into effect until July 1. Both conceded that this probably would require still further stopgap help to tide Europe over after April 1, when the present winter relief program expires.

On the House side, members of the Foreign Affairs Committee met with Speaker Martin and Republican Floor Leader Charles A. Halleck to try to patch up differences of the last few days. The committee members were reported to have agreed, on the insistence of Martin and Halleck, to give equal consideration to the Administration's bill and to the sharply contrasting bill already submitted by Representative Christian A. Herter (R., Mass.).

Italian Police Aid Vatican Diplomat

Rome, Jan. 7 (U.P.).—Italian police broke into the Romanian legation to the Vatican today to protect the former charge d'affaires, Theodor Solacolo, from two "Communist ruffians" he said had held him prisoner inside.

The Vatican, meanwhile, formally protested what it termed an attempt by the Romanian Minister to Italy to seize the Romanian Legation to the Vatican.

Solacolo said the pair surprised him in the legation today and told him to get out. When he insisted on taking his papers and his automobile, he said, they held him prisoner. He had resigned his post on December 30 after the abdication of King Mihai.

Two carrabinieri officers who broke the padlocked chain on the legation gates after Solacolo telephoned police planned to remain overnight with him and his alleged captors.

Nicaraguan Canal Bill Introduced

Senator William F. Knowland (R., Calif.) yesterday introduced a bill to authorize construction of an interocean canal across Nicaragua under terms of a 1914 treaty.

The Pamamanian Assembly refused two weeks ago to ratify a treaty permitting the United States to maintain defense bases near the Panama Canal.

Red Blood Cells Must Be Kept Up If You Want To Feel Alive
Thousands Now Regaining Old Time Pep, Vigor and Drive By Releasing Vibrant Energy To Every Muscle, Fibre, Cell
Overwork, undue worry, and lack of certain foods often reduces the red-blood strength — and starved, weak, puny blood just hasn't the power to keep up your energy and drive.
Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.
To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.
Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloat and give off that sour food taste.
Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Steel Prices Are Still Low

GOVERNMENT figures show that average wholesale prices of all commodities today are about 110 percent above 1939.

By comparison, these figures show that the current price of steel at the mills is only about 47 percent higher, on the average, than it was in 1939.

If steel prices had gone up as much as other commodity prices, the pound of steel which today sells at the mill for just over 3¢ would be selling for nearly 5¢.

Weddells Leave $10,000 to GWU

Richmond, Va., Jan. 7 (AP).—George Washington University of Washington, D. C., is one of five colleges and universities benefiting under the wills of former Ambassador and Mrs. Alexander W. Weddell.

The wills, admitted to probate today, provide $10,000 each for George Washington University, the College of William and Mary, Hampden-Sydney, the University of Richmond and the rector and board of visitors of the University of Virginia.

The estates left by Weddell and his wife totaled $1,756,452. The wills also provided for a $50,000 trust fund for Miss Violet Andrews, Mrs. Weddell's English maid, who died with the Weddells in a New Year's Day train wreck in Missouri. The fund will revert to the Virginia Historical Society, of which Weddell was president.

The bulk of the estates will go to the historical society, which is left $100,000 in each will, the furnishings, books, tapestries and other art objects in the Keddell's Richmond home, and all money, not otherwise bequeathed, to be held in trust for it.

The wills, dated last June 28, listed Mrs. Waddell's personal property at $918,080.3 and Weddell's at $802,121.85.

Virginia House, the Weddell's residence in Richmond which was brought over from England and rebuilt in 1926, is not included in the estate since it was deeded to the historical society a number of years ago.

The two wills are identical except for one clause in the will of the former ambassador. In this clause, Weddell left to his godson, Frederick Goodwin Ribble, the "seal ring of the Sultan of Makallah (which was given to me by his gread grandson)."

A $25,000 trust is provided in each will for a sister-in-law, Mrs. W. S. Weddell of Richmond. Three nieces, Penelope Weddell McBride, Mary Anderson Ribble and Margaret Ward Anderson, were awarded $25,000 each in each will.

Trustee of Weddell Memorial Episcopal Church and the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts were left $10,000 in each will. Smaller bequests went to servants and a number of other individuals.

Fatal 'Note' To Love Song

Veteran Priority Study Voted

Baltimore, Jan. 7 (AP).—The Legislative Council voted today to consider revising Maryland's law granting war veterans top priority on eligibility lists of the merit system for State employes.

The council will study the entire system at the suggestion of Senator Robert Kimble (R., Allegany), who said it should be amended to give "the best, most competent, most efficient persons State jobs."

After J. Milton Patterson, State Public Welfare director, mentioned the veterans' priorities, Kimble and Senator Stanford Hoff (R., Carroll) joined in declaring the Maryland law probably is too generous.

Senator Kimble said it was possible for a Maryland veteran to fail an examination and yet be appointed to a position for which other nonveterans had qualified with high marks. He explained the Maryland law gives a veteran 5 points toward his examination mark, and once he is passed he is put at the top of the list.

Patterson reported he was "having some difficulty in administering" his department because of the preferences.

Kimble suggested the entire merit system be looked into, saying, "Let's look at the political manipulation . . ."

The Allegany senator described, with implied criticism, the system of appointments when no veteran is on the list. The employment commissioner may submit to the department head not the man with the highest mark, but five names.

"The department head, at his discretion, may appoint any one of the five," Kimble said. "For various reasons, not political, of course, the department head may pick the fifth person and not the best qualified."

Among recommendations made to the council by Welfare Director Patterson were elimination of the Bureau of Child Welfare, elimination of the authority for training schools to pay board members a $500 yearly salary as secretary, and inclusion of the positions of superintendent at the Montrose School for Girls and Maryland Training School for Boys in the merit system.

Memorial Campaign To Open January 20

The American Legion will start a campaign January 20 to raise $85,000 for a memorial building to World War dead. Four hundred and fifty Legionnaires have volunteered to solicit funds.

The building, to be constructed in Bethesda, will be located on the south side of Montgomery ave., west of Wisconsin ave. It will contain an auditorium, club rooms and recreation facilities.

According to Donald L. Chamberlain, chairman of the fund drive, the Legion already owns the land.

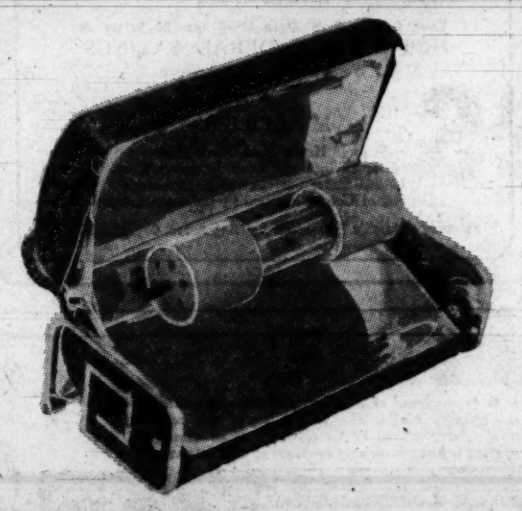

Miss Camp to Speak

Miss Marian Camp, special assistant in the office of the Assistant Secretary of State for Economic Affairs, will discuss "Problems of European Reconstruction" at a meeting of the League of Women Voters of Prince Georges County in the administration building of the University of Maryland at 8 p. m., January 15.

Kann's Electrics Third Floor

Let's Go, America!

Let's do something about the continuing scandal of shortages! We cannot prosper with a program of scarcity and indecision. Let's forget the excuses, and get down to work!

We are told that the automobile industry can't begin to make enough cars to supply America's needs this year.

WHY can't it supply our needs? The excuse is that there is not enough steel and other basic materials. This is true, and as a result, prices keep on soaring.

WHY is there not enough steel and other materials? The excuse is that there is not enough production. This is true. We need more production of everything from hats to homes for they all cost more than they should.

WHY is there not enough production? The excuse is that there is a lack of supplies . . . and, therefore, no steady flow of volume to reduce manufacturing costs. This is true.

KAISER-FRAZER'S 1948 NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTIONS

We at Kaiser-Frazer suffer from no indecision. We are doing something about today's scandal of shortages, and we propose to do more. Here are our resolutions for 1948:

1. To build automobiles before the end of 1948, at the rate of 350,000 per year.
2. To increase the number of Kaiser-Frazer dealers' sales and service facilities throughout the world, as we step up production from 1,000 cars each working day to 1,500 each working day.
3. To expand our plants!
4. To obtain more steel! This is a battle we will continue to wage without let-up. We are cooperating in the operation of iron and steel facilities. More steel will come to Willow Run!
5. To work and strive to help labor to live better and produce more.
6. To help the nation by building more cars for more people!

Kaiser-Frazer never has subscribed and never will subscribe to an economy of scarcity and indecision. We proved that it was possible to batter down all obstacles and produce 145,000 Kaiser and Frazer cars last year. Now, Kaiser-Frazer resolves to more than double last year's rate of production! Why are we so confident? Because our sales continue to increase with every passing month!

Here is our plan: to work and fight to reduce America's continuing shortage of automobiles that are so necessary to national prosperity.

New 8-Story Home Planned By Perpetual

By S. Oliver Goodman

Perpetual Building Association is planning to erect a large new home that may go as high as eight stories, it was learned yesterday.

The 92-million-dollar institution, largest of its type in the Nation, had plans drawn late in 1941 for a new structure but outbreak of war halted the actual start.

In Perpetual's sixty-sixth annual report, just printed, the board of directors commented as follows: "Our present office building, completed in 1927, was built with an eye to the future. However, no one could foresee the tremendous growth of Perpetual. The building, spacious for a 16-million-dollar association, is far too small for an association of 92 million dollars. The board of directors has devoted much effort to the study of larger quarters."

The institution, at 11th and E sts. nw., owns adjacent property at 1105-07 E st. Main problems at present, it is understood, are the shortage of building materials and acquisition of additional ground.

Perpetual's assets have doubled since 1937, when the total was $46,784,020. During 1947 one million dollars was added to surplus, making a total of $7,500,000.

WARNING: Although more insurance is in force now than ever before, the average American has less insurance protection than he had in 1940, Thomas I. Parkinson, president of Equitable Life Assurance Society, warned yesterday. Total insurance in force at the end of 1947 is about 191 billions and the total at the end of 1940 was about 117 billions, he pointed out. But in dollar purchasing power, he stressed, values will be less than seven years ago.

PREDICTION: American women will soon be doing their shopping on new, light-weight motorcycles, according to Ralph B. Rogers, president of Indian Motorcycle Co., who was in Washington yesterday to meet 200 of his company's dealers from Eastern cities. New alloys developed during the war make the light-weight machines possible, he said during preview of the new models at the Hotel Statler.

$134,050 SALE: Traders on the Washington Stock Exchange received a thrill yesterday when 400 shares of blue-chip Washington Loan & Trust Co., stock changed hands at 335⅛ a share. In dollar volume it was one of the largest transactions here in recent years. Bid price remained at 330.

COURSES OUTLINED: Registration will open January 19 for the spring semester of the American Institute of Banking. Courses and their instructors will be as follows: Commercial Law by Wilbur N. Baughman, economics one by James H. Reid, money and banking two by H. E. Riley, accounting two by Thomas Howarth, trust business two by Thomas Grant, jr., bank bookkeepers handbook by Ralph Endicott. In the first semester just ended, there were 308 enrollments here, a 29 per cent increase over the previous year. The courses are sponsored by the Washington AIB Chapter.

ODD LOTS: Dun & Bradstreet wholesale food price index declined to $7.21 in week ended January 6 from the peak of $7.24 in preceding week . . . First Boston Corp. group offered issue of 450,000 shares of $20 par capital stock of Detroit Edison Co. at $20.50 a share . . . General Electric Co. has cut radio prices as much as 30 per cent on 26 current models of television and radio receivers . . . Emerson Radio & Phonograph Corp. announced new table model set to retail for $16.95 . . . R. C. McGiness and Vernon W. Holleman of Washington are listed among Home Life Insurance Co's leading producers in the company's record year . . . Richard K. Mellon, chairman of board of Mellon National Bank & Trust Co., has been elected a director of General Motors.

Stocks Drift In Rut, Ignore Truman Talk

New York, Jan. 7 (AP).—A placid stock market gave scant heed to the President's message to Congress today.

Despite many proposals in the message which Wall Street considered startling, prices plodded along with only minor variations, mostly upward. Few changes either way exceeded fractions.

Modest demand developed for aircrafts at an early stage, a timid extension of the rally that started the list moving ahead toward the close Tuesday. Support was later extended to motion picture, steel, farm implement, metals and a variety of industrial stocks.

The Associated Press 60-stock average closed .3 of one point higher at 65.5. Sales totaled 820,000 shares, compared with 1,030,000 Tuesday.

WHAT STOCKS DID

Advances	549	249
Declines	202	593
Unchanged	177	190
Total issues	928	1032

Chief reason for failure of the market to indicate an opinion on the proposals, financial observers suggested, lay in the widely held belief that a hostile Congress would put many to a quick death. In this category was the idea of boosting corporation taxes while lowering personal income payments.

Closing higher were Warner Bros. at 13, Paramount at 20½, Eastern Airlines at 7¾, Illinois Central at 31⅝, American Telephone at 152⅞, Bethlehem Steel at 100½, U. S. Steel at 77¾ and Montgomery Ward at 53¾. Also ahead were Standard Oil (N. J.), Oliver Corp., Goodrich, Chrysler, American Smelting, Air Reduction at 26⅝, and International Harvester at 91.

New York Cotton

New York, Jan. 7 (AP).—Cotton futures closed $1.15 to $2.20 a bale higher today. Trading was active and prices moved erratically over a wide range. Traders were confused over congressional developments and prospects for cotton exports which are tied in with the Marshall Foreign Aid program.

Commission house selling and trade liquidation and hedging accompanying larger sales of cotton at the 10 primary markets depressed futures about $1 a bale initially. The market subsequently rallied sharply on news that the British cotton commission was again in the market for unspecified quantities of California cotton for February-March shipment.

Hartley Sharpens His Saw To Cut Petrillo Off Limb

By J. A. Livingston

JAMES Caesar Petrillo, the son of a ditch-digger who learned to play first the trumpet and then union politics so that today he heads the American Federation of Musicians at a $46,000-a-year salary, has got himself far out on a limb. And Congressman Hartley (Rep., N. J.), coauthor of the Taft-Hartley law, is sharpening his saw.

Livingston

Hartley's House Education and Labor Committee starts hearings Tuesday on what might be called "the Petrillo situation." Among the witnesses will be representatives of broadcasting networks, record manufacturers, radio manufacturers, television companies, and finally, Mr. Music, himself—Petrillo. The question Hartley will try to find an answer to is this: Is further legislation to restrain Petrillo necessary? Do we have to make the Clayton and Sherman Acts apply to labor unions? Hartley once tried to get such legislation through Congress, failed. Now Petrillo may make it easy for him.

Already Petrillo has barred members of his union from (1) making records; (2) making transcriptions, which can be played over the radio; (3) participating in television broadcasts—so you can't see Koussevitsky except in an auditorium; (4) participating in a regular (AM) broadcast which is relayed over an FM station; (5) participating in international pickups of musical programs, so that a United States network cannot engage, say, in an exchange arrangement with the British Broadcasting System.

And now Petrillo is threatening to pull all his "boys" out from network broadcasting altogether. Which means that the New York or Philadelphia Symphony Orchestras could play on one station and one station only at a time.

PETRILLO'S edicts have a common origin. He collects dues from live musicians. He can't fill his treasury from royalties from records. That's barred under the Taft-Hartley Act. And no longer will local radio stations maintain a standby crew of musicians as a "good-will" gesture toward the union. The Taft-Hartley law bars such featherbedding.

Petrillo probably won't go through with his threat to ban all network broadcasting. Too many customers. He can ban television; he can ban duplicate AM-FM broadcasts. That's because the television and FM-listening public isn't large. But let him try to stop all music over the air—let him say nay to Spike Jones, Vaughn Monroe, Tommy Dorsey, Duke Ellington, or Guy Lombardo and then he'll run head-on into the millions of hepcats and their mamas and papas. Depriving a radio-minded nation of music would compare with stopping the railroads or not mining coal.

Mr. Music can do what he does because of the structure of his union. There are about 200,000 members. Of these, about 150,000 are part-time musicians—carpenters, bricklayers, lawyers, doctors, and others who like to play the piano, violin, or piccolo and pick up extra cash in the process. Their dues are a major source of Petrillo's salary, the car he drives, and other emoluments of union stewardship. Of the 50,000 full-time musicians, about 5000—or 10 per cent—are top flight, what the industry calls first-chair men.

THESE 5000 are in the name bands; they're the ones that get the call for network broadcasts, for performances in the first-rate night clubs, for jobs in the musical shows. They're scarce, in demand, and they receive far higher pay than the average run-of-the-mill tunemonger. But they don't throw much voting weight around in Petrillo's union; and the dues Petrillo collects from them are but a fraction of what he gets from his less-talented, job-hungry members. So naturally Petrillo encounters economic pressure within his own union. When people listen to juke boxes or radio, local players who can't get work complain of technological unemployment.

Petrillo's hold on the 5000 first-chair musicians is his success. He has raised musicians' wages all over the Nation. In Chicago, for instance, wages have gone up from $22 a week in 1922 to $75, $90, and above. Chicago union members were so delighted with this achievement that in 1938 they presented Petrillo a spacious home on Lake Geneva. It cost $25,000 then.

CONSEQUENTLY, no member of the AFM wants to lose his union card. Bad times may come again. Therefore, he won't play any place which Petrillo calls "unfair." Nor will a network, radio station, hotel or night club hire nonunion talent and get on Petrillo's blacklist. That would mean it couldn't get AFM talent. And no big bandleader, even though he can get all the assignments he now wants, dares to risk being on the blacklist. In the first place, he wouldn't be able to recruit AFM musicians; in the second place, few hotels, night clubs, record manufacturers or radio companies would hire him, because they'd in turn court blacklisting. So it makes a closed circle, entirely surrounded by Petrillo.

And that's what the procession of witnesses will point out to Hartley next week—the picture of Petrillo's power and its resemblance to a monopoly. Meanwhile, Petrillo and his attorneys undoubtedly will seek a way to get Petrillo off the limb—without losing too much face. The deadline is January 31. It's then that the AFM contract with the broadcasting companies expires.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, Jan. 7 (AP).—Grains staged a brisk advance in the latter part of the session on the Board of Trade today, aided by an expansion in domestic flour business and reported urgent demand for feed grains in the cash market. A new record high was made by cash oats.

After the close, the local office of the Commodity Credit Corporation announced it had purchased 18,000 bushels of wheat for export yesterday.

Wheat closed 1¾ to 3 cents higher, May, 2.93¾@2.94; corn was 2⅛@3½ higher, May, 2.57@2.57½; oats were ⅝@1⅝ higher, May, 1.21⅞@1.22, and soybeans were 2 to 3 cents higher, March, 4.21.

Grains were lower at the start following word that President Truman had approved a wheat export goal of 450 million bushels this crop year. It was a drop of 50 million bushels from the original goal, but was not much of a market influence as previous releases from the Agriculture Department had hinted at such a move.

Haight's Lucky Day Is Duckless Tuesday

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

"Ever been duck hunting?" asked the boss.

When I answered in the negative, he continued, "Might be a good idea to try it and write a piece."

Haight

I've always been allergic to hunting—and that goes for deer, quail, rabbits and ducks. To tell the truth, I never shot anything but pool and perhaps a little dice.

I can't remember dreaming that I was a bold hunter, standing face to face with a jungle cat, nor have I ever had a yen to blast away at any kind of a bird. However, some of my best friends are hunters—mostly duck hunters—and what they can't figure is why a guy who will eat them won't shoot them.

I am fond of roast duck—wild duck, that is—and never turn down an invitation from duck hunters, although sometimes I wonder if the duck talk you hear is worth the duck meat you eat, if you know what I mean.

YOU CAN STUFF a million ducks with what I don't know about duck hunting. But I have a way of coming up with an authority on almost any subject and my favorite duck man is Ralph Murdock. He not only lives on Chesapeake Bay, but has a speaking acquaintance with everything thereabouts that flies, swims or crawls. At low tide on a calm day, he probably untangles the sea weed.

So I waited for a warm, sunny afternoon and phoned Murdock

"Won't be much use coming down today, Walter," he said. "Weather's too good. I don't think the ducks will come in. Wait until a blustery day—the worse, the better."

Well, last Tuesday I rolled out of bed and hour o. so after somebody had turned up the heat. What I saw out of the window made me whish I was the last horse in the last trace at Gulfstream Park. At least he was in Florida.

SNOWING, BLOWING — Unfit for man or beast—but great weather for duck hunters, so I was told. I got to thinking———maybe I should go to the Corcoran Art Gallery, look at duck pictures and fake a story. However, I steeled myself and decided to die for dear old sports department.

So, wearing more second-hand clothing than you could find in a pawn shop, I was off to make my debut as a duck hunter. Mindful that alcohol and gun powder don't mix, I decided to take my beating cold sober.

When I arrived at Murdock's he greeted me with "Glad to see you, Walter."

"Come on," I said, "Let's go duck hunting. You know I don't like it, but let's hurry up and get it over with."

"There's nothing I would rather do," he replied, "Look out there in the bay! Even through the snow you can see the Mallards and Blackheads around the blind."

I took his word for it and said, "I don't really want to kill any, but I want to truthfully say I went duck hunting."

"THAT'S TOO BAD," moaned Murdock; "but the duck season in Maryland closed last Sunday."

Man, oh man! It really was my lucky day;

I'll always remember duckless Tuesday.

You cannot have your duck and eat it, but there was fresh rockfish, right out of the gill net. During dinner, the boys swung the conversation to ducks, but I was so hungry that I didn't give a honk.

I learned that my hunting trip wasn't the only nonproductive one of the winter thereabouts.

"Four of us went out one morning," said an oldtimer. "It was several hours before we even saw a duck. Finally three flew in and lighted among the decoys. We all blasted away—at the same duck, the other two flying away. We filled that poor bird so full of buckshot that he almost sank.

"An argument began over whose shot had killed the duck and one fellow said he was going to retrieve it anyway. He turned to reach for the rowboat. It had broken loose and was floating down the bay, followed by the dead duck.

"THERE WE WERE," almost a half mile from shore, perched up on some poles and boards with nothing under them but water and a thin coat of ice. To make matters worse, the only false courage we brought was in the boat.

"If a few ducks had flown in perhaps we would have shot at them, but I doubt it. We began firing our guns to attract attention from the shore. We went through three boxes of shells before a native heard our distress signals and came to our rescue.

"As we were leaving the blind, a flock of 50 ducks flew over us honking as if they were giving us the horse laugh," he concluded.

After an interval of silence, I said, "Serves you guys right. No wonder those ducks were laughing. I wouldn't be surprised if one of them didn't untie the boat."

Then I did some ducking.

Ex-Gridders Study Navy Sports Setup

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 7 (AP). — Naval Academy athletic policy was under the critical eye of a group of former Navy athletes today and indications were that football would capture the most attention.

An academy spokesman's brief announcement said that Rear Admiral James L. Holloway, jr., superintendent, "had convened a special panel of the Naval Academy Athletic Association to review over-all athletic policy as it mutually concerned the association and the academy."

Seven of the eight members of the group are former Navy gridders and one was head coach here a few years ago.

Ingram's Blast Recalled

Rear Admiral John E. Whelchel, football mentor in 1942 and 1943, is the ranking member. He is now chief of staff to the commander of the Pacific Fleet service force.

"The work of this group is entirely advisory," the spokesman said.

Football has been a major topic here since the season ended in November. Retired Admiral Jonas Ingram, former director of athletics and now head of the All-America Professional Football Conference, pushed the question into the open recently when he blasted the academy's graduate coaching system.

The present study of Navy sports began Monday and will continue indefinitely.

Besides Whelchel, the group include Rear Admiral Edward C. Ewen, director of Naval air reserve training, Glenview, Ill.; Capt. Frank T. Ward, commandant of midshipmen and president of the athletic association; Donald S. Walker, president of the Alumni Association; Capt. Taylor, director of athletics; Capt. Robert B. Pirie, head of the academy aviation department and member of the athletic executive committee; Capt. Henry H. Caldwell of the Atlantic Fleet staff, Comdr. Slade D. Cutter, in charge of the Navy recreation and physical fitness program.

Blackwell Signs Reds' Contract

Cincinnati, Jan. 7 (AP).—Long, lean Ewell Blackwell, whose whiplike arm made him one of the best righthanded pitchers in baseball last year, today signed a contract with the Cincinnati Reds for 1948.

Terms of the contract were not announced by Warren C. Giles, president of the Reds. But it was apparent from a statement he made that the tall boy had been given a substantial boost in pay. Cincinnati sports writers guessed the salary would be between $20,000 and $25,000.

Blackwell, last season, won 16 games in a row, pitched a no-hitter and came back a few days later to get within two putouts of another when Brooklyn bats exploded for two safeties.

Blackie ended the year a tired pitcher but with a record of 22 games won and 8 lost. He led all moundmen in strikeouts with 193.

Notre Dame, Texas Reported Ready to Sign for Renewal

Houston, Tex., Jan. 7 (AP).—The Houston Chronicle said today announcement of signing of a home-and-home football agreement between the University of Texas and Notre Dame can be expected "within the next few weeks."

"It looks now as if the series will open at Austin in 1949," Sports Editor Dick Freeman said. "By that time Austin's Memorial Stadium will be enlarged to some 66,000 seats, and, needless to say, it will be packed for such a game."

Freeman said sources close to both schools have said the series "is in the bag." Texas last met Notre Dame in 1934, winning a 7 to 6 tilt at South Bend.

FAMILY SCENE—Heavyweight contender Jackie Cranford looks a bit less ferocious in his living room than in the ring. Here he reads a fairy tale to his children, Mike, 2 (on Jackie's knee) and Sherry Lee, 3. Jackie's wife, Wanda, catches up on the family sewing

Tunney Is His Idol

Cranford Confident His Fists Will Lead Him to Ring Title

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

Meeting Jackie Cranford, Washington's latest heavyweight boxing hope, is like taking a cure for all those nasty illusions you've built up about the prize fight business during the past few years.

We visited Cranford, his wife Wanda, and his two kids, Sherry Lee, 3, and Mike, 2, yesterday.

And we left their little rented house in Hillside, Md., with the feeling that here is a young man who knows where he is going.

He loves boxing, for the money he can make out of it. And he loves it as a sport. His recent two-round knockout over Bernie Reynolds in Madison Square Garden netted him $3500, his biggest take so far.

Fights for Garden Soon

His next fight will be at the Garden January 30 against the winner of Friday's Ollie Tandberg-Joey Maxim bout. He expects to net a bigger profit out of that one.

"Soon I can buy that house we've wanted for so long," he says.

His ambitions, he'll tell you right off, are:

1. To be a good husband and father.

2. To be the best at whatever job he tackles.

He believes that he has the makings of a heavyweight champion. He'd like to fight Joe Walcott or Joe Louis.

"I believe that I can lick anybody I fight," he said. "All I need to do is stay in good shape."

That's big talk for a fellow who has been described as lacking in the killer instinct that all good fighters should have.

Laughs Off Criticism

He grins at such criticism.

"They mystify me. At 181 pounds, I'm usually lighter than my opponents. I've won 30 of my 36 pro fights, 20 by knockouts. I've never been cleanly knocked out. I've never quit. I love to fight. Just to get in the ring and try to outwit the other fellow. To hit him and not get hit."

Jackie's appearance and ring style have been compared to those of Gene Tunney. That's no accident. He studies the movies of the second Tunney-Dempsey fight religiously and copies Tunney's style. He even crops his blond hair closely just as the former champion did.

He doesn't consider it a handicap that he's light as heavyweights go. "I didn't have any trouble with Buddy Knox, who outweighed me by 43 pounds. I think that I'm fast enough and a good enough boxer. I have six years of pro experience. My left jab, left hook and right uppercut, my best punches, take care of the rest.

Got Revenge Quickly

He's won 12 of his last 13 fights, 8 by kayoes. The only fight he lost in the last 13 was by decision to Bernie Reynolds. He kayoed Reynolds in two rounds last week.

He believes he can take a championship punch. He isn't an easy bleeder. Two men hold T. K. O. victories over him. Phil Muscato and Ross Strickland. He avenged the Strickland loss by knocking him out the next time they met.

The 25-year-old former Eastern High student is studying refrigeration and electricity so he'll have something to bank on when his boxing days are over. He plans to quit fighting before his unmarked features become marred.

"I want my kids to grow up proud of me," he says.

"No, it makes no difference what kind of work the kids choose, just so they're honest and good at their work."

Early Wynn Agrees to '48 Nat Terms

Early Wynn signed his 1948 Nat contract yesterday, receiving a substantial boost in pay.

Righthander Wynn, who won 17 games while losing 15, received $12,000 last year and his new contract is believed to be in the neighborhood of $18,000.

The strong-armed hurler was one of the American League's workhorses, appearing in 33 games and hurling 247 innings. One of the league's leading moundsmen, the native Alabaman is also used by the Nats as a pinchhitter. He is a switch hitter.

Wynn was sought by the New York Yankees several weeks ago, but Owner Clark Griffith made it clear that he would not part with the ace of his staff. Wynn was the second Nat pitcher to come to terms for 1948. He was preceded by Ray Scarborough, another righthander, who inked his contract two days ago.

Wynn winters in College Park, Md., and dropped in to Griff's office to sign his contract.

Stirnweiss Becomes 3d Yankee to Sign

Jan. 7 (AP).—George Stirnweiss, regular second baseman on the 1947 world champions, became the third New York Yankee to sign his 1948 contract today. The Yankee front office, announcing the signing, said Stirnweiss already was en route to Bartow, Fla., where he will operate a baseball school.

Stirnweiss, a 28-year-old New York native, hit .256 for the Yanks last season, finishing strong after a poor start. He hit .311 from the All-Star game in July until the end of the season. During the World Series his average was .250 but he collected seven hits, including one triple.

Extra Point Try Stays

Football Coaches Pull Upset—Tamper With Only Two Rules

New York, Jan. 7 (AP).—College football coaches recommended only two minor rule changes for 1948, track coaches asked for an NCAA meet on an Olympic basis and baseball mentors bid for Olympic recognition today as the National Collegiate Athletic Association opened its forty-second annual convention.

Surprise of the day was the report of the rules committee of the American Football Coaches Association advising the two slight changes, fewest since the war.

This group turned down such proposals as the elimination of the point after touchdown, abolition of the free substitution rule and the making of a T-formation quarterback eligible for a pass when he does not stand a yard behind the line of scrimmage.

Instead, the NCAA football rules committee, which meets in Savannah, Ga., next Tuesday, will get only these recommendations from the coaches committee, headed by Lou Little of Columbia:

1. After a second successive out-of-bounds kickoff, give the ball to the receiving team at its restraining line, 10 yards in front of the kick, instead of on the kicker's 40-yard line.

2. When a player is injured after the fourth timeout in a half, only the injured player can be substituted for without penalty.

The committee also recommended that equipment be softened to cut down injuries to opposing players but did not ask that it be written into the rules.

The National Collegiate Track Coaches Association, meanwhile, wound up its two-day meeting with a recommendation that a straight Olympic program be adopted for the 1948 NCAA meet only, since it will serve as a semi-final tryout for the Olympic games.

Although too late for consideration in 1948, members of the American Association of College Baseball Coaches moved to have baseball—never more than an exhibition at previous Olympic games—placed on the calendar for the 1952 Olympics at Helsinki.

Central Bows To G. W. High Quint, 32-25

George Washington High of Alexandria, Va., defeated Central High, 32-25, last night at Central.

It was the first loss for Central. The victory brought G. W.'s record to 3-2.

Smith, with 12, paced the winners, but Stringer of Central was high man for the game with 12 points. G. W. led, 13-11, at halftime.

Copyright, 1948, N. Y. Herald Tribune

Formation of a committee for a drive to raise $800,000 to build a gymnasium at Georgetown University was announced today by Leo Kleuberg, chairman of the campaign in the New York metropolitan area.

Kleuberg, executive director of the occupational research foundation of New York City, said the committee comprises Donald F. Flavin and Thomas F. Reynolds, representing the college alumni of the university; Dr. Joseph W. Mooney, representing the medical school; Dr. Albert J. Brogan of East Orange, N. J., representing the dental school; E. Theodore Stern, the foreign service school, and John J. Manning, the law school.

Stadium Bout Set

Jackie Cranford, Washington's heavyweight contender, said yesterday he would appear in an outdoor bout this summer at Griffith Stadium for Promoter Gabe Menendez who is seeking a suitable opponent.

McCray Rumored Moving to Pitt

Pittsburgh, Jan. 7 (AP).—Rumors were flying today that R. N. (Rube) McCray, fotball coach at William and Mary, will replace Walter S. Milligan as head of the University of Pittsburgh gridiron strategy board—but all concerned denied a change was being planned.

A usually reliable source at Richmond, Va., declared last night that McCray had been "highly recommended" to Pitt officials by John B. (Jock) Sutherland, former Pitt mentor and present coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League.

McCray, who became head football coach at William and Mary in 1944 when he succeeded Carl (Dutch) Voyles, recently has been mentioned as under consideration for the top grid post at the University of West Virginia.

Army Celebrates With 41-39 Edge

West Point, N. Y., Jan. 7 (AP).—Staving off a blazing last half rally that tied the score with two minutes to play, the Army basketball team successfully opened its season under new Coach John W. Mauer with a 41 to 39 triumph over Swarthmore College in the Field House today.

B.-C.C. Girls Score

Redskins Sign Art Pollard, Arizona Back

Between denials of the signing of one major college star after another, the Washington Redskins yesterday announced the acquisition of their first rookie from the 1947 draft crop.

He's Halfback Art Pollard of the University of Arizona picked fourteenth by the local representative in the National Football League.

Pollard, it was revealed, was signed by Head Coach Turk Edwards en route to confer with Owner George Marshall on the West Coast.

He's 21 years old, packs 190 pounds on his 6-foot frame, and is considered a speedster. He does the 100-yard dash in 10.1, has averaged over .500 passing for the Arizonians, and has averaged over 44 yards a kick.

Redskin General Manager Dick McCann, in announcing Pollard's signing, said his salary was "under $100,000," alluding humorously to reports that Harry Gilmer, the Skins' No. 1 draft choice, had demanded that sum to put his name on a contract.

Banks Wants Walker Warned Of Low Punches

Billy Banks, manager of Ken Stribling, yesterday announced that he would appeal to the District Boxing Commission to give Johnny Walker, Philadelphia middleweight, a warning regarding low blows for Monday night's 10-round feature match at Turner's Arena—the third battle between the boxers.

Bearing in mind the first meeting when Stribling won on a first-round foul, and also the second match in which Walker swung wildly and at times low, Banks today will appear before Col. Heinie Miller, boxing commission chairman, to seek such protection for his fighter, he said. Walker won the second match.

A pre-med student at Temple University in Philadelphia, Walker comes from the red-hot Chris Dundee stable which has produced the latest heavyweight sensation, Jackie Cranford, and Johnny (Honeyboy) Williams, who upset Roman Alvarez the other night in New York and also whipped Biff Jones here.

CYO, Mitchell's Clash Sunday

Catholic Youth Organization, composed of former Georgetown University basketball players, will make its National Guard Basketball League debut against Mitchell's Sports Store Sunday at the Armory.

Other games, the first to begin at 6 p. m., will find Shaeffer Florists meeting Riverside Rollers; Kavakos playing Keppell's Realtors and Webb-Lyles engaging the National Guard.

Ten teams are in the league, Clifton Liquore and Cavaliers are idle Sunday. Both played last week and won. Clifton's are last season's city champions.

A meeting will be held tomorrow night, 8 p. m., at the Armory of all team managers, National Guard Athletic Director Humphrey DeCola has announced.

Leonard Leaves $40,000 Estate

New York, Jan. 7 (AP).—Benny Leonard, former lightweight boxing champion, left a net estate of nearly $40,000 to his widow, Mrs. Jacqueline Leonard, a tax appraisal showed today.

Leonard, who died last April 18, left a gross estate of $44,926. Of the $39,983 remaining after deductions, $26,800 was in cash. Mrs. Leonard was the sole beneficiary.

Penn State Takes 45-to-25 Decision

State College, Pa., Jan. 7.—There's not much to cheer about when a tight zone team meets a hard clamping man-for-man, local fans learned as Penn State extracted a slow and painfully dull victory from the American University Eagles, 42-25, here tonight.

For the first 10 minutes of the contest, you could hardly hear a basket drop, as the Penn Staters and their famed zone defense led American by the exciting score of 6-3 at the close of the first period.

After that, the Nittany Lions caught fire and pulled to a 19-7 halftime lead as Milt Simon, midget forward, and Irwin Batnick, pudgy center, began to sink them in. An idea of the accuracy of Coach Staff Cassell's boys stood out in the statistics which showed that the Eagles made less than 10 per cent of their shots in the first half.

After the first half, the result was never in doubt, the Lions at one point pulling away to a 30-15 lead. Lamon, Fling and Negley had trouble hitting the hoop and the visitors finished with a field goal shooting average of 11 per cent.

The Lions made it more decisive when Jack Biery, pointless all night, racked up four late points and Milt Simon swished in a last-second goal to make the count 45-25.

Mrs. Carroll Wins Post's Bowl Contest

MRS. DOROTHY CARROLL, 36-year-old housewife and mother of three, repeated an earlier victory by winning The Washington Post Pick-the-Winners football bowl contest on games played New Year's day.

Mrs. Carroll, 235 F st., sw., missed only one game in the 16 and that was the Maryland-Georgia 20 to 20 tie. Amazingly, she picked Georgia, 21-20. In the other game on which a score was required, she had Missouri Valley, 28; West Chester, 7. Actually, the Cigar Bowl figure was 26-7, Missouri Valley.

Thus, she picked the first 14 games correctly, including the SMU-Penn State tie, and missed the scores of two games by only three points. That performance gave her first place and two season tickets to the 1948 Washington Redskins' home games over 19,180 other contestants. She also will receive two season tickets to games of the Baltimore Colts.

Runnerup was Richard E. Fessler, 29, a War Department economist. Fessler, 24 Danbury st., se., also missed only the Maryland tie but his two scores weren't as close as Mrs. Carroll's.

WITH two tie games throwing most off, there were 63 who had only two games wrong. One was Trygve Tuve, 14-year-old guessing wizard who won two of The Washington Post contests during the regular season. Tuve also missed the two scores by only three points but lost out when he picked Southern Methodist to win over Penn State.

Mrs. Carroll, though quite happy to win, wasn't too surprised. She knew it would have taken a perfect score to beat her entry. In the sixth contest, she tied for top honors, the first woman to do so.

Oddly enough, Mrs. Carroll credits young Tuve with helping her win the bowl contest. She didn't think much of Maryland's chances against Georgia, but after Tuve picked Maryland on a radio show she decided to put the Terps only a point behind Georgia.

Post Trophy To Club K

Led by Al Guiffreda, who scored 33 points, Club K defeated the Alexandria Boys Club, 51-49, last night to win the Washington Boys Club's tenth annual Christmas basketball tournament and The Washington Post trophy.

Guiffreda, who got 14 baskets and 5 free throws, broke a 49-49 tie in the last 10 seconds to defeat the defending champion Alexandria team.

In the 105-pound division, Georgetown Boys Club downed Alexandria, 40-35.

Len Small Shines In Armory Game

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

After losing the lead with a minute and 10 seconds to go, George Washington put on a brilliant spurt to beat Virginia, 61-55, last night at the Armory before 2000.

Maynard Haitheock recovered for G. W. with an overhead shot that made it 56-55, then Bill Cantwell made a field goal, Len Small a foul and Cantwell again dropped a basket as the horn sounded.

The Virginians stayed right with George Washington until Guard Howard Hoffman started dropping them in the last few minutes of the first half.

Cerra Connects

After Art Cerra broke a 21-21 tie, Hoffman drove in for two baskets. Cerra connected with a foul and Hoffman added two more. That made it 34-22 and a foul by Blankin and field goal by Noe left Virginia still trailing at intermission, 34-25.

Len Small got four field goals early in the game to put the Colonials back in the running after Virginia had taken a 9-4 lead.

Charlie Noe and Joe Noertker, each with three goals and a foul toss, did most of the Excavators' scoring in the first 20 minutes.

G. W. Comes Back

Virginia went into the game with a five and four record. George Washington was trying to get back in the victory column after suffering its first loss of the season against North Carolina State last time out.

Small matched his first-half field goal bag by notching four more in the first 10 minutes of the second half, helping G. W. run its lead to 50-40.

Noe made four rapid points and Lou Morris dropped two field goals to keep Virginia from getting too far behind.

Merwood, Andreota Box

Danny Merwood of Merrick Boys Club and Ken Andreota of Shamrock AC clash tonight in one of the features in the quarterfinal round of the Golden Gloves boxing program at Uline Arena. First bout is at 8:30.

Boxing in the novice 147-pound class, Merwood and Andreota have been impressive in winning their first two bouts. The winner will have an excellent chance to cop the annual trophy awarded by Representative Fred A. Hartley to the outstanding novice.

Bill Bennings

At Gulfstream.

Dear Folks:

Hialeah, the beautiful, opens next week and Friend Everett Clay is brushing up the racing scribes on some pertinent facts on the long session. There's a minimum purse of $3000 and a total outlay to the horseman of $254,000, exclusive of stakes, and that ain't in hay, either. First sons and daughters of Blue Swords will race at Hialeah. He will be recalled as the horse who chased Count Fleet as a 2 and 3 year old. Ted Atkinson, third leading rider for 1937, will resume his career next week. He is under contract to the Greentree and Whitney outfits. The horse of the year has been attracted by the $50,000 Widener Handicap for the past three years. Armed, 1947, Assault, 1946, and Busher, 1945, are the trio. Three continents—North America, South America and Australia—are scheduled to be represented in the Widener this year. Beauchef, Quibu, Respingo, Lord Grillo and Retintin from South America and Shannon comes from Down Under. Eight horses have been named for both the Widener and the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap. The races are a week apart with the Widener on February 21. Looks as if we will hear of some more transcontinental horse flying.—Bill.

Georgetown Is Slight Favorite

Georgetown and Maryland, convinced that travel is more bitter than broadening, will try to salvage some satisfaction from disastrous court seasons against each other 8:45 tonight at the Armory.

The quintets meet in the first intracity affair of the year after receiving some mighty rough treatment on the road.

Georgetown, just about the biggest disappointment in college circles, started the season with six straight triumphs against fairly formidable opposition. Then the Hoyas lost to Santa Clara and really went in a tailspin on a six-game tour that covered 10,000 miles.

Aside from looking at some pretty scenery, all the Hoyas got out of the trip were six more losses which ran their losing streak to seven. After receiving trouncings from Loyola of New Orleans, St. Louis U., Louisville U., Western Kentucky Teachers, and Loyola of Chicago, Georgetown did rear up to give Notre Dame a good game, before bowing, 77-69.

That performance against the Irish may make the Hoyas a favorite tonight.

Coach Flucie Stewart's Terrapin squad comes into the game after being trampled by North Carolina and Duke in a two-game trip. The Tar Heels beat Maryland, 70-46, and Duke won, 53-42. Before the holidays, Maryland had a 4-2 record.

Even in the two drubbings in North Carolina, Maryland's Bill Brown and Bill Wanish turned in creditable jobs. Center Brown tallied 18 points against Carolina and came back with 10 against Duke. Wanish, former All-State at Allentown (Pa.) High, scored 10 and 12, respectively.

Georgetown's Captain Andy Kostecka, who came to life against Notre Dame with 19 points, is expected to lead the offense tonight. He probably will be helped by Ray Corley and Ken Brown.

Thackara Tops 1948 District Tennis Seeding

Jim Thackara is the new No. 1 man of Washington according to 1948 rankings released yesterday by the District of Coumbia Tennis Association at the Burlington Hotel.

Thus Thackara, in his first year of local tennis, took over the top spot perenially held by Barney Welsh, Rockville attorney, who dropped to No. 2 position.

Thackara captured the District of Coumbia tournament and the Northern Virginia tournament, defeating Welsh in the final round of each. Welsh, however downed Thackara in the finals of the Middle Atlantic tournament.

Dr. Dave Johnson and Don Leavens in the doubles seeding, followed by Welsh and Hugh Lynch.

In women's singles, Ann Gray again has the lead spot, with the rapidly improving Willie Herbert taking over second position. Miss Gray and Charlotte Decker top the women's doubles list.

Yesterday's meeting also revealed nine tentative tournament dates for 1948 beginning with the City of Washington championships May 28 and ending with the Northern Virginia tournament August 28.

Last year's officers, C. Alphonso Smith, president; Ben Powell, vice president and secretary, and Richard T. Willis, vice president and treasurer, were reelected.

Court Clinics At Coolidge, Langley Gyms

Two changes have been made in the schools where the Washington Caps will conduct another basketball clinic beginning Tuesday January 12.

The big Coolidge High gymnasium will be used instead of Macfarland and Langley has been substituted for Powell. Except at Jefferson, where classes will be held at 3:30, all classes will begin at 6:30 p. m. and last for approximately one hour.

The four-week clinic, open to kids 18 and under, will see dribbling, passing, free throws, pivot play and set shots taught with member of the Caps serving as instructor, assisted by Recreation Department supervisors.

All who attend will fill out registration cards and diplomas will be awarded to those who attend classes regularly.

Remember, it's free and it's not a spectator class. After the instructors have shown you the proper way to do the fundamentals, you'll get a chance to step out on the court and practice them for yourself. There will also be choose-up games with the Cap instructor serving as official.

School starts January 13 and runs weekly for three weeks after that. The dates, again, are January 13, 20, 27 and February 3. Be sure to wear tennis shotes, sneakers or shoes with rubber soles.

Some additional features have been planned and will be announced in Sunday's Washington Post.

Here are the schools where the Cap clinics will be conducted and the Cap instructors:

Priory Bows To St. Albans

Center Rogers Kingsbury tossed in 20 points to lead St. Albans to a 37-26 victory over Priory at the latter's court yesterday. It was the opening game for the winners and Priory's second loss in seven starts.

Priory held a 21-20 halftime lead but was hopelessly outclassed in the second half by a Saint defense which held the losers to five points on foul shots. Ray Beard was high scorer for the losers with nine points.

Caps Will Use 3 Fresh Men In Effort to Stop Joe Fulks

Although the idea is scarcely new in pro basketball circles, Caps' Coach Red Auerbach said yesterday he thinks the way to stop the Philadelphia Warriors is to stop Joe Fulks.

Admitting that it might not be an original thought, the young mentor explained that he's decided to try to halt the Kentucky scoring whiz by keeping a fresh man on him.

And that's what he plans to do here Saturday night when the Warriors make their last scheduled appearance at Uline Arena.

The Caps worked out at American U. gym yesterday and left last night for tonight's engagement at St. Louis against the Bombers. Although the Caps and St. Louis have split four games, the local team is looking past tonight's game and concentrating on Fulks and Co.

It looked for a time that the Warriors never would beat the Caps. Over a two-year period, the defending champs of the Basketball Association of America dropped seven straight both here and in Philadelphia. In their last outing in the Quaker City, though, the Warriors finally won, 69-60. And, in that game, Fulks had 30 points.

Auerbach said yesterday that three men will be assigned the task of keeping Fulkse down. Bonees McKinney will bear the brunt and he will be assisted by Long John Mahnken and Irv Torgoff.

It was Mahnken who received most of the credit for fblanking Boston's Ed Sadowski here last Saturday night. It was the first time in the big fellow'se basketball career that he failed to score a final field goal.

Using the guards to heckle Sadowski, second to Fulks in the league scoring race, Auerbach had Mahnken concentrate on blocking his pivot shots. And Mahnken did a masterful job.

McKinney, 6-foot-6, 175-pound stringbean, is the first to admit that guarding Fulks is one of the most difficult tasks in basketball.

"Trouble is," said Bones, "this guy Fulks shoots from anywhere. He may pivot or he may take a shot from any spot around the foul line. Then, too, he's deadly on tap-ins and there isn't much anyone can do about them."

McKinney pointed out that Fulks takes a great number of shots. In his last game here, Fulks tossed 34 in the general direction of the basket, sinking nine.

WE, YOUR LOCAL CHEVROLET DEALER—and every other Chevrolet dealer in America—are both proud and happy to make the following report to buyers and prospective buyers of Chevrolet products:

Again in 1947, Chevrolet built and sold more cars and more trucks than any other maker in the industry, just as Chevrolet has built and sold more cars and more trucks than any other maker for the total seventeen-year period, dating from January, 1931 to January, 1948—the modern period of motor car history!

Naturally, we as well as the Chevrolet Motor Division of General Motors are deeply grateful for America's outspoken preference for Chevrolet passenger cars and trucks; and we are determined to do everything in our power to continue to deserve this preference in the future as in the past.

We want to thank each and every person in this community for his friendship and goodwill for this organization. We solicit and appreciate your patronage. We are doing our level best to prove that, by filling orders for new Chevrolets just as promptly as we can—even under today's trying conditions—and we are deeply and doubly appreciative of the patience and understanding of all our customers who are awaiting deliveries of new Chevrolets.

Needless to say, you buy wisely when you buy the product of the world's largest producers of cars and trucks, for that is the way to maximum dollar value! Rest assured that we'll fill your order for a new Chevrolet just as soon as it is humanly possible to do so. Meanwhile, please let us help to keep your present car or truck in good running condition by bringing it to us for skilled service, now and at regular intervals.

What Am I Saying! — By Frank Morgan: Bad candidates are elected by good citizens who don't vote.

The Federal Diary

by Jerry Kluttz

Truman Indorses Social Security For U. S. Workers

PROGRAM: The President, as expected, ignored the issue of pay raises for Federal workers in his message to Congress yesterday.

The only reference he made directly to Federal employes was that the number of them had been cut from 3,750,000 to 2,000,000 since VJ-Day.

But indirectly, he asked Congress to bring them under the Social Security system of unemployment compensation.

Also, in effect, he indorsed the bill now in Congress that would exempt the first $1440 in Civil Service pensions from Federal income taxes. The President recommended that Congress give each taxpayer a cost-of-living tax credit of $40, and an additional credit of $40 for each dependent. This plan would have the effect of exempting many retired employes from Federal income taxes.

Meantime, the Administration is drafting its own program for an adjustment of Federal salaries. In brief, the plan calls for overhauling the Classification Act to give Civil Service broad powers to fix salaries to meet unusual and changing conditions.

HEARING: The House Judiciary Committee will hold a hearing Wednesday on the Keating bill to provide more liberal cash benefits to Federal workers who are injured in line of duty. The legislation will have the support of employe groups. Representative Keating (R., N. Y.), the bill's sponsor, believes the Federal compensation system is totally inadequate—and it is.

COMMERCE will reorganize its Office of International Trade. Its export supply branch is a separate unit in the office. But now that the export control program has been extended by Congress for 14 months, the office is to be integrated with the commodity, area, and other OIT branches. An export licensing section is to be created to receive requests to export goods.

NOTES: Representative Meyer (R., Kans.) has introduced a bill to pay Government Printing Office employes for the annual leave they lost back during the economy days of 1932 . . . Gen. Paul Hawley, former director of medicine at VA, is slated to be appointed consultant to the National Security Resources Board . . . Edgar Puryear, who passed on the draft deferments of Federal workers, has joined the Civil Service loyalty review staff . . . Walter F. Frese is chief of GAO's new Accounting Systems Division. It will be his job to bring about better accounting methods on Federal agencies.

CAB: The President told his press conference last week that former Senator James Mead of New York was being considered for several Federal jobs, but one of them was not the chairmanship of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

But now, it's reported, the signals have been switched, and Mead may be nominated for the CAB post. At least that's the word several Senators were given yesterday. Stanton Griffis, Minister to Poland, has the support of Commerce Secretary Harlman for the job. Opposition has developed to him, however, and now the Administration is after a New Dealer to fill the post.

POSTOFFICE: Robert Heller & Associates, a Cleveland management engineering firm, yesterday launched a study of the Postoffice Department. The firm was retained by the Hoover Committee on Government Aeorganization.

Mr. Heller made a study of Congress several years ago. Many of his suggestions were written into law in the Congressional Reorganization Act of 1946.

Meantime, the Senate Civil Service Committee is making a survey of the equipment needs of 23,000 postoffices the country over. It also will encourage the department to promote its services in order to attract additional income.

RETIREMENT: Have you designated a beneficiary for your Civil Service retirement refund? Perhaps you will afte you read this story:

On April 10 last year a GAO employe changed the beneficiary for his retirement from his estranged wife to his estate. The form reached GAO the day following. The employe died on April 14. Civil Service didn't get the form until April 17, so its retirement division ordered the money paid to his wife.

The case was appealed to the commission by Henry F. Lerch, a Washington lawyer. The commission yesterday overruled the retirement division and ordered the money paid to the man's estate. It decided that its rules had been complied with since GAO received the new form before the man's death.

Owner Walks Out Of Empire Probe

'Fallacious, Hearsay' Testimony on Fatal Collapse of Building Assailed by Attorney

By Murrey Marder
Post Reporter

Interrupting the probe of the Empire Building collapse, the brother and counsel of the building's owner yesterday attacked methods used in the investigation.

Attorney George Papanicolas, breaking into the hearing, declared he was advising his brother, Nick Papanicolas, owner of the structure, "to withdraw from the proceedings," which he said have involved "fallacious, hearsay testimony."

After the outburst, the brothers grabbed their hats and coats and stalked out of the board room of the District Building.

The attack on the board came after the building's former janitor, Charles Brown, failed to support fully previous testimony that he was "told to keep his mouth shut" about removal of an abutment in the building.

Brown said Nick Papanicolas instructed him an hour after the collapse not to talk about removal of what Brown described as a wood and plaster partition on the ground floor.

Another development of significance in the partial collapse of the building, which claimed four lives and injured 12 others on December 16, was the disclosure that a 10-foot opening in a well of the building may have been unauthorized.

Building Inspector Robert H. Davis said no permit had been found for the opening, which is in the basement of the building. The wall may be the lower portion of a key wall believed to be the point of collapse on upper floors.

Probe of the collapse has been adjourned until an on-the-scene investigation can be made by the investigating board when sufficient wreckage is cleared out of the structure at 9th st. and New York ave. nw.

May Subpena Owner

If Nick Papanicolas refuses to appear voluntarily before the board, he will be subpenaed, said Board Chairman Stewart Beall, a civil engineer.

At present, said Corporation Counsel Vernon West, the board has no power of subpena, but this can be provided by the District Commissioners formally drafting an order empowering the board as their agent. At present the board is acting for Engineer Commissioner Young.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Chester H. Gray, also a member of the inquiry board, said he would appear before the Commissioners today to request formal authorization.

George Papanicolas charged that Building Inspector Davis, and Gray, by their line of questioning, were "trying to pin blame on someone other than the building inspection department." Papanicolas said he would write to the Commissioners today, outlining his stand.

A tenant at the time of the collapse, A. C. Burgland, now living at 529 9th st. se., said in October he discovered the floor was slanting in his third-floor apartment, next to an apartment involved in the collapse. "I thought it was just an old house settling," he said.

Noted Sag, He Says

In his testimony, Brown, the janitor, said that he noticed last summer that a section of the seventh floor of the building was sagging. He said he discovered this when called to fix a screen door that would not close.

Carolina Growers List Potato Hearing Monday

Elizabeth City, N. C., Jan. 7 (AP).—The first of four public hearings to be held in four States on a far-reaching marketing agreement that will affect potato growers of the Middle Atlantic States will be held here Monday.

The hearings will be held where the proposal would apply—the Carolinas, Virginia, and Maryland. Purpose of the hearings is to prevent a repetition of 1947's market glut.

Police Board To Try Jones On 3 Counts

Lying to Superiors Added to 2 Other Charges Resulting From Trash Row

Three charges for Police Trial Board action yesterday were ordered prepared against Pvt. Jerome J. Jones, under police suspension for the "unnecessary beating" arrest of Peter J. Stathis.

The charges, announced Police Superintendent Robert J. Barrett, are for false arrest, unnecessary use of his service baton and for making of a false statement.

Stathis, exonerated Tuesday in Municipal Court of the policeman's charge of disorderly conduct, declared he would "withhold" his own charges of criminal assault until completion of Police Department action in the case.

"But no matter what the police do, I am going to press charges against Jones," declared Stathis, who complained he was struck in the face without warning and without cause by the policeman.

Arrested After "Joking"

The alleged beating occurred near midnight Saturday after Jones entered a second-floor apartment at 650½ Newton pl. nw. and directed the occupants to clean up some trash outside. Stathis, visiting friends there, volunteered and was subsequently struck and arrested for disorderly conduct after "joking" with the policeman, standing guard.

Major Barrett, in explanation of the third charge against Jones, said that the policeman told his superior officers he was admitted to the apartment by one of the occupants "whereas court testimony shows he was not." Witnesses said he rapped lightly and walked in.

The injured civilian yesterday announced his intention to withhold criminal charges against Jones following a hearing on the case before Assistant United States District Attorney Warren Wilson, to whose office he had taken his initial complaint, Monday.

Attending yesterday's hearing were Private Jones; his counsel, Attorney Charles E. Ford; Stathis' counsel, Allen J. Krouse; L. A. Nikoloric, representing Thurman Arnold's law office in Stathis' behalf; Mr. and Mrs. Leon Jones, owners and first-floor occupants of the Newton pl. house, and Jones' superior officers, Capt. Walter Storm and Lieut. Todd Thoman, of the Tenth Police Precinct.

Little additional testimony was taken yesterday since Assistant District Attorney Wilson had attended the court hearing.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones (no relation to Private Jones) testified they had telephoned the trash complaint and heard the arrival of the policeman. They said they did not witness the arrest, nor did they hear profanity and loud talking, which the policeman said preceded the arrest.

Stathis of 3228 Park pl. nw. and the friends he was visiting at the time, Mrs. Mae Q. Davis and her daughter, Diane, 14, who testified in court, waited in a corridor until the hearing's end.

Clergymen Pray For Guidance on Steps of Capitol

Some 200 Negro clergymen gathered in Washington yesterday and prayed for Divine guidance for the Nation in the coming year on the east steps of the Capitol.

Afterwards, the ministers met at the Mount Carmel Church, Third and I sts. nw., to hear reports on the status of civil rights legislation pending in Congress.

The prayer meeting, sponsored by the National Fraternal Council of Negro Churches in America, was voluntarily moved up 30 minutes, according to Capitol police, in order not to overlap with the visit of President Truman to Congress for his state of the Union

What Price Meat Depends On Where You Do Shopping

Whether housewives pay increased meat prices within the next few days will depend on where they do their shopping.

Some stores surveyed in a spot telephone check yesterday said they would immediately start passing on to the consumer increased prices of 1 to 10 cents a pound, reported at the wholesale level.

Other retailers said they had not yet paid the higher prices themselves and even if they did they would be reluctant to tack on the new increase.

"Meat prices are too high already," declared one retailer.

A spokesman for one chain of stores denied any meat price increases are being paid by his store, while another chain official said, "There has been a steady daily increase. Right now the prices for most beef, veal, lamb and pork are 3 to 5 cents a pound higher at wholesale than last week."

He said his chain "will put the increases into effect gradually; we have to do it that way. The increases may not be general for a week."

One retailer in the Northwest section said he would postpone any price boosts in the hope that "prices will drop before I'm forced to raise them."

Almost every dealer checked expressed concern over consumer resistance in event of large-scale rises.

Butter, which dropped nearly 3 cents a pound on the New York Mercantile Exchange on Tuesday, took another tumble of 1½ cents a pound yesterday.

The price was down to 87¼ cents a pound for Grade AA yesterday, and 85¾ cents for Grade A.

This decrease has not yet become effective here. Most retailers surveyed yesterday said their prices were still close to $1 a pound.

Meanwhile, the Bureau of Labor Statistics disclosed that food prices in the country advanced 0.5 per cent between October 15 and November 15, with higher prices reported for all food groups except meats and eggs. Washington's increase for the period was the same as the national average.

Chest Failure Forces Family Aid Agency To Cut Budget a Third, Set Branch Closing

"I'm terribly sorry," the case worker will say. "We can't help you."

Almost tearfully, she will give that answer to perhaps 250 Washingtonians this month—residents plagued by ills that everyone dreads. Last nickel gone. The youngster has tuberculosis. No place to live.

It will be hard, but she will turn away the timid woman with two small children, who is so torn by fear and worry she can scarcely speak. The woman's husband has just left her. Now her last hope will leave her, too.

And the case worker will turn her back also on the shabby woman of 60, who has no money, no job and worst of all no one with whom to discuss her plight.

If the Family Service Association's 1948 budget had not been sharply slashed, owing to failure of the Community Chest Federation's recent campaign, these doors would not be shut on so many of the city's wretched.

But officials of the association, a nonsectarian organization, located at 1022 11th st. nw., served notice on Washington residents yesterday that this coming year the doors will be shut, not once but hundreds of times.

Said President G. Howland Chase:

"We fear that the breaking up of families who cannot receive help in time will result in further family disorganization, increasing delinquency and crime, breakdown in health, both physical and moral.

He said the association's services and personnel will immediately be reduced by one third in order to be covered by the Chest's allocation — $118,600 — or what the agency received back in prewar days to cover prewar population needs. Thus, for two months at least no new cases will be accepted.

Beginning February 1, the agency's branch office at 530 12th st. ne., will be shut, Chase added.

"The public," the association president commented, "should know what the effect of the Chest failure is."

Manager Drew On Town, Says Greenbelt Aide

Gobbels Returned Excess Pay Later, Treasurer Testifies

A committee investigating the Greenbelt, Md., town administration heard charges last night that Town Manager James T. Gobbel overpaid his own salary early in 1947 and later reimbursed the town treasury by personal check.

Miss Mabel Kandler, town treasurer, appearing as the first witness against Gobbel, testified that the 1947 budget reduced his salary by more than $700 but that he instructed her to continue paying him on the 1946 basis in the first three months of the year.

Miss Kandler said she was instructed in April to reduce the town manager's salary payments to the 1947 budget figure and that in June of last year he turned over to the treasury a personal check for $481 which balanced the earlier overpayment. She said she was instructed to "keep quiet" about the entire transaction.

The town treasurer said that Gobbel also ordered her to overpay two other department heads whose salaries were scheduled to be reduced in the new budget. The overpayment, she said, affected the town solicitor and the director of public health in both departments the overexpenditures were offset by transfers of funds from other budget sources.

Miss Kandler told the committee that Gobbel, when he first ordered her to reduce his salary to the 1947 scale, told her that he was having difficulty with the town council and "didn't want to give them anything more to squawk about."

The testimony of the attractive brunette treasurer was broken off on a sharp note when she refused flatly to answer questions submitted by Defense Counsel Abraham Chasanow. Miss Kandler declared heatedly, "You were rude to me last summer and I don't care to talk to you."

The committee upheld her right to refuse to answer questioning and then asked her if she would prefer to have the questions submitted by Gobbel. The town manager said he had no immediate questions to ask, but would later call on Miss Kandler to corroborate facts he intended to present.

Prior to Miss Kandlder's appearance before the committee, one charge against the town manager was withdrawn. Elliott M. Sines, superintendent of public works for the town, who had accused Gobbel of trying to tell him how to vote in the council election last September, said he preferred not to press his charge "in the interest of many, many people."

Sines, in a sworn complaint, had charged that Gobbel had threatened to fire him if he failed to support the slate of the five present council members.

The committee, which began its investigation in November and then recessed over the Christmas holidays, has scheduled another hearing for tomorrow night in the town council offices.

D. C. Police Start New Reports Setup

By Joseph Paull
Post Reporter

The Metropolitan Police Department's streamlined communications setup was put into operation at 8 a. m. yesterday.

The first eight hours o the new system saw dispatchers handle 178 complaints from citizens plus other routine matters. There was a moderate amount of confusion, due, it was said, to the radical changes made by the new system.

Maj. Robert J. Barrett, police chief, inspected the operations and declared:

"We have had experts in who said there is nothing like this in the entire Nation. It is as modern as they come. I have been informed that agencies are going to disseminate pictures and descriptions of what we have here to every sheriff's office and police headquarters in the Nation."

The major urged citizens to call Executive 2060 rather than national 4000 whenever they have need of police assistance. Executive 2060 has been reserved for police assistance as well as emergency calls.

Inspector Floyd A. Truscott and Capt. John J. Agnew, who head the Communications and Records Bureau, of which the central complaint room is a part, said they believed the new system will eliminate many of the shortcomings in police service in Washington.

Personnel of the section were briefed in their duties from 9 p. m. to 11:45 p. m. Tuesday. They went on duty at 8 a. m. yesterday.

In the new system, women clerks take down the complaints as they are related by citizens over Executive 2060. Quickly, they hand the condensed complaint to the land line dispatcher, who is a telephone control man. He calls the precinct involved, the radio dispatcher or other appropriate agency.

Activities Coordinated

In an emergency, the radio dispatcher and others can listen in to the complaint as it is made.

The system coordinates communications, records-keeping and statistical methods. It owes its origin to an expose by The Washington Post, which found police service was impaired and statistics incorrect due to inadequate methods used by the Police Department.

H. O. Staggers Enters W. Va. Congress Race

Martinsburg, W. Va., Jan. 7.—Harley O. Staggers, of Keyser has formally announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Congress from the Second West Virginia District. The post is now held by Melvin Snyder, Republican, of Kingwood.

Staggers, a native of Mineral County, W. Va., was formerly coach at Potomac State College in Keyser, and has served as sheriff of Mineral County and State director of the Office of War Information. He is a past president of the West Virginia Lions Club.

Hit by Auto Christmas Eve, Bartender Dies

Hurts Considered Minor at Time; Autopsy Ordered

Clarence W. Moore, 46, bartender, of 1325 Stevens rd. se., died in his bed yesterday, apparently the victim of a Christmas Eve traffic mishap considered relatively minor.

Recuperating at his home, he was found "sweating profusely" shortly before death by his son, Clarence, jr., 11. One-half hour later he was pronounced dead at Casualty Hospital.

Mrs. Mary Louise Moore, 44, his wife, told police that her husband, a bartender at the Washington Golf and Country Club, Arlington, Va., was struck by an automobile while walking Christmas Eve at N. Glebe rd. and Lee blvd., Arlington.

Treated at Hospital

She said he was admitted to Arlington Hospital for treatment of a leg fracture, and released December 30 for convalescence at home. He never complained of his hurts, she said.

Certificate of death was withheld last night pending autopsy, and the body was removed to the District morgue. He leaves six children, ranging in ages from 4 to 23.

In other traffic cases reported yesterday, a Glenn Dale, Md., man suffered a broken shoulder when his coat caught on the door handle of a passing automobile, and one man was hurt in collision of three automobiles at Constitution ave. and 23d st.

Donald Lamphiear, 23, of Glen Dale who received a ticket for violation of the Pedestrian Control Act along with his pains, told police his overcoat pocket was caught in the door handle as he stepped from a streetcar loading platform on North Capitol st. near Massachusetts ave.

Driver of the automobile was identified by police as Robert M. Bouma, 29, of 1301 N. Courthouse rd., Arlington, Va.

Man Seriously Hurt

William Levin, 38, of 3441 S. Stafford st., Arlington, suffered bruises and internal injuries in the multiple collision on Constitution ave. at 9:15 a. m. yesterday. He was admitted in serious condition to Emergency Hospital.

Police said Levin's car, going north on 23d st., collided at the intersection with a car driven west on the avenue by Fuller T. Palmer, 32, of 2300 Newark st. nw. After it was struck, police said, Levin's car collided with one driven south on 23d st. by George A. Dagley, 22, of Gloucester, Mass.

Dagley told accident investigators he was en route to Miami with the owner of the automobile, George L. Browne, also of Gloucester, and three passengers. All cars were damaged substantially.

Arnold Line Seeks Huge Stock Shift

Over 25,000 Shares Of Davis Holdings Involved in Step to Keep 'Local Control'

Efforts of major stockholders to retain "local control" of the Washington, Virginia & Maryland Coach Co., Inc., more commonly called the Arnold Line, were made public yesterday.

The bus company, whose adequacy of service has been attacked by Arlington government, civic and commuter groups, announced a series of administrative changes and pending stock deals.

Company buses serve Fairfax and Arlington County commuters to the District and other residents of the two counties, an estimated 40,000 to 50,000 riders daily.

Chief stock transfer proposed, the company said, is the agreement of Manuel J. Davis, Washington attorney, to dispose of his major holdings in the company to a group of investors headed by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Arnold.

Held 29,800 Shares

Davis told The Washington Post last night that he wished to retain but slightly more than 2000 shares of the company stock and had placed the rest in escrow for the Arnold group pending Interstate Commerce Commission approval of the purchase. He said he formerly held 29,800 of the company's 35,000 outstanding shares of stock.

Davis said he had agreed to sell to the local group "rather than permit the control of the company to go to operators outside the metropolitan area."

C. Leo DeOrsey, Washington lawyer, has been retained as counsel for the investors' group, the company announced. DeOrsey said the syndicate comprised "more than six people." He declined to identify all, but said they included the Arnolds, Davis and himself.

The company also announced the resignation of Howard H. England of Tyson's Crossroads, Va., as general manager, and said such management would be performed by J. G. Campbell, veteran bus company owner and operator of Jamestown and Buffalo, N. Y.

Campbell, the company said, will make available to the Arnold Line "his full and complete staff of experts" and "has assured the company that he will give the public adequate service."

Lester Conley, Arlington County public utilities commissioner, told an Arlington Civic Federation meeting on Tuesday night that Campbell was sent here for a "New York State bank" to protect its investments and "place the line on a sound financial basis."

A spokesman for the ICC revealed that on October 23 the ICC authorized the Arnold Line to issue one promissory note of $999,972. Conley named the holder of the note as the Marine Trust Co. of Buffalo, N. Y.

"I am here on orders from the Buffalo Marine Trust Co. to help get the line back on its feet," declared Campbell yesterday.

As assistant to Campbell, the company announced the hiring of Col. M. D. Mills, formerly general manager of the Seattle Transit Co., Seattle, Wash., who more recently installed a modern transit system at Oklahoma City, Okla.

Campbell and Mills met Tuesday afternoon with Lester Conley and G. A. Moe, Arlington County public utilities commissioners, and conferred on the nature of complaints registered against company services with the ICC.

New schedules of improved service will be placed in effect on or about January 21, the company stated.

The company also announced yesterday that Davis and Joseph L. Arnold "have not and are not drawing officers' salaries from the company." Complaints of high salaries to company stockholders featured hearings on fare raises before the ICC last year.

Textile Union Elects

Martinsburg, W. Va., Jan. 7.—W. S. Shives has been named president of Local 308 of the Textile Workers of America at the Berkeley Woolen Co. here. Other officers elected are: Roy Hawkins, vice president; John Kerns, financial secretary, and Mrs. Mary Kate Jones, recording secretary.

Board to Use Blow And Webb Schools February 1 Despite Protests of Parents

Over the protests of the Browne Junior High School Parent-Teacher Association, the Board of Education yesterday unanimously approved a plan of using Blow and Webb schools as annexes to Browne.

More than a dozen of the Negro parents appeared at the board meeting to present a petition asking the board to reject the plan approved the previous day by the committee on buildings and grounds.

In the petition, the parents repeated demands that either Eliot Junior High School or Eastern High School be turned over to use by the Negro junior high children or that Browne students be returned to parttime shifts at the main Browne building and the use of annexes be abandoned.

Parents, protesting the use of Blow and Webb, former white elementary schools, as annexes, have kept their children out of classes since December 3.

Effective February 1

The plan approved by the board yesterday will become effective with the new semester February 1. Until then, buildings will operate under the present plan, under which 1131 out of 1806 Browne students attend either Blow or Webb for half a day and Browne for the remainder.

The new plan provides for junior high units to be set up in the Blow and Webb buildings and in the Merritt Elementary School. Students will be assigned full time to each of these units.

Mrs. Velma G. Williams, Negro member of the board, who opposed the original transfer of Blow and Webb, approved the new plan.

"While it is not everything I want, it is a great improvement and provides the children with more education," she said.

Demands Rejected

The board rejected demands for Eliot and Eastern, stating that transfer of either of these white secondary schools would cause racial animosity and would endanger the building program under which Negro pupils in the next several years will receive three new high schools and three new junior high schools.

Parnts, in the petition signed by James Carr, president of the P-TA, said that there was sufficient space in other secondary buildings to transfer Eliot and Eastern students to free those buildings for use by Negro children.

"It is the board's duty to the taxpayer to make the best utilization of present school facilities," the parents' statement said.

Kentuckian Files Appeal in Fight On Foreign Aid

By The Associated Press

David A. A. Olson of Kentucky plans to continue his fight against the Foreign Aid Act passed at the special session of Congress, District Court records showed today.

Olson, president of Basic Industries, Inc., of Lexington, Ky., contends the Constitution does not authorize loans or gifts to a foreign nation. His suit against the President and Congress was dismissed without a hearing on December 23.

Norman S. Boles, jr., Washington attorney, said he filed notice with the United States District Court here on December 30 that he is carrying the battle to the Federal Court of Appeals, and plans to file a brief there before February 12.

Girl, 14, Wins Title Of County Show Queen

Charles Town, W. Va., Jan. 7.—Fourteen-year-old Mary Frances Hockensmith, a second-year 4-H Club worker, won the title of queen of the Jefferson County Hay and Grain Show here, on a competitive point basis.

Miss Hockensmith, daughter of Robert Hockensmith of Shenandoah Junction, compiled a total of 110 points, 25 more than her nearest competitor. She placed first in biscuits, pies, cakes and cookies, and third in muffins.

Franklin McQuilkin, Shepherdstown farmer, won the title of king by winning two blue, two red and one white ribbons.

O'Conor Wins .0035% Edge In Maryland Vote Recount

A State-wide Maryland recount of ballots cast in the contested 1946 election yesterday gave Senator Herbert R. O'Conor assurance of victory by 1624 votes, or .0035 per cent of the 457,704 Senate ballots cast.

The decision is not yet final, a Senate subcommittee announced. But on the basis of the recount for all 23 counties and the City of Baltimore, O'Conor received 229,664 votes as against 228,040 for his Republican opponent, Brig. Gen. D John Markey.

The count announced by Chairman William E. Jenner (R., Ind.) of the Subcommittee on Privileges and Elections was 608 fewer than the 2232 plurality given to O'Conor, former Governor of Maryland, in 1946.

Despite Jenner's statement that the investigation was not yet completed, it was considered certain that O'Conor would retain the Senate seat.

Jenner said the "second phase" of the investigation was under way. This includes charges by Markey of excessive campaign expenditures, ghost voting, illegal registration, illegal voting and other alleged violations of election laws noted by attorneys during the ballot recount. These, said Jenner, include missing or improperly places seals on ballot boxes, poll books not signed by clerks of election, impression ballots and other

Gallinger Funds Transfer Weighed

Chairmen of the Senate and House District Appropriations Subcommittees will be asked today to approve transfer of $18,000 unexpended Gallinger Hospital personnel funds to the hospital's psychiatric ward.

Commissioner Guy Mason revealed last night that Budget Officer Walter Fowler will confer on the matter today with Senator Henry C. Dwarshak (R., Idaho) and Representative Walt Horan (R., Wash.), chairman of the respective subcommittees.

Dr. Alvin Sweeney, Gallinger superintendent, has revealed that approximately $164,000 is available for other uses because the hospital has been unable to obtain personnel authorized by Congress.

Would Provide Renovations

Approval of the transfer, Mason said, will make it possible for the hospital to remove radiators from the psychiatric wards and install hot air ventilators instead, put in acoustical ceilings, and stop leaks in the hydrotherapy units so they cann be used for treatment.

Dr. Sweeney yesterday conferred with Dr. Donald G. Jackson of New York, who is being considered as a possible successor to Dr. Leslie V. Dill, resigning head of the obstetrics and gynecologic division.

Dr. George J. Maresh of Boston City Hospital, a candidate for head of the department of medicine, will be in Washington Friday to confer with Health Officer George C. Ruhland aand Gallinger officials, Dr. Sweeney said.

Both 'Interested'

"Both men are definitely interested in the jobs," Sweeney declared.

Dr. Joseph T. Roberts resigned as head of the Department of Medicine last November to become dean of the medical school University of Arkansas.

Dr. Sweeney said three other doctors also have expressed interest in the chief medical officer post. Dr. Maresh, considered the leading candidate, is a graduate of Iowa Medical School (1943), has done research at Harvard Medical School, and engaged in clinical activities at Boston City Hospital, Sweeney said.

Marlboro Jail Escapees Face Other Charges

Prince Georges County authorities may have a long wait before getting a chance to prosecute three escapees from the Marlboro Jail, arrested early Monday in Salt Lake City, Utah.

Midgett

County officials said yesterday they had made no provision to arrange for the return of the fugitives because of the possibility that they alos are sought by other jurisdictions. The men, who broke from the jail along with a fourth prisoner on December 10, are being questioned in connection with several Salt Lake City crimes and also are suspected of a robbery in Fort Worth, Tex.

The fugitives are William Midgett, 25, formerly of 1529 S st. se., who also is an escapee from a Virginia chaingang; Robert Morris, 23, Laurel, Md., and James F. Hampson, 21, East Riverdale, Md. Their companion in the jail break, Thomas Boswell, 31, of no fixed address, is still at large.

Injured Woman's Purse Stolen In Fatal Collision

Baltimore, Jan. 7 (AP).—A produce-truck driver was killed in a spectacular downtown automobile accident today and in the confusion two men snatched a purse from one of the injured as she lay unconscious in the street.

The smashup scattered cabbages all over the intersection and tied up traffic. Joseph F. Fauntelroy, driver of the truck, was killed.

Mrs. Patricia Davis, 27, occupant of a coupe which collided with the truck, suffered a fractured pelvis. Three others were treated at hospitals. While Mrs. Davis was lying in the street two men edged forward, took her purse and fled.

Two policemen set out in pursuit, but a cab driver overpowered the two purse snatchers after a six-block chase. The purse contained $4.50.

Va. Hospital Fund Reaches $225,000

Woodstock, Va., Jan. 7.—The Shenandoah County Memorial Hospital Association fund for 1947 reached $225,000, R. J. Clower, treasurer of the fund, said yesterday.

Last check received was for $500 on December 31 from Miller and Terrill Bushnell, of Beverley Farms.

U. S. Ignores Plea Against D. C. Group

The Department of Justice has refused to take action against Congress Heights Citizens Association for alleged "conspiracy to intimidate Negroes."

The decision was conveyed to the complainant, the First Southeast Chapter, Southern Conference for Human Welfare, in a letter by T. Vincent Quinn, Assistant Attorney General.

Rejecting the conference chapter's plea for Justice Department intervention, Quinn promised the group assistance "should it later appear more definitely that certain individuals are being deprived of their constitutional rights or that a conspiracy exists."

The chapter, through its acting chairman, Joseph Forer, had charged that a November 8 meeting of Congress Heights property owners was "marked by references to vigilantism and to possible use of violence" to keep Negroes from the section.

Wrong 'John' Exonerated in Hair Snipping

The "wrong" and wronged John Lane was exonerated in Municipal Court yesterday of the charge he surreptitiously snipped 4 inches of hair from the head of Mrs. Georgie Brown, 50, of 4432 E st. se., in Lincoln Theater, December 12.

Lane, 50, of the E st. address, had been arrested on warrant complaint of Mrs. Brown and placed under $300 bail for jury trial, January 29. Yesterday, Assistant United States District Attorney Andrew Howard asked court dismissal of the charge, declaring police had arrested the wrong John Lane.

Howard said Mrs. Brown informed him that two John Lanes, of about the same age, lived at the E st. address, and that the other was the assailant. Police are seeking the second John Lane.

Bar Plans Move on D. C. Court Rights

A District Bar Association committee has begun a study of legal precedents on which to base action that would give Washington residents the right to sue and be sued in Federal Courts.

The committee, appointed by Association President George E. McNeil, is headed by Col. Julius I. Peyser, a former president of the legal group. Other members are J. Henderson Holmes, secretary; W. Cameron Burton, Edmund D. Campbell, R. Duncan Clark and Frederick A. Thuee.

Peyser said yesterday the study is expected to require about 10 days, after which a course of action will be mapped.

The Fourth Federal Circuit Court of Appeals last week invalidated a 1940 act giving D. C. residents the same rights in Federal Courts as have citizens of a State.

The Appellate Court's decision, handed down in Richmond, called the 1940 Equal Rights Act unconstitutional.

Representative John W. Gwynne (R., Iowa), author of the 1940 measure, said he would ask the Justice Department to defend its constitutionality.

Solicitor General. Philip B. Perlman said the case was being studied in his department.

Adams

Adams, 48, with 23 years of hospital administrative experience, succeeds Robert G. Whitton who resigned in November after release of the Clemmons survey report criticizing the hospital's administrative practices.

Adams was with the Cincinnati Hospital for the past seven years. Previously he was connected with Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., and the Springfield (Ohio) City Hospital.

The new administrator yesterday told reporters he had read the Clemmons report but said he had no comment to make on it pending his getting acquainted with the Alexandria Hospital situation.

Adams tonight will participate in discussions between the hospital and the Alexandria City Council over a 1948 contract for care of indigent patients.

Banks 'Out of Touch,' With People, SCC Hears

Richmond, Va., Jan. 7 (AP).—Wirt P. Marks, jr., counsel for the Bank of Virginia, told the State Corporation Commission late today that the trouble with many banks is "they are out of touch with the needs of the common man and the small business."

Marks was the final witness to appear before the commission in the hearing held in connection with the application of the Bank of Virginia seeking permission to open a new branch in the vicinity of 19th and Granby sts., in Norfolk.

The hearing ended after Marks' testimony, and the State Corporation Commission took the case under advisement.

Fairfax to Ask Clarification of Sanitary Laws

Fairfax County will seek State legislation to clarify existing laws governing sanitary districts and to raise the pay of precinct regstrairs and electoral board members.

The county supervsors yesterday, approving a report from Sanitary Engineer James J. Corbalis voted to ask the county's legislative delegation to seek the changes at the Legislature session opening next week.

Corbalis, in his report, asked: (1) clarification of steps by which a smaller district may be created within a sanitary district; (2) permission to levy a tax to finance construction or purchase of a utility system; (3) elimination of a phrase which may limit redemption of bonds to 25 years; and (4) permission to pay an individual for purchase of any existing utility system.

The board of supervisors will also ask that pay for members of the county electoral board be raised from $7 to $10 a day, that their maximum annual pay be boosted from $150 to $200, and that precinct registrars be paid 25 cents for each person registered. The present fee is 10 cents.

The board also:

1. Objected to a part of the new Falls Church subdivision ordinance, which provides for dual town and county jurisdiction over zoning in an area within two miles of the town limits. Officials of Falls Church and the county will meet at a date not yet set to work out their differences;
2. Approved and sent to the State Board of Education, a School Board request for a $131,000 literary loan for an addition to the Groveton School;
3. Appropriated $1000 to stock the county with quail and wild turkeys;
4. Seated two new members, C. B. Runyon of Falls Church magisterial district, and Arthur I. Shaffer of Mount Vernon magisterial district, and reappointed G. Wallace Carper as board chairman for 1948.

Abbitt Announces Platform; Goode Defends 4-F Status

Farmville, Va., Jan. 7 (AP).—Two candidates for the vacant Fourth Congressional District seat in the House of Representatives spoke here today in behalf of their candidacies. Watkins M. Abbitt, of Appomattox, spoke on the radio this afternoon and State Senator Morton G. Goode, of Dinwiddie, addressed a political rally tonight.

Goode called for elimination or curtailment of the veto power in the U. N. Security Council and reorganization of U. N. without Russia if she won't agree to this change. He opposed shipment of potential war goods to Russia, advocated legislation against Communist infiltration, and said he favored international control of atomic energy and worl ddisarmament provided there were proper safeguards.

Abbitt devoted his radio address over stations here and at Crewe to a defense of his war record and denunciation of "ardent supporters of one of the candidates" for conducting what he termed a "smear campaign" against him.

"I volunteered my services unto the armed forces and I felt it my duty to respond to the call of my country and did not wait the call of my local board," Abbitt declared.

He said he was rejected from service in World War II because of a ruptured ear drum.

Armory Canteen To Be Operated By D. C. Guards

The District National Guard will ban drinking at Armory dances by handling sale of refreshments through its own canteen, Brig. Gen. Albert L. Cox, commanding general of the local Guard unit, announced yesterday.

Cox said the canteen will operate "whenever outside activities" use the Armory. Money obtained through refreshment sale will be turned over to the National Guard unit's canteen fund, he said.

This policy, he said, would give the Guard "control" over prices, service and "other aspects" of refreshment service.

The commissioners warned General Cox Tuesday that Police Department representatives had observed liquor bottles on tables and "setsups" being served by a concessionaire at a New Year's Eve dance at the Armory. Drinking at the Armory is a violation of Alcoholic Beverage Control regulations, the commissioners pointed out.

Va. U. Fraternities Ask New Girl-Guest Rules

Charlottesville, Va., Jan. 1 (AP).—College Topic, University of Virginia's student newspaper, will publish tomorrow a petition asking the school's board of visitors to reconsider its restrictions on entertaining women guests in fraternity house here.

Signed by the Interfraternity Council, the petition also requests permission to present a set of modified rules and a plan for enforcing them to the board of visitors which meets January 9.

Edward Stettinius, rector of the university, and the Board of Visitors last month placed the duty of enforcing the new rules upon officers of each fraternity "who are in no position to punish infractions of such rules," the petition charges.

The rules adopted in December restrict the fraternities to entertaining women guests in living and recreation rooms only and established an 8 p. m. weekday and 11 p. m. Saturday deadline for admitting them into houses.

Va. Court to Review Bobo Death Sentence

Richmond, Va., Jan. 7 (AP).—The Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals granted a writ of error today to Ernest Bobo, and agreed to review the death sentence imposed upon him in the Circuit Court of Caroline County for the slaying of Deputy Sheriff Strother W. Lewis.

The writ of error granted Bobo was one of eight granted by the court as it continued its January session. Three appeals were refused.

Mary E. Guest, Wife of Police Officer, Dies

Mrs. Mary Estelle Guest, 47, wife of Lieut. Dewey Guest, head of the Metropolitan Police Department's Check and Fraud Squad, died yesterday at Providence Hospital.

She and her husband had been residents of Cheverly, Md., since 1926. Mrs. Guest was a member of the Cheverly Women's Club for about nine years and had taken an active interest in local politics. She had recently served as Democratic book judge in Cheverly.

The Guests are natives of Athens, Ga., and were schoolmates there. They married July 7, 1921, while he was in the Marine Corps. After his discharge, Guest brought his wife to Washington in 1923 and joined the police force that year.

Three daughters also survive Mrs. Guest. They are Miss Rachel Dewey Guest, who lives at her parents' home, 1708 61st ave., Cheverly; Mrs. Ruth Padgett of 1724 61st ave., Cheverly, and Mrs. Jacqueline Hipsley of 1621 E st. nw. There is one granddaughter, Ruth Anne Padgett, 8 months old.

Burial will be in Fort Lincoln Cemetery at 2 p. m. tomorrow following funeral services at the Hysong funeral home.

A. J. Zimmerman

Frederick, Md., Jan. 7.—Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 p. m. at the Zion Reformed Church for Albert J. Zimmerman, 38, dairy farmer of the Tuscarora district. Mr. Zimmerman died suddenly yesterday in a Baltimore hospital.

A graduate of Frederick High School and St. John's College, Annapolis, Mr. Zimmerman also graduated from the University of Pennsylvania. He taught in Frederick County public schools and was one of the organizers of the Maryland Artificial Breeding Cooperative. He was unsuccessful in his race for the House of Delegates in 1946, running on the Democratic ticket.

Mr. Zimmerman is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ruth Reagan Zimmerman; a daughter, Judith Zimmerman; three brothers, Ralph L. Zimmerman, Baltimore; Austin E. Zimmerman, Charlesville, Md., and Ross J. Zimmerman, also of Baltimore, and two sisters, Mrs. Russell C. Thomas of Ballenger Creek and Miss Ethel M. Zimmerman, Frederick.

Harry D. Wilson

Baton Rouge, La., Jan. 7 (AP).—Harry D. Wilson, 78, Louisiana commissioner of agriculture for more than 30 years and dean of commissioners of agriculture in the United States, died today.

Christoffel Seeks Change of Venue For Perjury Trial

By The Associated Press

Attorneys for Harold R. Christoffel, Milwaukee labor leader, have notified the Justice Department that they will seek to have his forthcoming trial on a perjury charge shifted from Washington to Milwaukee.

Special Assistant Attorney General John S. Pratt told a reporter yesterday that he will oppose the move at a hearing tentatively set for tomorrow.

While no formal motion has been filed as yet, it was understood Christoffel's attorneys feel the Washington atmosphere is not conducive to a fair trial. They also expect to call a number of Milwaukee witnesses and will argue that it would be more convenient to hold the trial in that city.

The charge against Christoffel is based on his denial before the House Labor Committee last March that he ever was a member of the Communist Party or active in connection with it. Christoffel is honorary president of the Allis-Chalmers Local 248.

C. B. Farnham Of Army-Navy Journal Dies

Chester B. Farnham, 42, reporter for the Army and Navy Journal, died yesterday in a Maryland sanitarium after a six-weeks illness.

Mr. Farnham, who lived at 4813 Erie st., Berwyn, Md., was a native of Prince Georges County. He was born in Cheverly, the son of Grace and Albert Farnham.

Educated at the Berwyn School aand the Hyatttsville High School, Mr. Farnham became a clerk in the Wells Drug Store, Riverdale, Md., shortly after graduation, and eventually opened a store of his own in Berwyn. He closed the store in 1941 and became an employe of the British Purchasing Agency for six months. Five years ago he joined the staff of the Army and Navy Journal at the Pentagon, where he remained until his death.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Charlotte Klippert, a native of Denver, Ill., whom he married in 1938; a 6-year-old daughter, Dorothy Grace Farnham; his mother, Mrs. Albert Farnham; a sister, Miss Dorothy Farnham, both of Berwyn, and a brother, Rutledge Farnham, Riverdale.

Funeral services will be held at the Francis Gasch Sons funeral home, 4739 Baltimore ave., Hyattsville. Burial will be in Fort Lincoln Cemetery.

Peace Seekers' Ad Brings 50 Visitors

An advertised appeal that began, "We want to live in peace," and ended, "Please come and see us," brought about 50 persons to a 2008 Q st. nw. studio yesterday, according to the young Silver Spring couple that ran the ad.

Rufus G. King and his wife, Janice, of Schofield st., RFD No. 1, Silver Spring, Md., feel pretty strongly about world government. King, a 30-year-old writer, editor and former lawyer, said he spent $100 of his own money for the ad, which appeared Tuesday in The Washington Post and the Washington Daily News.

The Kings, who want to enlist world public opinion behind the idea of world government, claim they leave the working out of the "machinery" to others.

King is going to Paris next month, where he said his forthcoming book, "Manifesto," a statement about world government, will be published.

He plans to travel through Europe, talking to as many people and officials as possible. "We're paying our own bills," he said. "It will take us pretty near the bottom of the barrel, but we think it's worth trying." He will spend $4000 to $5000 of his own money for the trip.

His wife will accompany him if finances and her two children, Agnes, 3, and Rufus, jr., 5, permit. She said she and her husband had no visas as yet, but hope to get to Greece, Italy and Russia, as well as France.

Mrs. King, a Vassar graduate and formerly an art student at American University here, claims, "All I do is paint and have children." She also edits Right Angle, an art magazine published here, and cares for the family's two Great Dane dogs.

King came to Washington three years ago as a lawyer with the Air Transport Association. He now edits World Guide, a trade magazine for air shippers. He is a graduate of Princeton and of the Yale Law School.

King is also the author of a book, You and I, published in 1940 by the National Home Library through the Carnegie Foundation. Written when he was 23, he says, it is a "less mature" version of his present book. According to King, it was banned throughout most of Europe.

Building Permits Up

Building permits issued in Alexandria in 1947 totaled $5,851,411, Building Inspector A. R. Lash announced yesterday. Permits for new residences totaled $2,889,950; nonresidential, $2,257,623; repairs to existing structures, $703,838. The 1946 totals was $4,195,919.

Police Elect Officers

The Alexandria Police Association Tuesday night installed the following officers for 1948; President, Sergt. Warren W. Zimmerman; vice president, Pvt. Edwin C. Hanback; secretary, Miss Frances Haigley; treasurer, Corp. Leslie Saunders; new member of the board of trustees, Sergt. Robert A. Brenner.

Bakery Operator Fined

The operator of a Southwest bakery yesterday was ordered to pay a $200 fine on a contempt of court charge for violating terms of an injunction which forbade the bakery manufacturing food under unsanitary conditions.

Associate Justice Richmond B. Keech imposed the fine on Thomas Stethopulos, operator of the Athens Baking Co., 476 L st. sw., who pleaded guilty to the charge in District Court December 12. At that time Justice Keech gave him 30 days to clear his shop of mice and weevils.

The injunction had been issued in October, 1946, following a hearing in which officials testified they found rolls and bread produced in unsanitary conditions.

2 Jailed in Gaming

Two men were sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $50 each in Arlington County Court yesterday on charges of operating a "numbers" lottery.

Two hours later, Arlington police arrested George A. Jones, 32, a resident of a trailer camp at 2444 S. Glebe rd., Arlington, on the same charge. Detectives said Jones had $200 in cash and numbers slips on his person when arrested.

Sentenced yesterday were Roy H. Taylor, 40, of 250 N. Barton st., Arlington, and Edgar C. Dewhirst, 50, of 1219 N. Oak st., Arlington. They were arrested last month during a raid on a filling station owned by Taylor at Washington blvd. and N. Pershing dr.

Chest Goal Neared

Contributions received since closing of the Community Chest campaign have swelled the Montgomery County campaign fund to $113,000 of 91 per cent of the county's quota, according to Miss Mary Lucas, director of the county's chest and planning council.

Girl Scout Council Elects

Mrs. C. R. Niklason of 2300 N. Military rd., Arlington, was elected commissioner of the Girl Scout Council of Arlington County yesterday.

Other officers elected were: Mrs. A. A. Brown, first deputy; Mrs. J. S. Kendrick, second deputy; Mrs. A. C. Poling, third deputy; Mrs. R. W. Colton, recording secretary; Mrs. Elton Woolpert, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. W. S. Meyer, treasurer.

17 Face Gaming Trial

Seventeen persons arrested in two New Year's Eve gambling raids in Suitland, Md., are slated to face trial in Hyattsville Police Court at 10 a. m. today.

The raids, described as "the biggest" in a series made by Prince Georges County police in an intensified gaming drive, netted the arrest of Abe Plisco, also known as "Jewboy" Dietz, well-known in Washington gambling circles, along with 16 others.

Arlington Mobilizes

A meeting to mobilize Arlington's support for nonpartisan election of county board and school board members will be held at 8 tonight in Buckingham sorship of the Joint Legislative Committee.

The committee comprises representatives of the Better Government League, Civic Federation, League of Women Voters, Organized Women Voters and Citizens Committee for School Improvement.

Asks $25,000 for Fall

Mrs. Daviete C. Ficklen of 2900 Connecticut ave. nw., yesterday asked District Court to award her $25,000 damages for injuries she received when she fell to the sidewalk in front of the Shoreham Hotel.

Both the hotel and the District Government were named defendants in the suit. Mrs. Ficklen charged in the suit that last July she suffered a fractured neck and shoulder when she tripped and fell over a raised portion of the sidewalk.

2 ABC Stores Accused

James Nevros, proprietor of Central Lunch, 421 9th st. nw., was charged before the ABC Board yesterday with permitting gambling on his premises. Master Liquors, Inc., 714 K st. nw., was accused of failing to affix the store's license number to liquor it sold.

A customer of the lunch room was alleged to have accepted a $2 bet on a horse from a plainsclothes policeman last April. Nevros said he did not know what the customer was doing.

Saul J. Decker, president of Master Liquors, pleaded that pressure of business and failure of an employe to carry out his assigned duties caused a few bottles of whisky to be sold without the store number affixed to the bottle.

Hood Freshman Reported Missing

of Newton, N. J., an 18-year-old freshman student at Hood College, Frederick, Md., has been missing since Tuesday from the girls' school, it was reported yesterday. At Newton, police said they were unable to supply any clues to her whereabouts and there was no answer at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lorenzo

For Cleaner Streets

Increased building activity in Montgomery County has led to adoption of an ordinance by the county commissioners requiring contractors to clean up streets near construction jobs.

The ordinance, which became effective Tuesday, provides for a $25 fine for all persons convicted of failure to clean up dirt-littered streets for which they are responsible.

The ordinance also applies to property owners whose soil has been washed over public thoroughfares by rain. In each case, a 48-hour period of grace is allowed and then a maximum fine of $25 for each day the dirt remains may be imposed.

Engineers Society Inducts 41 Middies

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 7 (AP).—Midshipmen proficient in mechanical engineering stepped into professional circles today.

The American Society of Mechanical Engineers inducted 41 members of the Middies' Mechanical Engineering Club at a ceremony in Memorial Hall. It marked the first time a midshipman's group has been affiliated with a national professional organization.

Md. Aid Sum Misses Half of Estimated Need

Baltimore, Jan. 7 (AP).—The Maryland Public Welfare Department pays a family of four on relief $1252 yearly, whereas Federal standards set the need at $3260 to maintain health and decency.

Anna D. Ward, secretary of the Council of Social Agencies, said Maryland payments should be made more nearly adequate and that the State needs more institutions to care for relief cases that hospitals cannot handle.

Gallinger Funds Transfer Weighed

Chairmen of the Senate and House District Appropriations Subcommittees will be asked today to approve transfer of $18,000 unexpended Gallinger Hospital personnel funds to the hospital's psychiatric ward.

Commissioner Guy Mason revealed last night that Budget Officer Walter Fowler will confer on the matter today with Senator Henry C. Dwarshak (R., Idaho) and Representative Walt Horan (R., Wash.), chairman of the respective subcommittees.

Dr. Alvin Sweeney, Gallinger superintendent, has revealed that approximately $164,000 is available for other uses because the hospital has been unable to obtair personnel authorized by Congress.

Would Provide Renovations

Approval of the transfer, Mason said, will make it possible for the hospital to remove radiators from the psychiatric wards and install hot air ventilators instead, put in acoustical ceilings, and stop leaks in the hydrotherapy units so they cann be used for treatment.

Dr. Sweeney yesterday conferred with Dr. Donald G. Jackson of New York, who is being considered as a possible successor to Dr. Leslie V. Dill, resigning head of the obstetrics and gynecologic division.

Dr. George J. Maresh of Boston City Hospital, a candidate for head of the department of medicine, will be in Washington Friday to confer with Health Officer George C. Ruhland aand Gallinger officials, Dr. Sweeney said.

Both 'Interested'

"Both men are definitely interested in the jobs," Sweeney declared.

Dr. Joseph T. Roberts resigned as head of the Department of Medicine last November to become dean of the medical school University of Arkansas.

Dr. Sweeney said three other doctors also have expressed interest in the chief medical officer post. Dr. Maresh, considered the leading candidate, is a graduate of Iowa Medical School (1943), has done research at Harvard Medical School, and engaged in clinical activities at Boston City Hospital, Sweeney said.

U. S. Ignores Plea Against D. C. Group

The Department of Justice has refused to take action against Congress Heights Citizens Association for alleged "conspiracy to intimidate Negroes."

The decision was conveyed to the complainant, the First Southeast Chapter, Southern Conference for Human Welfare, in a letter by T. Vincent Quinn, Assistant Attorney General.

Rejecting the conference chapter's plea for Justice Department intervention, Quinn promised the group assistance "should it later appear more definitely that certain individuals are being deprived of their constitutional rights or that a conspiracy exists."

The chapter, through its acting chairman, Joseph Forer, had charged that a November 8 meeting of Congress Heights property owners was "marked by references to vigilantism and to possible use of violence" to keep Negroes from the section.

Wrong 'John' Exonerated in Hair Snipping

The "wrong" and wronged John Lane was exonerated in Municipal Court yesterday of the charge he surreptitiously snipped 4 inches of hair from the head of Mrs. Georgie Brown, 50, of 4432 E st. se., in Lincoln Theater, December 12.

Lane, 50, of the E st. address, had been arrested on warrant complaint of Mrs. Brown and placed under $300 bail for jury trial, January 29. Yesterday, Assistant United States District Attorney Andrew Howard asked court dismissal of the charge, declaring police had arrested the wrong John Lane.

Howard said Mrs. Brown informed him that two John Lanes, of about the same age, lived at the E st. address, and that the other was the assailant. Police are seeking the second John Lane.

Marlboro Jail Escapees Face Other Charges

Prince Georges County authorities may have a long wait before getting a chance to prosecute three escapees from the Marlboro Jail, arrested early Monday in Salt Lake City, Utah.

Midgett

County officials said yesterday they had made no provision to arrange for the return of the fugitives because of the possibility that they alos are sought by other jurisdictions. The men, who broke from the jail along with a fourth prisoner on December 10, are being questioned in connection with several Salt Lake City crimes and also are suspected of a robbery in Fort Worth, Tex.

The fugitives are William Midgett, 25, formerly of 1529 S st. se., who also is an escapee from a Virginia chaingang; Robert Morris, 23, Laurel, Md., and James F. Hampson, 21, East Riverdale, Md. Their companion in the jail break, Thomas Boswell, 31, of no fixed address, is still at large.

Injured Woman's Purse Stolen In Fatal Collision

Baltimore, Jan. 7 (AP).—A produce-truck driver was killed in a spectacular downtown automobile accident today and in the confusion two men snatched a purse from one of the injured as she lay unconscious in the street.

The smashup scattered cabbages all over the intersection and tied up traffic. Joseph F. Fauntelroy, driver of the truck, was killed.

Mrs. Patricia Davis, 27, occupant of a coupe which collided with the truck, suffered a fractured pelvis. Three others were treated at hospitals. While Mrs. Davis was lying in the street two men edged forward, took her purse and fled.

Two policemen set out in pursuit, but a cab driver overpowered the two purse snatchers after a six-block chase. The purse contained $4.50.

Precedent Sought

Bar Plans Move on D. C. Court Rights

A District Bar Association committee has begun a study of legal precedents on which to base action that would give Washington residents the right to sue and be sued in Federal Courts.

The committee, appointed by Association President George E. McNeil, is headed by Col. Julius I. Peyser, a former president of the legal group. Other members are J. Henderson Holmes, secretary; W. Cameron Burton, Edmund D. Campbell, R. Duncan Clark and Frederick A. Thuee.

Peyser said yesterday the study is expected to require about 10 days, after which a course of action will be mapped.

The Fourth Federal Circuit Court of Appeals last week invalidated a 1940 act giving D. C. residents the same rights in Federal Courts as have citizens of a State.

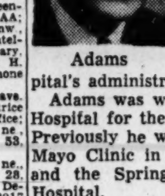

The Appellate Court's decision, handed down in Richmond, called the 1940 Equal Rights Act unconstitutional.

Representative John W. Gwynne (R., Iowa), author of the 1940 measure, said he would ask the Justice Department to defend its constitutionality.

Solicitor General, Philip B. Perlman said the case was being studied in his department.

Van C. Adams Heads Hospital In Alexandria

Adams

Adams, 48, with 23 years of hospital administrative experience, succeeds Robert G. Whitton who resigned in November after release of the Clemmons survey report criticizing the hospital's administrative practices.

Adams was with the Cincinnati Hospital for the past seven years. Previously he was connected with Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., and the Springfield (Ohio) City Hospital.

The new administrator yesterday told reporters he had read the Clemmons report but said he had no comment to make on it pending his getting acquainted with the Alexandria Hospital situation.

Adams tonight will participate in discussions between the hospital and the Alexandria City Council over a 1948 contract for care of indigent patients.

Banks 'Out of Touch,' With People, SCC Hears

Richmond, Va., Jan. 7 (AP).—Wirt P. Marks, jr., counsel for the Bank of Virginia, told the State Corporation Commission late today that the trouble with many banks is "they are out of touch with the needs of the common man and the small business."

Marks was the final witness to appear before the commission in the hearing held in connection with the application of the Bank of Virginia seeking permission to open a new branch in the vicinity of 19th and Granby sts., in Norfolk.

The hearing ended after Marks' testimony, and the State Corporation Commission took the case under advisement.

Kennedy-Warren Apartments Ask 17% Increase in Rents

Kennedy - Warren apartments, 3133 Connecticut ave. nw., have asked an average 17 per cent rent increase for 267 units.

B. F. Saul Ca., agents, and Klingle Corp., owners, asker that present rents ranging from $55 a month for two rooms and bath to $190 for seven-room, three-bath units, be increased from $62.48 to $227.20.

No date has been set for public hearing, William F. Mansfield of the Rent Control Administration said.

Saul also requested rent hikes for a 50-unit apartment at 2517 K st. nw. and a 46-unit house at 2147 O st. nw. Rents for $31.50 apartments at the former would go to $37.50, and $57.50 units to $62.10. Rents for the O st. building, now $27.50 to $48.50, would go to $29.43 and $51.90.

Fairfax to Ask Clarification of Sanitary Laws

Fairfax County will seek State legislation to clarify existing laws governing sanitary districts and to raise the pay of precinct regstrairs and electoral board members.

The county supervsors yesterday, approving a report from Sanitary Engineer James J. Corbalis voted to ask the county's legislative delegation to seek the changes at the Legislature session opening next week.

Corbalis, in his report, asked: (1) clarification of steps by which a smaller district may be created within a sanitary district; (2) permission to levy a tax to finance construction or purchase of a utility system; (3) elimination of a phrase which may limit redemption of bonds to 25 years; and (4) permission to pay an individual for purchase of any existing utility system.

The board of supervisors will also ask that pay for members of the county electoral board be raised from $7 to $10 a day, that their maximum annual pay be boosted from $150 to $200, and that precinct registrars be paid 25 cents for each person registered. The present fee is 10 cents.

The board also:

1. Objected to a part of the new Falls Church subdivision ordinance, which provides for dual town and county jurisdiction over zoning in an area within two miles of the town limits. Officials of Falls Church and the county will meet at a date not yet set to work out their differences;

2. Approved and sent to the State Board of Education, a School Board request for a $131,000 literary loan for an addition to the Groveton School;

3. Appropriated $1000 to stock the county with quail and wild turkeys;

4. Seated two new members, C. B. Runyon of Falls Church magisterial district, and Arthur I. Shaffer of Mount Vernon magisterial district, and reappointed G. Wallace Carper as board chairman for 1948.

Abbitt Announces Platform; Goode Defends 4-F Status

Farmville, Va., Jan. 7 (AP).—Two candidates for the vacant Fourth Congressional District seat in the House of Representatives spoke here today in behalf of their candidacies. Watkins M. Abbitt, of Appomattox, spoke on the radio this afternoon and State Senator Morton G. Goode, of Dinwiddie, addressed a political rally tonight.

Goode called for elimination or curtailment of the veto power in the U. N. Security Council and reorganization of U. N. without Russia if she won't agree to this change. He opposed shipment of potential war goods to Russia, advocated legislation against Communist infiltration, and said he favored international control of atomic energy and worl ddisarmament provided there were proper safeguards.

Abbitt devoted his radio address over stations here and at Crewe to a defense of his war record and denunciation of "ardent supporters of one of the candidates" for conducting what he termed a "smear campaign" against him.

"I volunteered my services unto the armed forces and I felt it my duty to respond to the call of my country and did not wait the call of my local board," Abbitt declared.

He said he was rejected from service in World War II because of a ruptured ear drum.

Armory Canteen To Be Operated By D. C. Guards

The District National Guard will ban drinking at Armory dances by handling sale of refreshments through its own canteen, Brig. Gen. Albert L. Cox, commanding general of the local Guard unit, announced yesterday.

Cox said the canteen will operate "whenever outside activities" use the Armory. Money obtained through refreshment sale will be turned over to the National Guard unit's canteen fund, he said.

This policy, he said, would give the Guard "control" over prices, service and "other aspects" of refreshment service.

The commissioners warned General Cox Tuesday that Police Department representatives had observed liquor bottles on tables and "setsups" being served by a concessionaire at a New Year's Eve dance at the Armory. Drinking at the Armory is a violation of Alcoholic Beverage Control regulations, the commissioners pointed out.

Va. U. Fraternities Ask New Girl-Guest Rules

Charlottesville, Va., Jan. 1 (AP).—College Topic, University of Virginia's student newspaper, will publish tomorrow a petition asking the school's board of visitors to reconsider its restrictions on entertaining women guests in fraternity house here.

Signed by the Interfraternity Council, the petition also requests permission to present a set of modified rules and a plan for enforcing them to the board of visitors which meets January 9.

Edward Stettinius, rector of the university, and the Board of Visitors last month placed the duty of enforcing the new rules upon officers of each fraternity "who are in no position to punish infractions of such rules," the petition charges.

The rules adopted in December restrict the fraternities to entertaining women guests in living and recreation rooms only and established an 8 p. m. weekday and 11 p. m. Saturday deadline for admitting them into houses.

Va. Court to Review Bobo Death Sentence

Richmond, Va., Jan. 7 (AP).—The Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals granted a writ of error today to Ernest Bobo, and agreed to review the death sentence imposed upon him in the Circuit Court of Caroline County for the slaying of Deputy Sheriff Strother W. Lewis.

The writ of error granted Bobo was one of eight granted by the court as it continued its January session. Three appeals were refused.

Mary E. Guest, Wife of Police Officer, Dies

Mrs. Mary Estelle Guest, 47, wife of Lieut. Dewey Guest, head of the Metropolitan Police Department's Check and Fraud Squad, died yesterday at Providence Hospital.

She and her husband had been residents of Cheverly, Md., since 1926. Mrs. Guest was a member of the Cheverly Women's Club for about nine years and had taken an active interest in local politics. She had recently served as Democratic book judge in Cheverly.

The Guests are natives of Athens, Ga., and were schoolmates there. They married July 7, 1921, while he was in the Marine Corps. After his discharge, Guest brought his wife to Washington in 1923 and joined the police force that year.

Three daughters also survive Mrs. Guest. They are Miss Rachel Dewey Guest, who lives at her parents' home, 1708 61st ave., Cheverly; Mrs. Ruth Padgett of 1724 61st ave., Cheverly, and Mrs. Jacqueline Hipsley of 1621 E st. nw. There is one granddaughter, Ruth Anne Padgett, 8 months old.

Burial will be in Fort Lincoln Cemetery at 2 p. m. tomorrow following funeral services at the Hysong funeral home.

He taught in Frederick County public schools and was one of the organizers of the Maryland Artificial Breeding Cooperative. He was unsuccessful in his race for the House of Delegates in 1946, running on the Democratic ticket.

Mr. Zimmerman is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ruth Reagan Zimmerman; a daughter, Judith Zimmerman; three brothers, Ralph L. Zimmerman, Baltimore; Austin E. Zimmerman, Charlesville, Md., and Ross J. Zimmerman, also of Baltimore, and two sisters, Mrs. Russell C. Thomas of Ballenger Creek and Miss Ethel M. Zimmerman, Frederick.

Harry D. Wilson

Baton Rouge, La., Jan. 7 (AP).—Harry D. Wilson, 78, Louisiana commissioner of agriculture for more than 30 years and dean of commissioners of agriculture in the United States, died today.

Christoffel Seeks Change of Venue For Perjury Trial

By The Associated Press

Attorneys for Harold R. Christoffel, Milwaukee labor leader, have notified the Justice Department that they will seek to have his forthcoming trial on a perjury charge shifted from Washington to Milwaukee.

Special Assistant Attorney General John S. Pratt told a reporter yesterday that he will oppose the move at a hearing tentatively set for tomorrow.

While no formal motion has been filed as yet, it was understood Christoffel's attorneys feel the Washington atmosphere is not conducive to a fair trial. They also expect to call a number of Milwaukee witnesses and will argue that it would be more convenient to hold the trial in that city.

The charge against Christoffel is based on his denial before the House Labor Committee last March that he ever was a member of the Communist Party or active in connection with it. Christoffel is honorary president of the Allis-Chalmers Local 248.

Peace Seekers' Ad Brings 50 Visitors

An advertised appeal that began, "We want to live in peace," and ended, "Please come and see us," brought about 50 persons to a 2008 Q st. nw. studio yesterday, according to the young Silver Spring couple that ran the ad.

Rufus G. King and his wife, Janice, of Schofield st., RFD No. 1, Silver Spring, Md., feel pretty strongly about world government. King, a 30-year-old writer, editor and former lawyer, said he spent $100 of his own money for the ad, which appeared Tuesday in The Washington Post and the Washington Daily News.

The Kings, who want to enlist world public opinion behind the idea of world government, claim they leave the working out of the "machinery" to others.

King is going to Paris next month, where he said his forthcoming book, "Manifesto," a statement about world government, will be published.

He plans to travel through Europe, talking to as many people and officials as possible. "We're paying our own bills," he said. "It will take us pretty near the bottom of the barrel, but we think it's worth trying." He will spend $4000 to $5000 of his own money for the trip.

His wife will accompany him if finances and her two children, Agnes, 3, and Rufus, jr., 5, permit. She said she and her husband had no visas as yet, but hope to get to Greece, Italy and Russia, as well as France.

Mrs. King, a Vassar graduate and formerly an art student at American University here, claims, "All I do is paint and have children." She also edits Right Angle, an art magazine published here, and cares for the family's two Great Dane dogs.

King came to Washington three years ago as a lawyer with the Air Transport Association. He now edits World Guide, a trade magazine for air shippers. He is a graduate of Princeton and of the Yale Law School.

King is also the author of a book, You and I, published in 1940 by the National Home Library through the Carnegie Foundation. Written when he was 23, he says, it is a "less mature" version of his present book. According to King, it was banned throughout most of Europe.

Building Permits Up

Building permits issued in Alexandria in 1947 totaled $5,851,411, Building Inspector A. R. Lash announced yesterday. Permits for new residences totaled $2,889,950; nonresidential, $2,257,623; repairs to existing structures, $703,838. The 1946 totals was $4,195,919.

Police Elect Officers

The Alexandria Police Association Tuesday night installed the following officers for 1948; President, Sergt. Warren W. Zimmerman; vice president, Pvt. Edwin C. Hanback; secretary, Miss Frances Haigley; treasurer, Corp. Leslie Saunders; new member of the board of trustees, Sergt. Robert A. Brenner.

Bakery Operator Fined

The operator of a Southwest bakery yesterday was ordered to pay a $200 fine on a contempt of court charge for violating terms of an injunction which forbade the bakery manufacturing food under unsanitary conditions.

Associate Justice Richmond B. Keech imposed the fine on Thomas Stethopulos, operator of the Athens Baking Co., 476 L st. sw., who pleaded guilty to the charge in District Court December 12. At that time Justice Keech gave him 30 days to clear his shop of mice and weevils.

The injunction had been issued in October, 1946, following a hearing in which officials testified they found rolls and bread produced in unsanitary conditions.

2 Jailed in Gaming

Two men were sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $50 each in Arlington County Court yesterday on charges of operating a "numbers" lottery.

Two hours later, Arlington police arrested George A. Jones, 32, a resident of a trailer camp at 2444 S. Glebe rd., Arlington, on the same charge. Detectives said Jones had $200 in cash and numbers slips on his person when arrested.

Sentenced yesterday were Roy H. Taylor, 40, of 250 N. Barton st., Arlington, and Edgar C. Dewhirst, 50, of 1219 N. Oak st., Arlington. They were arrested last month during a raid on a filling station owned by Taylor at Washington blvd. and N. Pershing dr.

Chest Goal Neared

Contributions received since closing of the Community Chest campaign have swelled the Montgomery County campaign fund to $113,000 of 91 per cent of the county's quota, according to Miss Mary Lucas, director of the county's chest and planning council.

Girl Scout Council Elects

Mrs. C. R. Niklason of 2300 N. Military rd., Arlington, was elected commissioner of the Girl Scout Council of Arlington County yesterday.

Other officers elected were: Mrs. A. A. Brown, first deputy; Mrs. J. S. Kendrick, second deputy; Mrs. A. C. Poling, third deputy; Mrs. R. W. Colton, recording secretary; Mrs. Elton Woolpert, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. W. S. Meyer, treasurer.

Hood Freshman Reported Missing

of Newton, N. J., an 18-year-old freshman student at Hood College, Frederick, Md., has been missing since Tuesday from the girls' school, it was reported yesterday. At Newton, police said they were unable to supply any clues to her whereabouts and there was no answer at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lorenzo

17 Face Gaming Trial

Seventeen persons arrested in two New Year's Eve gambling raids in Suitland, Md., are slated to face trial in Hyattsville Police Court at 10 a. m. today.

The raids, described as "the biggest" in a series made by Prince Georges County police in an intensified gaming drive, netted the arrest of Abe Plisco, also known as "Jewboy" Dietz, well-known in Washington gambling circles, along with 16 others.

Arlington Mobilizes

A meeting to mobilize Arlington's support for nonpartisan election of county board and school board members will be held at 8 tonight in Buckingham sorship of the Joint Legislative Committee.

The committee comprises representatives of the Better Government League, Civic Federation, League of Women Voters, Organized Women Voters and Citizens Committee for School Improvement.

Asks $25,000 for Fall

Mrs. Daviete C. Ficklen of 2900 Connecticut ave. nw., yesterday asked District Court to award her $25,000 damages for injuries she received when she fell to the sidewalk in front of the Shoreham Hotel.

Both the hotel and the District Government were named defendants in the suit. Mrs. Ficklen charged in the suit that last July she suffered a fractured neck and shoulder when she tripped and fell over a raised portion of the sidewalk.

2 ABC Stores Accused

James Nevros, proprietor of Central Lunch, 421 9th st. nw., was charged before the ABC Board yesterday with permitting gambling on his premises. Master Liquors, Inc., 714 K st. nw., was accused of failing to affix the store's license number to liquor it sold.

A customer of the lunch room was alleged to have accepted a $2 bet on a horse from a plainsclothes policeman last April. Nevros said he did not know what the customer was doing.

Saul J. Decker, president of Master Liquors, pleaded that pressure of business and failure of an employe to carry out his assigned duties caused a few bottles of whisky to be sold without the store number affixed to the bottle.

$630, Safe Stolen

Thieves stole a safe containing $630 Tuesday night from the Vernon Theater, 3707 Mount Vernon ave., Alexandria.

For Cleaner Streets

Increased building activity in Montgomery County has led to adoption of an ordinance by the county commissioners requiring contractors to clean up streets near construction jobs.

The ordinance, which became effective Tuesday, provides for a $25 fine for all persons convicted of failure to clean up dirt-littered streets for which they are responsible.

The ordinance also applies to property owners whose soil has been washed over public thoroughfares by rain. In each case, a 48-hour period of grace is allowed and then a maximum fine of $25 for each day the dirt remains may be imposed.

Engineers Society Inducts 41 Middies

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 7 (AP).—Midshipmen proficient in mechanical engineering stepped into professional circles today.

The American Society of Mechanical Engineers inducted 41 members of the Middies' Mechanical Engineering Club at a ceremony in Memorial Hall. It marked the first time a midshipman's group has been affiliated with a national professional organization.

Md. Aid Sum Misses Half of Estimated Need

Baltimore, Jan. 7 (AP).—The Maryland Public Welfare Department pays a family of four on relief $1252 yearly, whereas Federal standards set the need at $3260 to maintain health and decency.

Anna D. Ward, secretary of the Council of Social Agencies, said Maryland payments should be made more nearly adequate and that the State needs more institutions to care for relief cases that hospitals cannot handle.

C. L. Wright Elected Mayor of Middletown

Middletown, Va., Jan. 7.—C. L. Wright has been elected mayor of Middletown by members of the town council to fill the unexpired term of Fred J. Larrick, who resigned.

The town council also passed a license tax ordinance, which becomes effective immediately and requires a license for all place transacting business in the corporate limits.

Philatelists' Field Day

Purple Stamp Will Mark Gold Rush Days; Fergusons End Holiday in the Sun

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

HAROLD AMBROSE, administrative assistant to the Postmaster General, estimates there are 15 million philatelists in the United States. Most of them will be interested in the new stamp to be issued January 24 in commemoration of the first gold discovery in California. It is a three-center, special delivery size, a lovely purple job reproducing Sutter's Mill where James Marshall spotted a gold gleam in the sluiceway waters. The stamp is to be sold first at Coloma, a town on the American River nearest the old mill site and not far from Sacramento. There are going to be what is blithely termed "appropriate" ceremonies, and one of the chief planners is no less a personage than Joseph R. Knowland, father of California Senator William Knowland.

California Centennials

MR. KNOWLAND, a former president of California's Native Sons, and chairman of a committee to preserve historic landmarks, is now chairman of California's Centennial Commission. During the next two years, California will be awash with anniversaries, and Mr. K.'s first job is to assemble a list of centennial celebrations. The three big events, all sheer heaven to up-and-coming Chambers of Commerce, will be (a) discovery of gold on January 24, 1848; (b) start of the '49 gold rush and (c) the admittance of California to the Union on September 7, 1850.

Sawmills and Saloons

THE DISCOVERY of California's gold is a fascinating tale of sawmills, saloons and hard-bitten mining gents. James W. Marshall, who worked in Sutter's sawmill, fished out of the sluiceway either a small nugget or a flake of gold (nobody's sure which), hotfooted to show it to his boss, Sutter, who hung out in more comfortable Sacramento. They decided to keep the discovery secret, though a close buddy of Marshall's also fished gold in his spare time. Likker was his undoing. Visiting a nearby saloon, its bar commanded by a forceful character named Brannan, and having no hard cash to pay for drinks, he covered the check with a couple of gold flakes. Right then and there the gold rush was on!

The Patten Flurry

THE GOLD rush's most intimate impact on social Washington was the advent of the Patten family. Mrs. Patten, backed by sackfuls of nuggets, arrived in the Capital towing four daughters, built the grim red brick house (now being demolished) opposite the Townsend pile on Massachusetts ave. The Pattens created a heady flurry. The three humorous, unmarried sisters—Mary, Josephine, Nellie—are gone. The sole survivor of the Louis Bromfieldish epic is Edythe, the widow of Gen. Henry C. Corbin. So, come January 25, get your own slice of gold rush by snapping up one of those nice purple stamps!

Vacation Tan for Ferguson

DEVOTEES of Senate investigations, refreshed after a breather, may not recognize their old pal and leading player, genial Senator Homer Ferguson. Gone is the caucus room pallor; he's browner than a ton of those irritatingly proverbial berries. The Senator and his lissome lady have indulged in their first real vacation in five years. Ten straight sunny days in Nassau.

SENATOR FERGUSON

For almost the first time on record, the Fergusons did precisely what they wanted. They stayed with friends on a spit of land distant from the tourist center. They ignored telephones, never peeked at newspapers—and reveled in a favorite sport, reading aloud to each other.

The vacation was auspicious from start to finish. The Fergusons left Miami in the rain; half way to Nassau, the sun came out. They left Nassau in a faint drizzle; half way to Miami the sun crashed through the clouds! Right now, of course, they're having a terrible time catching up on what's happened when they were away.

Egyptian Discoveries

FRIENDS of Georgetown's Henry Fields will be happy to learn he's been having himself quite a time among Egypt's hoarier remains! Henry, who returned to Washington briefly after two blissful years partly spent measuring Indian skulls (alive) in Mexico, is part and parcel of the University of California's expedition. Recently he's shared discovery of an ancient fort somewhere south of Suez and helped dig up (literally) evidence that probably Moses was human enough to take an easier way! In less parabolic terminology, Moses led his Israelites through a lake of reeds instead of shooing the Red Sea waves apart, it appears from investigations.

Fala's Successors, Feller and Mike, Are in Limelight at Press Conference

First there was Fala, then Feller, but where's Mike, asked someone at Mrs. Truman's press conference yesterday. Mike rightfully comes after Fala, a gift of Postmaster General Robert E. Hannegan to Miss Margaret Truman. But he is no longer in residence at the White House.

The Irish setter was a happy little red head who grew very fast. He was sent out to Independence, Mo., early in the summer of '45 to have a good romp, and he has remained in the Middle West ever since.

The new dog, Feller, has been seen but briefly about the White House, and usually on occasions when he is being photographed by the press.

Gen., Mrs. Cox Entertain At Tea Party

THREE sisters, Mrs. Addison Baker, Mrs. Alfred I. du Pont and Mrs. Albert J. Bowley, were entertained at a tea yesterday by Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Albert L. Cox. The guests of honor are long standing friends of the hostess. Mrs. Baker and Mrs. duPont are on their way to Florida, stopping over in Washington for a few days to visit with Mrs. Bowley.

On her tea table, Mrs. Cox had pale pink and white camelias, sent to her from her family's plantation in Wilmington, N. C. Assistants who poured were Mrs. Virgil L. Peterson, Mrs. John Greely and Mrs. William Lively, daughter of Mrs. Cox.

Between 30 and 40 guests attended, including Gen. and Mrs. John N. Greely, Rear Admiral Joseph James Clark, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. H. Conger Pratt, Col. and Mrs. Charles F. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Berkeley Simmons, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Harry Vaughan, the assistant to the President and Mrs. John Steelman, Senator Clyde R. Hoey, Mr. and Mrs. Laurence H. Green, Senator and Mrs. Scott Lucas, Senator and Mrs. Chapman Revercomb and Gen. and Mrs. Wade Hampton Haislip.

Earlier in the day Mrs. Greely entertained for Mrs. duPont and Mrs. Baker at a luncheon at the Chevy Chase Club.

Jango Rush Tea Is Feature of Membership Drive

The second half of the Junior Army-Navy Guild Organization's invitation membership program got under way yesterday afternoon when Mrs. Harry Hill, wife of Vice Admiral Hill, commandant of the National War College, opened her home for a "rush tea" for Jangos in the 14 to 18 age group.

After a brief message by Mrs. John W. Bowman, Jango president, a poem describing the organization and its activities was recited by Ruth French. Prospective members visited "workshop corners" where representatives of Jango's various projects dispensed information.

Mrs. E. C. B. Danforth, jr., Jango chairman of the National Boxer Show to be held at Fort Myer on January 30, brought members up to date on preparations for this event and mentioned that entries in the dog show close on January 18.

Mrs. Robert Chaplin and Mrs. Ralph Walker were in charge of arrangements for yesterday's party.

Official Families Gather To Hear President Speak

By Marie McNair

IF MEMBERS of the Congress found little to applaud in President Truman's message on the state of the Union, there were galleryites who did. Vigorous hand clapping from one section of seats broke out at mention of the President's recommendation that taxes be cut.

Mrs. Truman, her daughter, Margaret, and William D. Pawley, American Ambassador to Brazil, looked down from the front row of the executive gallery on diplomats and dignitaries and Congressmen jouncing restless children on their knees. The scarlet scarf of Representative Edith Nourse Rogers matching the camellia on her shoulder was a single spot of color against the somber blues and grays of her colleagues' suits. Representative Margaret Chase Smith from Maine, wore gray tweeds, so did Mrs. Frances Bolton, Representative from Ohio.

Henri Bonnet, Ambassador of France, made his first appearance since a siege with pneumonia kept him confined to the embassy for several weeks. He followed the Norwegian Ambassador, Wilhelm Munthe de Morgenstierne, first in the procession of chiefs of missions who heard the address from the House floor. Mme. Bonnet and Mme. Bruggmann, wife of the Swiss Minister, were side by side in the diplomatic gallery.

Wears Winter Costume

Mrs. Truman's pale blue feather hat was a gay note in her otherwise winter weather costume—a black frock under a fur coat. Margaret Truman wore a cocoa brown with an oversize deeper brown beret and a squirrel coat. Mrs. Arthur Vandenberg, wife of the President Pro Tem of the Senate, all in black, sat with the President's family, and in the group, too, was Mrs. George Mesta, in black with emerald green gloves and hat.

Presidential Adviser Clark Clifford was in the official gallery with Mrs. Clifford, who was wearing pale heliotrope tweeds accented with a purple blouse and hat.

Only Cabinet wife I saw was Mrs. Tom Clark, wife of the Attorney General, wrapped in mink with a pheasant feather piercing her tiny brown hat. With her was Mrs. Charles Carr, her guest from Los Angeles, and Mrs. Curtis Shears.

Mrs. Stanley Reed and Mrs. Harold Burton, wives of Supreme Court Justices, two faithful attendants on special congressional occasions, were there yesterday and I spotted Mrs. John Davis Lodge, wife of the Representative from Connecticut, listening intently, her chin cupped in her hands, and on her blonde hair a gaucho hat of red wine felt draped with a veil.

Costumes Are Colorful

The gold-colored crepe gown of Mrs. Charles Ross, wife of the presidentia lsecretary stood out from the last row in the executive gallery, and Mrs. Eugene Carusi's red topcoat over her arm was an effective contrast to her frim black suit and hat.

Mme. van Kleffens, wife of the Netherlands Ambassador, sat quietly throughout the 45-minute speech, and others there were Mrs. Charlese S. Dewey, wife of the former Representative from Illinois; Mrs. Leverett Saltonstall, wife of the Senator from Massachusetts; Miss Carolyn Nash, Jean Beliard of the French Embassy, and Mme. Malik, wife of the Lebanese Minister. In the corridor I met Mrs. William B. Bankhead, widow of the Speaker of the House, looking as smart and chipper as ever, in slim black, with a silver fox jacket and beige beret on her fair hair. Here on her annual visit, she is stopping at the Mayflower, where she and the late Representative Bankhead used to make their home.

Brown—Janney

In a setting of white flowers and candlelight, Miss Jeanne MacPherson Janney and Robert Freeman Brown were married on December 27 at 4:30 p. m. at Cedar Grove Farm near Manassas, Va., ancestral home of the bride's mother. Mrs. Brown is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Janney of Osceala, Iowa, and New York City, and Mr. Brown is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Erving Lee Brown of Raleigh, N. C.

The bride attended Hollins College and was graduated from the University of Missouri. Mr. Brown attended school in North Carolina and served in the Navy during the war on the USS Langley.

Miss Anne Pendleton Janney, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and little Olivia Leachman Litsey was flower girl. Hubert Andrew Glover of New York City was best man.

After the honeymoon in Havana, Mr. and Mrs. Brown will be in Miami for the season and will make their home in New York City.

Miss Virginia Lou Smith, wearing a gold suit with brown accessories and a corsage of yellow roses, served as maid of honor. Best man was Robert L. Main.

On return from their wedding trip to Philadelphia, Pa., the newlyweds will reside in Washington, D. C. Mrs. Brownson was graduated from Miss Semple's School in New York City and attended Sullins College, Bristol, Va.

Anderson—Worthington

Miss Virginia Irene Worthington and Roy Irvin Anderson were married January 3 in University Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Cecil W. Lower officiating. Mrs. Anderson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Worthington, and her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin R. Anderson of Kenosha, Wis.

MRS. ROY ANDERSON
... January bride

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white satin, with fitted bodice and long train. Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a coronet of seed pearls, and she carried a bouquet of white roses. Her sister-in-law, Mrs. George S. Worthington, was her matron of honor, gowned in rose taffeta and carrying a bouquet of white carnations.

Glenn N. Anderson, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man, and the ushers were George S. Worthington, brother of the bride, and Donald K. Anderson, brother of the bridegroom.

Food Conservation To Be Continued At White House

Eggless and meatless days will continue at the White House even if abandoned elsewhere. Mrs. Mary Sharpe, housekeeper at the Executive Mansion, said yesterday that no bread would be served at the luncheon Mrs. Truman is giving Saturday for Cabinet ladies, nor at the semi-official luncheon the following Thursday.

Toast now and then for breakfast is the only time bread is served at the White House. All State dinners were canceled for the 1947-48 season, and at receptions only punch is served. This is to conserve food needed overseas, Mrs. Sharpe said.

Party Events Of the Day

IN CELEBRATION of the passing of Christmas vacation . . . when the house was full of youngsters, their best friends, their house guests, their innumerable chums . . . that was the occasion for the late afternoon party given yesterday by Mrs. Samuel A. Alexander at her Indian Lane home.

To it she invited a small group of friends, most of whom were eager for chats with adult friends after a fortnight's siege of young-fry entertaining. Mrs. Leo Brison Norris, mother of eight hardy youngsters, was there. And there was Mrs. Joseph R. Farrington, wife of the Delegate from Hawaii; Mrs. William Foster Burdick, Mrs. Royce Powell, Mrs. Logan Morris, Mrs. Arthur Hall, Mrs. Richard Wheeler, Mrs. Edward Sweeney, Mrs. H. R. Stamm and Mrs. Ann Cote.

Others included Mrs. Robert Dyer, Mrs. Parker West, Mrs. Morris Maxwell, Mrs. Henry Stehl, Mrs. Frederick Cullen, Mrs. Edgar Quayle and several others.

Mrs. Samuel W. Dubois Honors Mrs. Pride

MRS. SAMUEL W. DuBOIS entertained at tea yesterday to introduce Mrs. Alfred N. Pride, new charman of the volunteer women of the District of Columbia Auxiliary in the Navy Relief Society. Mrs. Pride is the wife of the Chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics.

The hostess served as chairman of the volunteer women during the past year. Her house was lighted by pink candles for the party, and masses of pink flowers sent by the auxiliary ladies decorated the rooms. Mrs. George Hussey and Mrs. Kenneth Noble presided at the tea table. Among the other guests were Mrs. John Nicholas Brown and Mrs. Emory Land.

Your Questions on Homemaking

I have a lovely old Russian linen tablecloth, hand-embroidered richly in blue. Taking it out after many years, I find it has a large stain which looks rather like coffee, though I am not sure what it is. How can I remove this stain without injuring the embroidery? D. C. J.

Removing old stains is very difficult, especially if there are colors in the material or its decorations that may be damaged in the process. If you haven't washed the cloth yet, try that first (provided it's washable, of course). If this doesn't help, try a mild bleach like hydrogen peroxide and sodium perborate or borax (1 teaspoon of the borax or perborate to 1 pint of peroxide). Try it out first on some inconspicuous place to be sure it won't affect the blue embroidery. Sponge the spot with this solution, leave a few minutes, then rinse with water. If you think the spot could be rust, you might try a rust-removing soap on it. There's one that comes in tubes and is sold by a large chain drug store at 14th st. and New York ave. nw.

I have a red silk faille knitting bag—a Christmas gift—on which milk was accidentally spilled. It has left quite a stain. Can you tell me how to remove this without leaving a ring? R. H. W.

It's hard to guarantee a spot-removing treatment against leaving a ring. So much depends on the material you use it on and your own care in the treatment. I'd suggest using carbon tetrachloride to take the milk spot out this bag, however, since with water you run a greater risk of spotting. Lay the stained material wrong side up on a pad or soft cloth. Apply the remover to the back of the cloth, so that the stain is washed from the material without having to pass through it. Sponge with light brushing motions, working from the outside of the spot to the center. Work rapidly and use solvent sparingly. It is better to apply the solvent several times quickly, than to apply it once and leave it on for a long time. If the bag isn't too large, you might sponge all of one side or panel with the carbon tetrachloride to insure against a ring.

I am interested in finding out where I can buy leather (such as doeskin and pigskin) for making gloves. E. M. K.

I have been able to locate only one shop in Washington that handles such leather and it has none in stock at the present time. However, this store may be able to obtain some of this leather for you within the near future. I'd suggest telephoning EX. 0961 and talking to one of the men in the shop about it.

I read your daily column with interest and note C. P. L.'s concern in a recent letter about making hors d'oeuvres in advance. I find that sauteing rounds or squares of bread in oleomargarine or butter until crisp will prevent sogginess developing in hors d'oeuvres made ahead of time. E. W. H.

I have some unbleached homespun weave cotton that I plan to make into a tablecloth and a place mat set. What is the best and simplest way to bleach the cloth white? B. H.

Sodium perborate is one of the softest bleaches to use for all material. Soak the material a half hour or longer in sodium perborate and soapsuds in the proportion of four tablespoons perborate to one pint soapy water. Remove from the bleach and rinse thoroughly. Another way of bleaching it would be to soak in a solution of packaged color removers which can be bought where dyes are sold. Also, adding household bleach to the wash water will whiten it. Rinse well and dry, if possible, in full sunlight.

I have three lovely pairs of criss-cross tie-back curtains that I should like to use in my bedroom, but I also have venetian blinds. I have heard so many pros and cons as to whether or not this procedure is proper that I have decided to take my problem to you. E. K.

Venetian blinds are substitute for shades and can be used with any type drapes or curtains and all periods of furniture. So, it is perfectly proper to use them with criss-cross tie-back curtains.

Do you know of any place in Washington (Baltimore, New York, or any place else) which sells wire frames for lamp shades? I have had such good success in re-covering old lamp shades that I now want to try making some new ones, but my efforts to find frames have been unavailing. I have tried all the hobby shops, and many of the electric supply and art supply houses which are listed in the telephone book, so I now turn to you for help. H. H. C.

The owner of a local firm making lamp shades to order tells me that she will sell wire frames. She can be reached at DEcatur 0767. Also, some of the inexpensive shades sold at dime and variety stores are on wire frames. Their covers can be easily removed and the new shades attached.

Is there any way to bleach a white rayon blouse that is faded pink? B. H.

To bleach rayon, mix one level teaspoon sodium perborate with one pint of hydrogen peroxide. Soak the freshly washed garment for 15 minutes in this solution, remove and rinse well. Be sure to use the mixture as soon as prepared, for it loses its strength rapidly.

Where can I have a sweater blocked? B.H.

Clothes cleaning firms will block sweaters. Be sure to provide the firm with measurements to which you wish the sweater blocked.

I would like to know where you can buy tongs (to lift bottles, etc., out of the sterilizer) that will not rust. M.H.

Tongs which will serve your purpose very well can be purchased at dime and variety stores and are called utility or corn tongs. These have a chromium like finish which will resist rust.

Housework Is Not Enough To Keep Slim

By Ida Jean Kain

Lack-a-day, housework does not keep a gal in shape—or even in fair condition. Of course, the average may not apply to you, but surveys show that Mrs. Average Housewife in a single year washes a full acre of dishes, scrubs three miles of floor, and trots a mile and a half just getting dinner. If all that isn't streamlining, what is? Calisthenics.

But cheer up. A small amount of exercise will give you more energy and can even put gimp in your will power. It's live tone in the middle muscles that strengthens the vital organs and quickens energy. Too, when you feel firm through the middle instead of bulky, it seems more worthwhile not to overeat.

These girdle-toners are not restricted to housewives of course. They're for all women who want to dodge the middle-age spread.

First, assume the exercise position which helps restore the abdominal organs to their normal place.

Position—Lie on back on floor, feet elevated to chair seat, knees straight.

Movement—Pull up vigorously with the lower abdominal muscles, press small of the back flat against the floor, and flex one knee to chest. Return foot to chair and vigorously flex other knee toward chest. Continue for 12 counts, later 25, always centering the action on the firm up and in-pull of the middle muscles.

To tone the side-front muscles, do the following exercise.

Position—Lie on back on floor, knees bent, soles on floor, arms down at sides, palms on floor.

Movement—Raise hips two inches off floor and with a vigorous motion swing the hips toward the right side with an uptilt to feel a definite contraction and in-pull in the muscles that band the side-front of the abdomen. Swing hips to other side, tilting upward. The action should definitely be felt in the oblique abdominal muscles. Keep shoulders on floor throughout the exercise. Perform slowly 10 times, relax, and repeat 10 more times. Later work up to twice that number. The action must be concentrated on the in-pull of the abdominal muscles more than on the swing of the hips.

Devoted Parents Are on Edge, Trying to Help Lovely Gifted Daughter, 15, Rise Above Social Handicap Posed by Mentally Deficient Brother

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: You have been so wonderful about helping others that my husband and I want your kind consideration of our problem, which is causing us increasing anxiety as time goes on.

We have two children, a daughter 15 and a son 13. The girl is very beautiful, very sweet, a very good daughter and devoted sister. Also she sings beautifully and is a very good mixer amongst all boys and girls.

Now she is beginning to have beaux, nice young lads between the ages of 17 and 19, from good families, who call on her here at home. And as it happens our son is a very nervous child with a low mentality. He has been this way since he was dropped in early infancy by my maid.

They Try to Keep Boy in Background

HE IS a good looking boy, a perfect physical specimen for his age; but at times he says the most foolish things—as if he were six years old,—makes peculiar faces, talks to himself and has other peculiarities. My husband and I are very upset over this; and especially concerned lest it affect Kathie's friendships.

Until now, when she's had any friends in for the evening, we have let Jack stay in the room just long enough to be introduced, and then have taken him to the kitchen and got him busy at other things,—so that he won't foolishly cause embarrassment to her or them.

But how long can we do this? Already the situation has us on edge. If we always stay home with him, some visitor may carry the story to others and then my daughter would lose all her friends. If anything of the sort should happen, I know it would break her heart; and my husband and I are constantly worrying over this. Please tell us what we can do.

L. B.

Medical Slant Reported Here

DEAR L. B.: I have reviewed your story with two doctors, one a general practitioner, the other a psychoanalyst, each of whom is professionally acquainted with family pictures such as yours.

And each, though carefully stressing the scant descriptive material afforded by your letter, nonetheless said there is no mistaking the fact that Jack is a permanently handicapped child, whose stunted or damaged mental faculties never will function much better than as of today.

Thus it follows, they point out, that he simply can't meet ordinary social situations in the same way that normally endowed individuals do; and as he grows older, his mental disability will become more marked in contrast to others his age whose social competence and mental powers are developing normally.

The general practitioner tersely remarks, "He should be kept entirely out of the public eye." He thinks it a mistake, unfair to Jack and others concerned, to bring him forth for introductions when company comes.

Special Care Best for Boy

THE psychoanalyst amplified this slant. He discussed the increasing complexity of the problem when parents of a mentally handicapped child, having other children, try to keep the afflicted one at home, while also striving to keep a normal face on the situation—which can't be done.

On the one hand, home life to expedite the welfare of normal children—as for instance Kathie—must be relieved of morbidly anxious tension; and on the other hand, a mentally handicapped youngster given any leeway for getting about in the community is per se a target for worse misfortune.

Since his concepts of right and wrong are dim at best, and he lacks the acumen to defend himself against rascally overtures, he may become involved in lawless disreputable experiences as perpetrator or victim.

So what to do? The constructive alternative is institutional care as a permanent program, drastic though this may seem to loving parents. Here the child, when once adjusted to a way of life specially designed to meet his needs, will gain more security, comfort and happiness in terms of group-acceptance than could ever be his if he were kept on sufferance in a large world beyond his ken,—so my consultants say.

One on the Aisle—

Perils of Paulette

C. B. Unlimbers A Ft. Pitt Epic

By Richard L. Coe

HISTORY, via Cecil B. DeMille, is always so much better than the real thing. The old master of colossal whoop-de-do is at it again, in "Unconquered," at the Palace.

This time he's concerned with those wild, treacherous dastards, the American Indians of the eighteenth century. It's a very movie-like movie. The snow-white virtuous are tested to the limits of cinematic endurance by black-hearted villains who want only money and power and power and money and love, love, love.

With painstaking detail, DeMille has tied together enough facets of the 1760's to have kept his researchers at work for two years. He gives you: London's Old Bailey, where a poor, defenseless, innocent lass may choose to hang by her neck until dead or else go to America as a slave for 14 years; shipping condition of the period; the port of Norfolk; the Peakstown fair—with 150 copper mugs, 100 pounds of giant squash and 300 pounds of onions; Navajos, Pueblos, Cherokees, Creeks, Senecas and Ottawas; a young soldier named Col. George Washington; old Fort Pitt and new, bustling Pittsburgh; two gentlemen discussing a line they've just drawn on a map, a Mr. Mason and a Mr. Dixon.

He's given us Paulette Goddard to be fought over (not with blows, albeit, but with heavy glances) by Gary Cooper and Howard Da Silva; Paulette as a slavey washing up a wooden floor; Paulette about to be hung by the beastly British; Paulette about to be burned at the stake by the bloodthirsty Indians; Paulette about to go over a waterfall in a one-paddle canoe; Paulette retching at the sight of an Indian massacre; Paulette being sold as a slave; Paulette in a green gown from Paris; Paulette in a homespun nightie; Paulette sud-soaked in a barrel bath. Paulette being snubbed by a Dixie-talking lass who might be the great-great-great-grandma of Scarlett O'Hara.

"UNCONQUERED." Paramount release produced and directed by Cecil B. DeMille. Screenplay by Charles Bennett, Fredric M. Frank and Jesse Lasky, Jr., from the novel by Neil H. Swanson. Music by Victor Young. Technicolor directed by Natalie Kalmus. At the Palace.

Tumultuous Days

These perils of Paulette, Cecil broadly points out, were shared by everyone who lived in that tumultuous past. But their patriotism, bravery, daring and clean hearts finally gave us peace and plenty at the conflux of the mighty Allegheny and Monongahela Rivers, Pittsburgh.

It's quite a story DeMille relates and we won't anticipate one of his cliches for you. (His writers have given his actors such terrifying things to say, in all seriousness, as "This is greater than you or me," and "You can't force me to live any more than you can force me to love.")

DeMille explains his ability to crowd all these events into a mere 126 minutes by a revealing footnote in a handsomely published booklet about "Unconquered." That points out: "Mr. DeMille has knowingly exercised dramatic license here. Actually the Mason-Dixon Line was stopped at Dunkards Creek in 1767, not 1763. Likewise, the violent controversy over Pittsburgh took place a decade after the period of 'Unconquered,' but the seeds of the conflict were sown earlier."

'Ten-'Twent-'Thirt

For all DeMille's ability to patch history into lifelike proportions, it's too bad he either won't permit or can't find script writers whose lines will sound like something other than blown-up balloons from the comic strips. To be sure, this is a refinement of motion picture making that has never bothered him a whit. He has been content to chock his pictures full of action and visual excitement. In "Unconquered" he certainly has succeeded in this aim. The fact remains that "Unconquered" is ten-'twent-'thirt melodrama despite its inflated admission price.

He has directed his cast with characteristic skill. Gary Cooper is the stalwart hero, acting with zest and looking a generation younger than he's a right to; Miss Goddard goes through her dazzling perils with Pearl Whitean relish; Howard Da Siva's villian was born with a sneer. Others in the cast include Boris Karloff, as Guyasuta, of the Senecas; Katherine DeMille as the villian's Indian wife; Henry Wilcoxson, as an Army type, and literally thousands of others.

And it's good to see Nan Sunderland (Mrs. Walter Huston) acting again; her few moments as a frontier woman whose child lies dead in her arms are commanding.

HOLDOVER WEEK: After the rush of new pictures over the holidays, it's relaxing (to reviewers, at least) to report that four of the downtown houses are holding over their films. "Tycoon" is staying a third week at Keith's, edging "The Wistful Widow of Wagon Gap" into next Wednesday for the Abbott and Costello fans . . . "The Great Mr. Handel" is holding on to the Little for a third week, with an accolade from District educators and special student rates made available through proper channels by the Little . . . "My Wild Irish Rose," the Chauncey Olcott ballad parade in green-dominated Technicolor, remains for a second week at the Warner . . . And down at the Hippodrome, "I Know Where I'm Going" is delighting everyone with its charming simplicity . . . Breaking records, too . . . Which couldn't happen to a nicer picture.

BY HER LILY-WHITE NECK: Paulette Goddard, in the dock at Old Bailey, hears the judge tell her she may choose between hanging by her neck until dead or going to America as a bond slave. Smart Paulette chose to live, though only after many perils does she lie safely in the arms of Gary Cooper. This scene is the first in "Unconquered," the new Cecil B. DeMille spectacle at the Palace

Gen. Meyers Denies Guilt, To Face Trial

The trial of Maj Gen. Bennett E. Meyers, retired AAF procurement officer, was set for February 16 yesterday, after he entered a not guilty plea in District Court here to the Government's charges of perjury and dinducing another to lie under oath.

Federal Judge David A. Pine gave defense attorneys 10 days to file motions atacking the indictments.

The dapper general, former chief of the Army Air Force Materiel Command, was composed and unruffled as he entered a firm "not guilty" plea to each of two three-count indictments.

One indictment charges he perjured himself when he told the Senate War Investigating Committee he was not "financially interested" in the Aviation Electric Co. he founded in Dayton, Ohio; when he denied under oath that the firm's funds paid for a handsome Cadillac car; and when he denied that the firm paid $10,000 to redecorate his Hotel 2400 apartment.

The other charges that he induced Bleriot H. Lamarre, 35-year-old "dummy" president of Aviation Electric, to tell the same perjuries to the committee. Lamarre, arraigned yesterday, pleaded guilty to perjury, and has returned to his job as a gasoline station attendant in Dayton.

The stocky, bald, 52-year-old general was released on bond after he was fingerprinted and photographed in the United States marshal's office. Through William J. O'Neil, whose business cards say, "Bondsman anywhere ,any time," Meyers posted two new bonds of $1000 each.

Meyers, who faces further and more serious charges by the Department of Justice, joked and laughed with reporters as he left the courthouse. He said that in due time he would "complain" about being unceremoniously stripped of his medals and his $550-a-month disability retirement pay by the Army and the Air Forces.

EXTRA
It will pay anyone who is looking for an office position to investigate the "Extras" our service has to offer.
(1) If you are interested in learning more about yourself (your personality traits, the type work in which you would be more successful) we give a short, interesting "Personality-Aptitude" test. You will enjoy it.
(2) Before sending you out for an interview with a prospective employer you may have a copy of our "Do's and Don't's"—suggestions that help to make your interview successful.
(3) We have prepared a pamphlet for you describing some of the essentials of "How to Make a Success of Your Job."
(4) There is no charge for any of the above and there is no registration fee.
(5) Only after you are actually "on the job" is there an amazingly low placement fee.
You will say, "It's all too good to be true."
Until you come in and see for yourself that we really are.

GARRETT PARK
This beautifully situated bungalow has an "Old English" charm easily augmented by well-placed ivy and additional shrubs. The front lawn is terraced below street level in front and supported by a charming red brick retaining wall that incloses a sunken garden along the side of the basement wall. Remaining land slopes away from the house at basement level towards the rear. The house itself has 2 bedrooms, and an inclosed sleeping porch on the 1st floor, in addition to the usual living room, kitchen, etc. A full basement contains a recreation room with adjoining shower and toilet. The laundry and automatic hot-water heating plant occupy the remainder. This unusual property is in sound condition and is well adapted to the minor alterations an imaginative purchaser would desire. It is an ideal property for an artistically inclined person who enjoys "doing it yourself." The present owners are going to Mexico and offer the place completely furnished with the exception of a few personal belongings. The price is $13,750 for quick disposal. Inspection is by appointment only. Exclusive agents. Mr. Houlton.

Farmers' Food Exports Held Aid to Peace

Baltimore, Jan. 7 (AP).—No single group, nor any political maneuvering, can contribute as much to world peace as American famers by the food they send overseas, Senator Tydings (D., Md.) said today.

Lack of food weakens democracy, the Senator told 200 livestock growers at the Maryland Swine Breeders Association breakfast.

Tydings is president of the Maryland Stockmens Association, 1 of 10 farm groups which met today as part of the 32d annual Maryland Farm Bureau convention.

Some 5000 farmers, farm wives and 4-H Club youths held separate discussion groups and will hold a general session tomorrow—Farm Bureau Day—with a banquet, attended by Governor Lane and President H. C. Byrd of the University of Maryland.

At the stockmen's meeting, Charles A. Burmeister, livestock economist from the Department of Agriculture, predicted the meat shortage will continue at least two more years.

He said the meat shortage is aggravated by high wages, population increase and the fact stockmen are selling breeding stock due to high prices.

At the 4-H Club meeting, a watch was presented Robert Bull, 16, of White Hall, who won the annual 4-H junior leadership contest. William Dorsett, 19, of Sellman Montgomery County, was awarded a watch by the stockmen for the honors he took last month at the national livestock contest in Chicago.

Beekeepers were told the State is running out of honey because not enough basswood and sweet clover is being planted. George J. Abrams, extension agriculturist at the University of Maryland, said "too much valuable nectar in the State goes to waste because there aren't enough bees to extract i

The Maryland Nurserymen's Association elected J. H. Burton, Hyattsville ,president; Jack Rayner, Salisbury, vice president.

Other officers elected:

Associated Farm Women—Mrs. John Flook, Boonsboro, president; Mrs. Atlee Armour, Northeast, vice president.

Crop Improvement Association—T. A. Mann, Randallstown, president; Marvin Lowe, Pylesville, vice president; John W. Magruder, College Park, secretary, and Cecil K. Holter, Jefferson, director.

Four-H Club—Turner Weist, Sudlersville, president; James Gailbreath, Street, vice president; Marian Linthicum, Gaithersburg, secretary.

Stockmen's Association—H. H. Hackney, Finksburg, president; E. E. Stafford, White Hall, vice president; J. B. Outhouse, College Park, secretary.

Beekeepers Association—(Reelected for his eighth annual term) Harold L. Kelly, Silver Spring, president; Ethan A. Andrews, jr., Govans, vice president; George J. Abrams, secretary-treasurer.

Fredericksburg Cuts Fire Losses by Third

Fredericksburg, Va., Jan. 7.—Fredericksburg had a fire loss of only $6735 in 1947, according to the annual report of Fire Chief A. H. Stone.

The loss from fires in 1946 was about $10,000.

Md. Council Rejects Tax Deduction

Baltimore, Jan. 7 (AP).—The legislative council turned thumbs down today on a proposal that Marylanders be allowed to deduct income taxes paid the Federal Government from their State returns.

The council, passing five recommendations of its finance committee, also voted against sponsoring at the 1949 General Assembly session a withholding of State income taxes.

It approved elimination of the tax on gross receipts of safe deposit and trust companies, reduction of the franchise tax on savings bank deposits, and extended use of the simplified income tax form for salaries up to $10,000.

Senator L. Harold Sothoron (D., Prince Georges), finance committee chairman, reported that allowance of Federal taxes as a State reduction would mean an annual loss of four million dollars to Maryland. He said the State, in order to make it up, would only have to impose new taxes.

The proposal for a withholding State income tax was rejected as "impractical."

The council received from Adjt. Gen. Milton A. Reckord a proposal to revise a 1947 law authorizing a bond issue of $560,000 for armories in Prince Frederick, Oakland, Ellicott City and Leonardtown. Reckord recommended the bill be changed to provide for the erection of armories "at such other places as possible with the money available" in addition to the original four sites.

Water Tap-in Settlement Due at Parley

An agreement in the controversy over increased water and sewer connection rates in Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties is expected at a meeting Saturday of builders, plumbers, veterans, civic leaders and others.

The meeting will be held at 2:30 p. m. in the Silver Spring Armory.

A prominent builder, who declined use of his name, predicted a "compromise" would be effected at that time, although he did not say what form the "compromise" would take.

Credence was lent to the "settlement" reports by Harry R. Hall, chief engineer for the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission, who told reporters "the commission is perfectly willing to make any arrangement that will satisfy all parties concerned."

Another official interested in the current controversy said the rumored "settlement" might involve all future water and sewer connections being made by the Sanitary Commission.

The commission recently raised water and sewer connection rates to $575—almost seven times the previous rate—after an "agreement" between the commission and plumbers under which plumbers would make all connections on unimproved streets.

Needs Group to Meet

The first meeting of the newly formed committee on unmet needs will be held at 1:30 p. m., January 15, in the library of the Montgomery Hills Junior High School. The purpose of the meeting is to plan a survey of children in the eastern suburban area whose handicaps are keeping them out of school.

Crackdown On Parents Commended

The crackdown on parents of delinquent children by Prince Georges County authorities drew commendation yesterday from the county's 16-member Juvenile Court Advisory Committee.

The committee lauded the probation department for hailing into court 12 parents charged with failing to properly restrain their teen-age children.

It was pointed out that parents who permit their children to remain away from school also can be charged by the juvenile authorities.

The committee informally expressed opposition to any specific curfew for children, Chairman Jerrold Powers pointing out that conditions under which children are allowed to remain out at night may vary and depend largely on age.

A subcommittee was appointed to confer with county commissioners next Tuesday on plans for separate juvenile detention quarters in the County Service Building at Hyattsville. The subcommittee includes Powers, Police Chief Ralph Brown, State's Attorney A. Gwinn Bowie and County Probation Officer Roy Bright.

Body Found Beside Tracks

Prince Georges County police last night were investigating the death of a 21-year-old Maryland University student, whose mangled body was found beside the B&O Railroad tracks near Berwyn early yesterday.

The victim was identified thruogh Army discharge papers as Walter J. Vereen, of Raleigh, N. C., a second-year student in the university's School of Art and Sciences.

Police said the body was discovered about 8 a. m. by G. L. Danforth of Riverdale, Md., who was en route to work. Because of the condition of the body, it was impossible to determine how long he had been dead.

Young Vereen was last seen by his roommate in a private home near College Park around 8 p. m. Tuesday, police said. They declined to divulge the name of the roommate or the address of the home at which he roomed.

A tentative verdict of accidental death was issued by Dr. James I. Boyd, county medical examiner.

A GI student at the university, Vereen served 17 months in the Army Air Forces and was discharged as a private first class in November, 1945.

2 More Defendants Abandon Contest in Bank Case Retrial

Richmond, Va., Jan. 7 (AP).—Kyle M. Weeks and Joseph A. Sowers entered pleas of nolo contendere in Federal District Court today to charges they aided in the misapplication of more than $435,000 from the Farmers and Merchants State Bank of Fredericksburg.

Withdrawing earlier pleas of innocent, Weeks and Sowers raised to a total of four the number of defendants who abandoned the court contest in the first three days of retrial of the case.

Only the cases of Hugh N. Rakes and his wife, Lillian C. Rakes, were left to the District Court jury for a determination of guilt or innocence.

William Reeves Gardner, principal defendant in the case, pleaded guilty yesterday, while Judge Johnson J. Hayes ordered separate trials for Bank Presidents Joseph E. Proffit and Clarence L. Robey. Harry Lamson entered a plea of nolo contendere Monday.

The jury case against the Rakeses proceeded today only after Judge Hayes had denied a motion for a change of venue to another district in Virginia.

The motion was based on allegations by the Rakeses that such prejudice existed against them here that "they cannot obtain a fair and impartial trial in this district or division."

In his opening statements to the jury, United States Attorney George R. Hunrickhouse pointed out that Rakes was charged in 13 counts and his wife in 10 counts with aiding Gardner to misapply funds and credits of the Planters Branch of the Farmers and Merchants State Bank of Fredericksburg during 1942, 1943, and 1944.

During this time, the district attorney said, Gardner was first vice president of the Fredericksburg bank and was actively assisting Rakes in the financing of a number of dairy farms in Virginia and Wisconsin. Mrs. Rakes, he said, actively assisted her husband in the conduct of his business and banking affairs.

Defense Attorney R. H. McNeill told the jury in the defense's opening statement that his clients knew nothing of any misapplications that might have been made by Gardner. He asserted that each instance of an overdraft by Rakes was met with cash or with another check acceptable to the bank in question and that no loss occurred to any of the banks involved by reason of any action by Rakes or his wife.

He said Rakes was a man with extensive farm holdings who frequently grossed more than one million dollars a year in profits. McNeill described Rakes as a hardworking "country boy" who had been left, with his wife, to face charges when other defendants "went scuttling off."

All of Mrs. Rakes' actions, he said, were undertaken on the advice of her husband and with the sole purpose of assisting him in his complicated affairs.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

Big Reservoir "Mystery" Solved By Army Engineers

Several puzzled District Liners called me to ask the same question:

"Why are they breaking up the ice on the Georgetown Reservoir?"

They had seen some men rowing about in the reservoir, apparently intent on dispelling the film of ice which the cold snap had formed there.

And they couldn't think of any reason why anybody should undertake such a task. Except around intake pipes, how could the coating of ice do any harm?

For the answer, I called Edwin A. Schmitt, head engineer and chief of the Water Supply Division, of the Army's Corps of Engineers.

He explained that the reservoir has an earth bottom which, during the years, has become covered by a layer of soft mud.

In preparation for some new construction, the engineers are trying to find out how deep the reservoir is from surface to mud, and also how far it is from the top of the mud layer to the hard ground beneath it.

So the men in the boat are out taking soundings, and when ice forms on the surface of the pool, they have to break it to continue with their work.

See how simple these mysteries are when you know who dunnit?

BON VOYAGE

George R. O'Neill of 8501 Dixon ave., Silver Spring, Md., and Mrs. Herbert H. Lawhorn of 6309 Georgia st., Chevy Chase, Md., team up to report that a local theater recently advertised this twin bill:

- "Good Girls Go to Paris," also "Blockheads."

WHIFFENPOOFERS

When Virginia Bowers asked about the origin of the Whiffenpoof Song, I expected local Yalemen to inundate me with historical data.

But apparently the song's ancestry is as obscure to sons of Eli as it is to most everybody else.

A couple of readers said that it was based on Kipling's "Gentleman Ranker," and the ever-alert public relations guys at CBS sent around a script of a "Date With Jerry" show to substantiate that clue.

When Jerry Carter sang the Whiffenpoof Song a couple of Saturdays ago, it was explained that the name was taken from a 1909 musical comedy in which a whiffenpoof figured in a tall fish story.

The script added that the Yale singers were organized in that year, and tacked the whiffenpoof name to a song written by an Amherst man, Ted Galloway.

But Donald H. Sage of 4325 N. Pershing dr., Arlington, Va., enters a dissenting opinion. Says Don:

"I don't know when the Whiffenpoofs were organized, but it was long before 1909. They were going strong when my Dad was in college, in the '80s.

"The group is composed of a dozen gentlemen songsters, all members of the Yale senior class. The words of their song have local significance; Mory's was and is a student tavern devoted to good beer and consequently good singing. The Temple Bar was a pub, and the No. 1 waiter was (and probably always will be) 'Louie.'

"The Whiffenpoofs appear officially once a year—between halves of the Yale-Brown football game.

"The only other occasion when the Whiffenpoofs were heard was on a warm spring night when the moon was high and so were the Whiffenpoofs.

"Then they'd sit on the old Yale fence and sing for the delight of all the campus. Lights would go out and we'd all lean out of the windows and cheer them on. Romantic? Bet your life."

GIVE-AWAYS

"Two female pups, about 6 weeks old, also their mother of 9 months; of Norwegian terrier descent." (Owens 5746).

OVERHEARD

Youngster trailing down streetcar aisle with his mother: "Hey, Mom, I'm getting a free ride. I didn't even show the motorman my pass."

WISE GUY

I had been working late and smoking too much. One of the copy boys came in to deliver a message, but paused when he encountered the pall of smoke.

"Do you suppose," he mused "that we could seed it with dry ice and produce rain?"

Leonard Lyons . . .

NEW YORK—Last week President Truman offered the chairmanship of the Civil Aeronautics Board to former Senator Jim Mead of N. Y. This is the post held until recently by Dean Landis, who failed to be redesignated by the President.

The American Broadcasting Co. soon may acquire one of the world's largest recording companies.

J. Edgar Hoover revealed the other night that there isn't a single G-Man working in Europe or in South America. They've been recalled because the State Dept.'s Intelligence Division insists on using its own men. Heretofore there were G-Men working in every American Embassy abroad.

John W. Davis will represent the Kings County Court judges in their legal battle against the District Attorney's practice of handpicking the judges before whom criminal cases are tried. The judges allege that this gives the District Attorney an undue advantage—like a team being allowed to pick its own umpire. Davis will work without a fee.

Robert R. Young's angel in the Alleghany Corp., Allan Kirby, may withdraw his support of the noted industrialist.

Noel Coward visited Teddington-on-Thames with Beatrice Lillie and was persuaded to make a speech there. He turned to Miss Lillie, who shared the platform with him, and said: "Bea, this is the finest spa in the world, and I owe a lot to this place. For when I first came here I hadn't the strength to utter a word. I had scarcely a hair on my head. I couldn't walk across the room and I had to be lifted from my bed. I was born here."

On January 28 Brooklyn College will inaugurate the first course in contract bridge ever presented at an American college. The course, for beginners, is part of the adult education program and reflects the growing importance of bridge as a social asset. Albert A. Astrow has been selected as the course lecturer.

Revolutionary Plot Charged

By Drew Pearson

A plot by the Dominican Republic to send an armed invasion against Venezuela is charged in a "white paper" circulated among Latin-American Ambassadors by the Venezuelan Embassy. Written in Spanish, the paper accuses Dictator Trujillo of harboring Venezuelan enemies and purchasing arms for them in Brazil. As proof, a photostat is attached of an intercepted letter from Trujillo's private secretary to the Dominican foreign offices around the world.

Gen. Trujillo

Translated, the letter declares: "The Honorable President Trujillo has charged me to communicate to you that it is his wish that you attend to the exiled Venezuelans, enemies of the Caracas, who are residing in or who pass through your jurisdiction. Inform them that they will find in the Dominican Republic a good refuge, hospitality and protection, personal as well as political. Do all that is possible to convince them that they should come to reside in our country."

Bluntly, the white paper adds "The Venezuelan government has concrete proof that the Dominican Republic has had under its auspices for some time an armed movement against Venezuela, composed of exiled citizens from the Venezuelan revolution. The airports serve as training camps for these Venezuelan refugees who conspire the conquest of the republic from outside. Enemy agents against our government fulfill missions in America by means of diplomatic passports of the Dominican government. In some countries, official and foreign persons of the Dominican government have bought and continue to purchase arms for an armed movement against our country."

'Marshall Plan' For Navajos

Along with aid to Europe a "Marshall Plan" for the proud but poverty-stricken Navajo Indians will be demanded by the Interior Department, authorizing 80 million dollars worth of rehabilitation in our own back yard.

Interior has pleaded the Navajos' case upon Capitol Hill often, but this time Secretary "Cap" Krug feels that public indignation will force Congress' hand. Conditions on the parched, eroding Navajo Reservation have deteriorated to such a state that President Truman the other day issued a stirring appeal for emergency relief. The House Public Lands Committee promptly introduced a bill for two million dollars aid. But as soon as the winter crisis has been met, Krug is ready with a complete long-range program.

Now in the final planning stages, the program will call for:

1. Range improvement and soil conservation, nine million dollars. The Navajos live on the semiarid, sagebrush-dotted mesas in the corner of Arizona, New Mexico and Utah. The principal crop is grass, the major industry sheep raising. The land cannot support more than 35,000 people, but today 61,000 are trying to scratch a living from it. As a result the range is dying. One way to save it is to stop the water and wind from carrying away precious topsoil.

2. Education, $23,510,000. Seventy-nine per cent of the Navajos, living in the heart of America, cannot speak English. Yet the Federal Government pledged in 1868 to educate their children. Today, nearly 80 years later, three-fourths of the 20,000 school-age Navajos are forced to play hookey. It is Krug's plan to build more schools, hire more teachers and send out schools buses to round up the students.

3. Health, $3,935,000. White medicine men are doing the Navajos little more good than the chanting, magic-making native medicine men of their past. Reason: Too few doctors, too little training. Many who are supposed to be tending the sick never got inside a medical school. The result is the Navajos are ravaged by disease—30 per cent have venereal disease, 25 per cent are suffering from tuberculosis or lung ailments, 6 per cent are blind or eyesore, 6 per cent are physically handicapped. Most incredible is the infant mortality rate, 330 out of every 1000 babies die—before they are 2 years old.

4. Roads, 20 million dollars. Although it is larger than the State of West Virginia, the Reservation has less than 500 miles of rutted, dirt roads. Many families are virtually stranded by lack of transportation. To alleviate this, Krug hopes to build 600 miles of paved highway, 500 miles of serviceable, secondary roads.

5. Agriculture resettlement on the Colorado River, $6,750,000. To ease the population pressure, 1000 families could be transplanted along the banks of the Colorado below Headgate Rock Dam, Arizona. Here water is more abundant and soil is more fertile.

6. Small irrigation projects, $9,350,000. Of the reservation's 16 million acres, only 40,000 are producing sparse crops and but 16,000 are reached by irrigation ditches. The land must be watered if it is to yield produce.

Note—Many Navajo braves, who fought for this country during the war, are crying for the right to vote. It isn't supposed to be known yet, but several of them plan to take their battle for Indian suffrage to the Arizona State courts this month.
